J. J. F. Brunow, Mansfield Reed,* Alfred Shepherd*—3.

J. J. F. BRUNOW was born in Elberfeld, Germany, March 13, 1833. In early youth he attained to the first rank among his fellow-students, both from his talents and from his energy and zeal. His education was very thorough, and Brother Brunow in after years never failed to improve upon it. As a youth of nineteen he, like many others, desired to exchange the rigors of Prussian military-rule for the freedom of our republican institutions. He landed in New York in 1852. California with her riches proved irresistible to his enterprising mind. But the Lord there opened unto him the riches of his grace in Christ Jesus. At a camp-meeting held by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Bro. Brunow was soundly converted; he had come to scorn, but was soon brought to mourn. He rose from his knees a new man, and, to the utter astonishment of his former associates, was seen to mount the front bench and, full of the Holy Ghost and with a fiery eloquence, to proclaim the newly-found Saviour. In 1856 Bishop Pierce took him from California to Texas. At San Antonio, in 1859, the Lord sent him a faithful companion, who never failed to fully share in all the struggles and trials of a laborious ministry. Brother Brunow stayed in Texas, in connection with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, till nearly two years after the outbreak of the war. He then left Texas and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and went to New York. For a short period he labored on a German mission in the city of Newark, N. J., in connection with the Methodist Episcopal Church; but in 1866 accepted a call from the Second German Presbyterian Church of that city, and served them as a pastor with great acceptability and success for three years. But good old Methodism had a hold on him too strong to be resisted any longer. The Eastern German Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, assembled in Philadelphia in 1869, received Brother Brunow, and appointed him to our First German Church in the City of Brotherly Love. Brother Brunow's labors as a pastor were telling in every respect on the interests of our German Zion of that city. Toward the close of his third year there the call from Texas rang louder and louder in his ears. Brother Brunow loved Texas, and he responded gladly to the call. Bishop Janes transferred him to this Conference in December, 1871, and appointed him to the German Mission at Austin. Here Brother Brunow taxed his strength too severely. Overwork in the extreme heat of last summer broke him down. On August 1, 1872, his Lord and Master called him away from this world's sufferings and toil to the home of the blest, where there is rest—rest for the weary.

James A. Massey, John Brandreth—2.

1. JAMES AUGUSTUS MASSEY was born in Kent County, Md., Aug. 3, 1805, and died at Royal Oak, Talbot County, Md., July 9, 1872. The pious example of his Christian mother, and his own great fondness for reading, were means of his early conviction, and in his fifteenth year he gave his heart to God. Immediately he united with the Church. In 1825 he was licensed to exhort by Rev. James Smith of Delaware. His religious life at this early day was so perspicuous that his employers, though not religious, having confidence in him, were accustomed to furnish him with a horse and saddle to attend his various Church appointments.

He was licensed to preach in 1826, and admitted into the Philadelphia Conference in 1827. His appointments were: Milford Cir., Snow Hill, Salisbury, Asbury, West Philadelphi,a Annamessex, Accomac, Cambridge, Salisbury, Accomac, Snow Hill District, St. John's, Philadelphia, North Philadelphia District, Easton Circuit, Talbot Circuit, Kent, Salisbury, Princess Anne, Annamessex, Accomac, Seaford, Harrington, and Millington. In 1865 he was made supernumerary, and in 1867 superannuated. His last pulpit ministration was in Odessa, Del., where he preached while sitting in his chair, taking for his text Rev. vii, 13, 14, "What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they? And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb" He was a good minister. He often spent hours in prayer before entering his pulpit, and then, while unfolding the truth, without the magnetism of eloquence or the embellishments of rhetoric, the Holy Ghost came upon the people. The effect was great. As a pastor, too, he was very laborious and successful. In private life he manifested the spirit of Christ. The habit, begun in his fifteenth year, of praying on his knees five times daily, was kept up until he was too feeble for the service. He finished his course with joy and gladness.

2. JOHN BRANDRETH was born in Nottingham, England, July 25, 1838. He came to this country in youth, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in Germantown. In 1859 he joined the Philadelphia Conference. He was appointed to the following places: Pottstown, Pa., Schuylkill Haven, Montgomery Square, Chestertown, Md., Hillsborough, Trappe, Cambridge Circuit, Galetown, and Frankford, Del.

Brother Brandreth was a true Christian—amiable and loving. He was a ready, fluent talker; his sermons were carefully studied and well arranged, and in their delivery soul-stirring. As a pastor he cared for his people faithfully, and was duly appreciated and loved. After a protracted illness of thee months, he died October 3, 1872, at Frankford, Del. During his illness he preached Christ, and often expressed himself as perfectly willing to die. He loved to talk of heaven and the Cross. But before his death, when too feeble to speak, his hand was seen pointing to heaven.

1. RULIFF VANCLIEF LAWRENCE was born near Freehold, N. J., in 1825. His youthful days were not auspicious. Great privations and struggles marked his path. There was, however, an early thirst for knowledge, which he sought with all the ardor of his nature. At the age of eighteen he became teacher of the Farmingdale school, a position which he held for nine years. In 1848 he was married to Miss Rachel Parker Bond, who, with five children, survives him. He was a politician now, wrote for the county papers, spoke popularly at mass-meetings, studied Blackstone, and was looking toward national distinction. Sprightly and genial, he was a great favorite, but he was skeptical. Through affliction God at last led him to the cross, and he was converted in 1852. Nine months afterward he was licensed to preach. In 1855 he was elected Principal of the Freehold Academy. In 1856, still Principal of the Academy, he was employed by the Presiding Elder to assist Rev. J. F. Morrel on the Farmingdale Circuit. In 1857 he was admitted to the New Jersey Conference, and returned to the same circuit. During this year he entered into the personal enjoyment of Christian holiness through the aid of Rev. W. C. Stockton, under whose ministry he had been first brought to Christ. From this time holiness was the great theme of his heart and lips, and pen and life. His appointments were: Beverly, Williamstown, Salem, Mt. Holly, Liberty-street, New Brunswick, Keyport, Trinity Church, Trenton. He was ever unremitting in his toils for the promotion of the temperance cause. In 1872 he was transferred to Philadelphia Conference, and stationed at Wharton-street Church. His death was sudden. On June 23 he preached twice in his usual health. The next day he and the writer rode to Ocean Grove together, talking of future purposes and plans. On Tuesday evening he left his benedictions upon us, at our little cottage, in one of the tenderest prayers that fall from human lips. He left the next morning and reached his home at noon. From that time he labored and prayed and wrote until Friday afternoon, when he went to his bed sick. On Monday, July 1, he said to the writer, "I am going up, brother, going up," and shortly after died. His life its own praise.

2. CHARLES SCHOCK was born in Stuttgart, Wurtemburg, July 1, 1812, and died in Philadelphia, March 24, 1872, aged fifty-nine. His parents died when he was but a child, but the pious example of his mother had already deeply impressed his mind and lingered with him—a beneficent influence. He emigrated in 1829, and located in Philadelphia. He had been educated a Lutheran, but now he attended Methodist services, and was soon powerfully convicted of sin. He removed to Wilmington, Del., and there, under the ministry of the saintly Joseph Lybrand, found peace and joy in believing in Jesus. He found in this man of God a wise, loving, Christian counselor. Following his instructions he became a diligent student of the Scriptures, exercised his gifts, daily grew in favor with God and man, and was soon, upon the recommendation of his brethren, licensed to preach. He began his itinerant career in 1837, under the Presiding Elder, and joined the Philadelphia Conference in 1838. His appointments were: Halifax, Talbot, Nottingham, Denton, Milford, Northampton, Accomac, Princess Anne, Newtown, Nottingham, Worcester, Dorchester, Lewes, Church Creek, Berlin, and Supernumerary one year. In 1855 he was made Supernumerary, and continued in that relation till God took him. In 1843 he married Mrs. Sarah Allen, the widow of Rev. William Allen of the Philadelphia Conference, who survives him. During his itinerancy he preached two thousand five hundred and seventy-eight sermons, besides being abundant and arduous in his labors in prayer and class-meetings. And this active work for God did not cease with his active relation to the Conference while Supernumerary. On the Sabbath and on the evenings of the week he continually preached as opportunity offered among the poor and the outcasts of society, without fee or reward. He was an earnest total abstinence advocate, a sound theologian, a practical preacher, and, in his domestic and social relations, genial, kind, and faithful in the performance of his duties. His death was unexpected, and he unconscious of his approaching dissolution. But "it is well."

John Thrush, Edward E. Allen —2.

1. JOHN THRUSH was born in Shippensburgh, Cumberland Co., Pa., March 4, 1822, and died in Lewistown, Pa., July 12, 1872. He was an unpretentious boy of studious habits, and was favored with a good academical education. At a social prayer-meeting in a private house, in 1840, he professed faith in the atonement. He was soon licensed as an exhorter and local preacher. In 1845 he was admitted into the Baltimore Conference. In December, 1850, he was joined in marriage to Miss Rachel, daughter of John H. Mann, Esq., of Washington County, Md. His appointments were: Christiansburgh, Williamsburgh, Staunton, Rockingham, Williamstreet, Baltimore, Annapolis, West River, Union Chapel, and M'Kendree, Washington, D.C. In 1844 he was transferred to the Northwestern Indiana Conference, and stationed first at La Fayette, Ind.; then Laporte, South Bend, and Lewistown, Pa.

Brother Thrush was a man of attractive personal appearance and beautiful character. Gentle and winsome in his manners, he possessed at the same time an educated and tenacious will-power. His well-selected library and written sermons prove him to have been conversant with biblical literature, Belles-Lettres, and the intricacies of human nature. His pulpit efforts were thoroughly high-toned, scriptural, and productive of unfading impressions.

His last illness was attended with much physical exhaustion and pain, but was borne in silent, willing submission. His physician, friends, and himself looked forward for a speedy recovery. Unexpectedly to all, the vital forces were disobedient to their trust, and the spirit of John Thrush was with its God. His honored and useful life is his dying testimony. God was with him to the last.

2. EDWARD E. ALLEN was born in Accomac County, Va., August 15, 1804, and died in Shrewsbury, Pa., May 28, 1872. At the age of seventeen he was converted in Baltimore. He soon began to preach, and in 1827 was admitted into the Baltimore Conference. Upon one occasion, early in his ministry, he was tempted to doubt his call to preach. When on the point of turning back from his field of labor, he was halted for the time by the urgent counsels of his Presiding Elder. That evening he preached, praying that God would remove his doubts and increase his faith by the conversion of at least one soul. At the close of the sermon several presented themselves at the altar as seekers of religion, and three were converted. Thus confirmed in his convictions, he went forward laboring in his Master's cause. He filled the following appointments: Bellefonte Circuit, Lycoming, Shamokin, Concord, Huntingdon, Stafford, Fredericksburgh, St. Mary's, Severn, Lyttleton, Licking Creek, Bedford, Cumberland Station, Hollidaysburgh, Patapsco, Baltimore City Mission, Baltimore Sailors' Bethel; supernumerary; Jersey Shore, Great Island, Hereford, Liberty. In 1865 he became supernumerary, and the next year superannuated, in which last relation he remained till his death. Father Allen was a practical, scriptural preacher—fervent, energetic, tender, affectionate. In his last illness, continuing for three months, he was almost constantly engaged in prayer and in searching the Scriptures. His end was peace.

Geo. Monroe, Edgar B. Blunden—2.

1. GEORGE MONROE was born in Highland County, W. Va., April 17, 1803, and died in Point Pleasant, W. Va., August 8, 1872, in his seventieth year. Trained by pious parents, he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church February 17, 1817, and was converted in June following. He was licensed to preach August 30, 1833, and was received on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference in 1835. For many years he labored with great zeal and success. On one occasion he said to a brother minister, "I have preached seventy-three times in my new charge, and have received seventy-three probationers into the Church." His circuits were large, his work laborious, and his pay often less than two hundred dollars a year; yet he complained not, but gave the fullest evidence that his mission was to save souls and gain heaven. But his labors were too severe for his constitution, and he located to regain his health. In 1865 he again entered upon active labor and was admitted into this Conference, but in about two years his health failed again and he took a superannuated relation, in which he continued until death. In his dying moments he found that the religion he preached to others was no "cunningly-devised fable," but "peace and joy in the Holy Ghost."

2. EDGAR B. BLUNDEN was born in Morgan County, Ohio, September 24, 1836. He was the son of pious parents. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at the age of ten years, and was soon after happily converted to God. His father died, leaving him an orphan at the age of fourteen, at which time Edgar first felt it to be his duty to preach the Gospel. He enlisted in the army April 1, 1861. He was promoted to a captaincy, and subsequently to the rank of major, and served his country and his God as a soldier and a Christian till the close of the war. He was licensed to preach in Charleston, W. Va., early in 1865, and was employed on Putnam Circuit as a supply during part of that year. He was received on trial in our Conference in March, 1866, and was stationed at Malden. He traveled Middlebourne Circuit the three years following, and was stationed at Burning Springs three years, from which place he was called from labor to reward. In these fields of labor our brother was abundant in labors and wonderfully successful, reporting about five hundred conversions in his short ministry.

Brother Blunden had been in declining health for some time past, and finished his course in the triumphs of faith. His last words to the Conference were, "Edgar B. Blunden is saved by the omnipotence of grace. While I have been a very unprofitable servant, I have done all that I could to promote the interests of the kingdom of Christ." He was a good man and a good preacher. We loved him much, and we hope to meet him in the better land.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

J. Cann, E. Hance,* J. M. Pierson,* J. J. Sleeper, J. White*—5.

1. JOSEPH CANN was born of respectable parentage in Philadelphia, January 16, 1841, and died March 3, 1873. His early years were marked by a seriousness and thoughtfulness beyond the average of childhood. At the age of sixteen he was converted and received into the Church, and became at once a fervent Christian. He soon felt that his path of duty was in the direction of the ministry. From this his soul shrank with a dread that was inexpressible. He tried to believe it a delusion, and endeavored to attribute it to the promptings of an earthly ambition, and for some time persuaded himself that he was not sufficient for such a high vocation. But his soul was not at ease. Feeling at length that "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel," he yielded to the call of the Spirit, and, in 1866, he went forth with the message of salvation. Shortly after he was received on trial in this Conference, of which he continued a member till the close of life. His first appointment was Hancock's Bridge, where there was a small society, which had been gradually dwindling for years. He so infused his energy of character into the desponding, weak Church, and started it afresh in its career, that it has continued until now. His next appointment was Woodruff's. While here he became acquainted with the fact that at Deerfield, a place some six or seven miles distant, there was a considerable portion of its population who did not attend divine worship. Desiring to do them good, he, after some difficulty, succeeded in securing the use of the Town Hall, in which, for fourteen weeks, he held meetings every night. As the result of his labors he received seventy or eighty persons into membership, and formed them into a society. The future success of this society depending upon the erection of a church, he gave himself to the accomplishment of this purpose with a zeal that overcame every obstacle, and, to the surprise of every one, succeeded in giving to the Church, free, a beautiful house of worship in that village. The year following he succeeded in the erection of a church in Woodruff's, and this, too, without even the stimulus of the faith of others to encourage him. In addition to these labors he kept up in his studies, besides preaching, pastoral visitation, attending camp-meetings, and doing the average work of a full member of conference. But here he pressed the matter too far. Not allowing himself ordinary rest, symptoms of failing health appeared in a dry, hacking cough. Not alarmed, but hopeful, he went to Moorestown, his next appointment. He here successfully effected the completion of a church edifice, which had lain unfinished for years. His next and last appointment was to Union-street, Burlington. He entered upon his labors here with his usual zeal, but, alas! with failing power. His physical system was not equal to the demands of his ever active spirit. To recruit his strength he last year took a supernumerary relation, expecting that a year's rest would restore him. But it was not so to be. To all eyes but his own he was slowly but surely passing away. He could not believe he was so soon to die, and although he said he was prepared for death, yet this feeling continued to the last.

Brother Cann, said his Presiding Elder, "combined in himself the coolest caution with the most daring courage in a manner superior to any he ever knew." He was emphatically a man of deeds. His career was a noble one, though brief, and his death is a loss of no ordinary magnitude to the cause of God and Methodism. His work uniformly, so long as his health permitted, was a succession of triumphs. But God has taken him in life's early dawn. His day's work was completed in the rising of the sun. "He rests from his labors and his works do follow him."

2. JOSEPH JONATHAN SLEEPER was born in Vincentown, N. J., January 24, 1793, and died in Pemberton, February 27, 1873, aged eighty years. He was converted on the last day of August, 1812, in the twentieth year of his age. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Burlington, and in less than a year was appointed a class-leader. In 1814 he removed to Pemberton. In 1823 he received a local preacher's license, and as such worked efficiently, supplying regular appointments on the circuit where he lived, and such others elsewhere as he could attend to. In 1837 he was received on trial in this Conference, in connection with which he successively filled the following appointments: Cumberland, Cape May, Gloucester, Tom's River, Moorestown, New Egypt, Freehold, Medford, Columbus, Tuckerton, Quakertown. At the close of his pastorate on the Quakertown charge, in 1857, he took a supernumerary relation, in which relation, and that of a superannuate, he continued till his death. He then returned to Pemberton to live, and continued to preach frequently until his failing sight and age compelled him to desist. Though his advantages for an education appear to have been limited, yet, by method and industry, he acquired a highly respectable amount of general knowledge. His logical cast of mind was indicated by a fondness for mathematics, in which he was proficient. He was well versed in Methodistic doctrines and history. His sermons were methodical, his delivery deliberative, and his preaching sound and edifying, but without effort at adornment. The judgment with which he offered his petitions in leading a congregation in prayer was remarkable, and, as a singer, he excelled. He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Ann Pitman, cousin of the late Rev. Dr. Charles Pitman; and his second was Miss Ann Norcross, sister of State Senator Norcross, of Burlington County. The latter survives him, but is in impaired health and aged.

Early last fall the partial blindness with which he had been afflicted for some time increased and became almost total, so that he was unable to go abroad, or even to the house of God, without being led. During his last illness, which was protracted and severe, he rested on an intelligent faith and a solid experience. In conversation with a brother minister he expressed his belief in the Apostles' Creed, repeating it by sentences, emphasizing and commenting upon the doctrinal points contained in it in such a manner as beautifully to illustrate both the strength of his faith and the beauties of the Creed. At a later interview, when it was evident his end was drawing nigh, he said, "Tell them"—meaning the members of his Conference—"that I died in the faith of the Gospel, in the faith and hope of eternal life after death, and in the faith and hope of the resurrection of the body." His last day was one of unconsciousness. He was a good man, and his memory will long be cherished by those among whom he lived and died.

N. J. B. Morgan, F. S. Cassady, William Champion, J. T. Stansbury—4.

1. NICHOLAS J. B. MORGAN.—It is the mournful duty of the Baltimore Conference to record the death of Nicholas J. B. Morgan, which took place at the house of his father-in-law, Judge William H. Baldwin, in Anne Arundel County, Md., April 6, 1872. He was born in Bath County, Va., November 23, 1811, and was the eldest son of Gerard Morgan, who, dying in April, 1846, closed forty years' ministerial service in the Baltimore Conference. When he was about ten years of age he removed with his parents to Harrisonburgh, Rockingham County, Va. Such advantages as were furnished by the country schools of Bath he had enjoyed, and improved so far as to enable him to take position with those of his own age in the better schools of the town. A residence of more than five years in Harrisonburgh, under the tutorship of competent teachers, enabled him not only to master the English branches of education, but also to make considerable proficiency in classical attainment. At the age of sixteen he had spent more than half his life in school studies; and possessing a sprightly mind, athirst for knowledge, he was the equal of the best of his fellow-pupils in diligence and acquirements.

In the year 1825 he attended a camp-meeting at Taylor's Springs, a few miles from the town in which he lived. Here occurred what he ever regarded as the most important event of his life. Born of religious parents, and carefully trained in the principles of the Gospel, he had often felt the necessity of a change of heart: such, in fact, was his experience as far back as he could recollect. While listening to a sermon at this meeting, delivered by John Bear, then in the strength of his young manhood, he made up his mind to at once seek the pardon of his sins. It cost him the usual struggle to make a public demonstration of his purpose. With a broken spirit and a contrite heart he accepted an invitation given to penitents to come forward to the altar for the instructions and prayers of those who had experienced what he now sought. Before the meeting closed he received the evidence of forgiveness in the assurance that he had become a child of God by faith in Christ Jesus. The change he experienced was so thorough that he never doubted his conversion. It was a precious memory to him through all his after years, and on his dying bed. Only a short time before he was taken with his last illness he wrote out the programme of his funeral, the concluding words of which date this most important event: "I wish the great fact to be made prominent that I am a sinner saved by grace—saved nearly forty-seven years ago." Separating himself from his irreligious associates he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and became, on account of his youth and promise, an object of special interest to the friends of Christ, who welcomed him to their companionship. This event took place in the fourteenth year of his young life, and from that time to the end of his pilgrimage he maintained the consistency of his Christian profession. Grace was sufficient in youth, in manhood, and up to the period when he was about stepping across the line from maturity to age, to enable him to preserve without tarnish the beautiful religious character which was his adornment through life, and his equipment for his triumphant passage through the "valley of the shadow of death."

Not long after his conversion he was impressed with the conviction that it was his duty to preach the Gospel. This led to more than usual attention, by one so young, to religious reading, which filled the spaces of time he was able to spare from his school studies. The limited means of his father did not admit of sending him to college, nor even of keeping him in school at home any longer than he should be prepared to provide for his own support. Aware of this fact, and anxious to lighten the family burden, when he was about sixteen years old he felt the time had come for him to take care of himself. With his father's consent he turned himself out upon the world, to make his way along its courses as best he could. Well advanced in his education for one so young, and being also well grown, his expedient was to render the advantages he had enjoyed available in procuring a livelihood. He applied for and obtained the position of teacher in a school a few miles in the country. With the duties of this office he joined diligent study for the great calling which he had now conscientiously chosen for his life-work. His first sermon was preached when he was only five months and a few days beyond his sixteenth year. The time he had engaged to serve as tutor having expired, he traveled under the Presiding Elder till the meeting of the Baltimore Conference, to which he was admitted in the spring of 1829, being then less than four months over seventeen years of age. Though he died at sixty, commencing life at sixteen, he was a man a long time, and through every intervening year he did a man's full work. The Minutes of the Conference record forty-three years of effective service. He died at his post in the early part of his forty-fourth year, being attacked by the disease which terminated his life while preaching his last sermon. The fields to which, from year to year, he was assigned involved as much ministerial labor and responsibility as fell to the lot of any member of the Conference within his term of service, many of his circuits including three or four times as much territory as our present circuits, and three or four times as many appointments. From twenty to thirty congregations heard the Gospel from him in four weeks, to which was added, in almost every case, the meeting of the class by the preacher. With no fixed residence, his only home was the different stopping-places noted on the plan which guided him round his circuit. Most of the time he devoted to study was in the saddle, or during the late hours of the night, when his wearied nature demanded sleep to recuperate him for the toil of the coming day's travel to some distant point where duty called him. Through the heat of summer, the cold of winter, and facing the storms of all the seasons, he went forth day and night, over mountains and across rivers, to meet the small assemblages of people who might come together to hear the Gospel. Moved by a heroism which made him forget himself, he cared only for the few who would lose a privilege if he failed. Counting himself as only one, he felt it would be better to find none present than to disappoint the smallest number.

Such devotion to his work, accompanied by marked efficiency in it, brought him at an early period of his life prominently before the Conference, at a time, too, when such men as John Davis, Alfred Griffith, John A. Collins, and many other men of might, now resting from their labors, were leaders in the body. By the active part he now took in every thing that makes history for the Conference he held the position thus gained through more than thirty years. These were eventful years to the Methodist Episcopal Church, within which raged the abolition and pro-slavery controversy, that first divided the Church, and afterward the Baltimore Conference. The appreciation in which he was held by his brethren had its expression in every honor it was in their power to bestow. At the age of thirty-three he was elected a delegate to the General Conference, which met in New York in 1844. In the great contest which here took place, and which resulted in rending the Church, he stood with the other members from the Baltimore Conference, who, in the face of fiery opposition, maintained their loyalty to the Methodist Episcopal Church. It so chanced that the work that had been assigned him at home lay in that part of the Conference known as on the border line, which the General Conference, by the famous "Plan of Separation," proposed to draw between the Church South and the Methodist Episcopal Church. There is not space here to review his administration as the Presiding Elder of the District over which he was placed. There is, however, little, if any, doubt that his wisdom and prudence preserved the integrity of the Conference in that part of Virginia then lying within its bounds. To all subsequent General Conferences, sometimes leading the ticket, he was elected except the last. Many of his friends were anxious he should go to this, but he positively and publicly refused to allow the use of his name. In the great trouble which came to the Baltimore Conference from the action of the General Conference held in Buffalo in 1860, incorporating a new chapter in the Discipline on slavery, as might have been expected from his past record, he was found on the side of the Church. Much as he loved his Conference, and dear to him as were many of his personal friends of the seceding majority, some of whom had stood firmly by him in the border contest fifteen years before, he yet halted not for a moment in his adherence to the principles which guided him then, and made him one of the leaders now of the minority, who were steadfast in loyal devotion to the glorious old Methodist Episcopal Church. He was so thoroughly Methodistic that there was not a feature in the whole system, as it had been transmitted by the fathers, that had not beauty in his eyes, and to preserve it unimpaired his best energies were given. Nor was his a blind devotion, which might have resulted from the circumstances under which he grew up and was trained as the son of a pioneer Methodist preacher, but the result of conviction which followed the study of, and intimate acquaintance with, the economy of Methodism. Few men were more familiar with the government of the Church. He was rarely without a Discipline in his pocket, and his head was so full of it that he scarcely needed its index to find its language upon any of its topics. As an administrator, whether as preacher in charge or presiding elder, he was rarely excelled. Nearly half his ministry was spent in the latter office. The relation in which he was thus brought to his brethren taught him to feel that interest in their temporal welfare, to promote which he originated and, through all the years of its history, largely contributed to the successful operations of the "Preachers' Fund Association." Seeing how poorly the men were paid in the work over which he presided, and that it was impossible for them to provide for their families should they die or become superannuated, he projected the plan which has its development in this now living institution among us, which, under his presidency from its organization, has grown to such magnitude as very nearly answers the end for which it was conceived.

His personal relations to his brethren were always of the most agreeable character. While he stood equal to the best, he assumed no superiority to the humblest. From the highest to the lowest he was one with them, and was an object of almost universal confidence and affection. Even of the few who loved him not, there was not one who did not recognize in him the merit which commanded their respect. Young or old, acquaintance or stranger, found in him a brother who loved them because they were preachers, whom, so soon as he was known, they generally loved in return. Next to his Church, in his Christian affection, came his brethren, who joined their efforts with his to build up Zion. His social qualities among the people were not, perhaps, of the highest grade; yet dignity of manner made him unexceptionable to all, and, when acquaintance grew familiar, he was the genial friend who won the strongest affections of those with whom he became intimate. In the narrow circle of home and kindred his influence was magical. Besides his own household, where he was always reverenced, he stood at the head of seven brothers, regarded by the six as their wisest counselor and best friend, and, as a mutual expression of affection, he requested that they should carry him to his grave.

It is not less praise of the Conference than of him to say, that no ordinary man could have so early reached the high position he gained in the body, or, gaining it, could have held it so long. He was never more esteemed than when he died, and his absence from this annual meeting of his brethren, for the first time in forty-four years, creates a void that is felt by all. With strong intellectual endowments, there were blended in him those staunch moral qualities which made him the man he was. Mental power and moral force characterized him in the pulpit and on the Conference floor. As a preacher, he was a man of one work. To this he gave the study of life. Nearly all his reading had a direct bearing upon his profession. He had become so familiar with the Scriptures that there was scarcely an incident or a text that was not at his command. The pocket Bible which his father gave him on his leaving home was his constant companion; and on his dying bed he had it brought to him, and requested the reading of a lesson from its sacred pages. The profound investigations of the divines of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries he thoroughly explored. Justly regarded as one of our soundest theologians, Dickinson College conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity; and his unquestioned ability in maintaining the doctrines, experience, and practice of the Gospel placed him in the front rank of evangelical preachers. Whether from his natural or acquired fertility of thought, he was almost as diligent in making sermons in the last as in the first years of his ministry; and although he did not write in full his discourses, there was almost endless variety in his matter. But superiority in the pulpit alone does not create the man of power in the Conference. True, it commands the admiration of all; but there must be the manifestation of interest in, joined with capacity for, the business which comes before the body. In the questions which are constantly arising there must be the moral courage to stand up for the right, and ability to maintain it. Although remarkable for his quiet and unobtrusive manners, he performed his full part in the business of Conference; and in the time of any peril he was as fearless of evil, and as courageous in the fight against it, as certainty of the success of the right could make him. Rarely did modesty and heroism more beautifully blend in a human character. By what he was in the pulpit, in the Conference, and in the official positions he filled in the Church, he was a tower of strength in upholding the cause of Methodism in Maryland and Virginia. The death of such a man in the far-down years of old age is a loss to the Church and the world; occurring while yet in the vigor of unabated manhood it is a calamity. Yet we murmur not that it has pleased the Master to release our brother from the toil he so manfully endured to enjoy the rest of which he so often spoke, and for which he so ardently longed.

There is interest in every dying hour, but in some more than others. He seems to have had a presentiment of his near approach to death. So of late he talked, making the impression that such was the fact; and only two days before he was taken sick he wrote the paper (already referred to) containing the directions for his funeral. He was seized with pneumonia, the disease of which both his father and mother had died. His peril was felt by all his friends, and produced a profound sensation both in Baltimore and the city of Washington. Wife, children, and brothers were at his bedside, sick with anxiety; yet he was as calm as in his best day of health, as much like himself throughout all his sickness as when here transacting the business of Conference. A short time before he died he said to his brother next in age to himself, "Lyt, we have stood side by side for thirty-eight years," alluding to the time of his brother's ministry. "No man has come between us. I have got down to the river first." "And about to cross over," said the other. "Yes," he replied, in a feeble but cheerful tone; then added, "I hope we shall all [referring to the other members of his family and brothers present] meet in that land where my voice shall be restored, and we shall be happy forever." He requested the singing of the hymn beginning,

"Forever here my rest shall be,
Close to thy bleeding side."

He only could know how close he was. He seemed to be listening to sweeter music than human voices make. Presently, looking up toward heaven, in a style of majesty lofty as the sentiment he uttered, he shouted with uplifted voice, "Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost; as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen." Fitting doxology to precede the benediction, which in a few moments was his. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord!" Suffering seemed all over. There was no perceptible sign of the slightest pain. His countenance bore its most pleasant aspect. He looked like a weary traveler falling off into the sweet rest of sleep. Turning himself over in his bed, he closed his eyes and was dead. Thus ended the mortal life of Brown Morgan.

He was twice married. The wife of his youth was Mary E. Phelps, of Virginia, a woman of culture and piety, to whom he was united in holy bonds April 3, 1834. At her funeral he bore this testimony: "For twenty-nine years she was my true and faithful wife." His second marriage, April 26, 1865, was to Martha E. Baldwin, of Maryland, worthy to be the successor of her by whose side he sleeps.

2. Francis Stansbury Cassady was born in Baltimore, Md., February 5, 1827, and died in his native city on the 22d of November, 1872. His conversion took place in Frederick, Md., in November, 1846, under the preaching of Rev. P. D. Lipscomb. His whole subsequent life gave proof of the thoroughness of the work then wrought in him by the Spirit of God. Received as a probationer by the Baltimore Annual Conference at its session of 1850, he proved himself for twenty-two years "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

He was married on the 8th of March, 1853, to Miss Mary Krebs, of Greencastle, Pa., who, with two children, survives him.

His appointments were successively: 1850, York Springs; 1851, Boonsborough; 1852, Fincastle;

1853, Blue Sulphur; 1854–55, Berkeley Springs; 1856–57, West River; 1858–59, Patuxent; 1860–61, Bladensburgh; 1862–63, Rockville; 1864–65, Patapsco; 1866, Severn; 1867–68, Summerfield; 1869–71, South Baltimore. In all these fields of labor, some of them hard fields, he made full proof of his ministry, and realized fruit in the conversion of souls and enlargement of the Church. His most gratifying success was at his last appointment—South Baltimore. Though physically enfeebled when he went to this station, and hardly equal to the demands it made upon his energies, he addressed himself to his work with cheerfulness and earnestness, and the Lord owned his labors in a most refreshing outpouring of the Spirit, by which the Church was greatly quickened and many souls were converted.

During the second year of his ministry at South Baltimore, Brother Cassady's health rapidly gave way, so that he was often unfitted for his public duties. But so strong was the attachment of his people, so fully had he won their confidence and esteem, that his re-appointment for a third year was asked and received. Though hardly any pulpit labor was performed during this year, the interest and devotion of his flock never waned. There was no want within their power to meet that was not promptly supplied. Such sympathy and generosity as South Baltimore illustrated in its treatment of its invalid preacher deserve the praise of the whole Church. At the Conference of 1872 he was granted a supernumerary relation. His disease, consumption, speedily culminated; but he waited for its culmination without distrust or dread. A patient sufferer, he looked forward to the time of his departure with calmness and steadiness of faith, and with the joy that enters into the Christian's hope. He found Christ all he needed as both Saviour and Comforter. Two days previous to his death he said to two of his brethren, "I never before felt as I do now the intensifying force and meaningness of that not in the Scriptures: 'A God at hand, and not afar off.'" On another occasion, pressing his head upon his pillow, he remarked, "I am nestling, nestling on the bosom of Jesus."

Brother Cassady was a man of superior powers of mind, and, giving his powers the benefit of careful discipline, he became distinguished among his brethren for both comprehensiveness and clearness of thought. He continued to grow intellectually all through his ministry. He gave to every subject patient and thorough investigation. He was not a mere repeater of other men's thoughts, but examined for himself, and sought to understand the subjects which he took in hand. In general literature he was well informed; in theology he was at home. Early commencing to use the pen, he became a chaste and instructive writer. His contributions often appeared in the periodicals of the Church, and were always acceptable. Those who, in his different fields, had the privilege of attending his ministry, well know with what ability and fidelity he declared the counsel of God. Few among us have preached the Gospel with greater simplicity and honesty; with greater freedom from that fear of man which bringeth a snare, or in a manner more instructive to the understanding, more awakening to the conscience, or more affecting to the heart.

There was nothing more distinctly marked in the character of Brother Cassady than the strong and increasing affection which united him to the pastoral work. He cleaved to it as to his life. With the close adherence of his affections to the holy office, he could not but become more and more assimilated to the objects with which that office made him conversant. The regular performance of its duties, prompted by his heart as well as his conscience, imparted an increasing purity and elevation of character. Those who knew him intimately failed not to see that he became more and more a consecrated man. He never evinced more of devotion to his work, more intense love for it, than after he was cut off from all its activities. As a Christian, he was humble, tender, and beyond reproach. His integrity was never questioned; the Church suffered no wrong through faithlessness on his part. With his chosen friends he spoke freely of his inward experiences of comfort and hope through an indwelling Saviour; and in his last days these experiences were almost the constant theme of his remarks. The glorious doctrines of grace were dear to his heart, because his heart had felt their saving and comforting power.

The character of Brother Cassady was beautiful for its genuineness. There was no guile in this man. What he appeared to be he was. Truth—that kept him above all meanness, that rendered him incapable of deception, that made him always reliable as a friend, that invested him with a nobleness which the selfish and time-serving can never possess—was wrought into every fiber of his being. It stood forth in every act, was expressed in every utterance of his lips, beamed in his eyes. Not faultless, his virtues were so many and combined so harmoniously to form a beautiful character, that his brethren owe it both to him and themselves to hold him in affectionate and enduring remembrance. "He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him."

3. William Champion died of consumption of the lungs on Monday, January 20, 1873, in Moorefield, W. Va., in the fifty-sixth year of his age. He was born of pious Methodist parents, May 23, 1817, in St. Just, near Penzance, England; and was born again in 1840, and at once united with the Church. In 1843 he was authorized to exercise his gifts and graces as a local preacher in the place of his nativity. He immigrated to this country in 1848, and was admitted into the Baltimore Conference on trial in 1850 and appointed to Newport Circuit; 1851, Karthaus; 1852, Clearfield; 1853, Highland; 1854, Franklin; 1855, supernumerary; 1856, made effective and appointed to Wardensville Circuit; 1857–58, Springfield; 1859–60, Stafford; 1861–67, superannuated; 1868, supernumerary again, in which relation he continued until death.

Brother Champion was an acceptable and successful preacher of the Gospel; meekly, zealously, faithfully prosecuting the work assigned him. As a husband and father he was characterized by kindness, consideration, and love. His convictions of the right were strong and abiding, never sacrificing principle to mere expediency; but believing his cause just, no amount of social ostracism, which he was called upon to endure on account of his love and fidelity to the Methodist Episcopal Church, could either force him to recede from his well-chosen positions, or provoke him to retaliate an injury. Imitating the divine Master, he conquered by love. His long confinement and severe bodily afflictions were borne with great patience and Christian fortitude. The Rev. Geo. W. White, pastor of Moorefield Presbyterian Church, who knew him intimately for more than six years, says: "It was my privilege for more than two years to minister to him by the word of God and prayer. During the whole of that period he was a confirmed invalid, much of the time confined to his bed, and a great sufferer both from oppressive languor and acute pain. Many times I saw him when he could speak only with difficulty and pain. But through that long period of trial I never knew his faith in the Saviour to fail in the least for a moment. I never knew his hope of eternal life for a moment to waver. He always seemed to 'desire to depart and be with Christ,' but at the same time often expressed his willingness to remain and suffer so long as such was the will of God. In a ministry of fifteen years I never knew one to suffer so long with more unmurmuring patience."

In his last illness he was often heard, in the still hours of the night, quoting the Scriptures and familiar hymns, and praising God. On the Friday evening previous to his death he exclaimed, "The blood of Christ cleanseth." The next day, while receiving the holy communion, he said, "The will of God be done. I have no will but his." And just before his death he requested his Christian wife and obedient children to meet him in heaven. His last words were, "My sight is failing." Then he fell asleep in Jesus.

4. JOHN T. STANSBURY was born in Baltimore, Md., July 15, 1828, and died at his home in the same city, January 26, 1873. Blessed with religious parents, his Christian life began very early, and throughout was so decided and uniform that none who knew him could for a moment question its genuineness. When about ten years of age he was converted to God in the Monument-street Sabbath-school, and at once identified himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Not long thereafter he went to Dubuque, Iowa, and was engaged for several years in mercantile pursuits; but impressed with the conviction that it was his duty to preach the Gospel, he came back to his native city, and was duly recommended by the official body of Exeter Station for the work of the ministry. He was received into the Baltimore Conference on trial in the spring of 1850, and appointed to Bedford Circuit. His subsequent appointments were: 1851, Fincastle; 1852, Jacksonville; 1853, Newcastle; 1854, Agent for Olin and Preston Institute; 1855, Wardensville; 1856, Blue Sulphur—all in the State of Virginia. In 1857 he was appointed by the Bishop to Bald Eagle, Pa., but was transferred during the year to New Liberty. His health—from youth feeble—now failing him, he was compelled reluctantly to take a supernumerary relation, and sustained this relation for two years, when it was changed to superannuate. In 1870, his health having slightly improved, he was placed on the supernumerary list, but the following year was again superannuated, and remained in that relation to the close of life.

He was married, March 1, 1855, to Miss Mary E. Smith, of Winchester, Va.

During his brief active ministry Brother Stansbury was faithful to every interest of the Church, and in the several fields of labor assigned him was favored with encouraging success. He was preeminently a sincere, single-minded man, and appreciated most by those who knew him best. He was painfully modest, gentle as a woman, true to his vows and convictions of duty; a kind, provident husband; a generous, confiding friend; and a humble, devoted servant of God.

His last illness was of short duration. He was taken ill with congestion of the lungs on Friday morning, and died on the following Sabbath. The message was sudden, but it found him ready. Just before death came he turned to his wife and said, "I would love to remain longer with you, and to do more for the Master's glory; but if it be the will of the Lord to take me away, I feel prepared and willing to go." Very soon the pulse of life stood still, the toilsome strife was over, and another meek, unobtrusive spirit passed away from earth to mingle with "the spirits of just men made perfect" in heaven.

H. S. White.

H. S. WHITE was born in Cambridge, England, May 20, 1833; came to Ohio with his parents in 1836, and embraced religion and joined the Church in 1849. He immediately began to recommend Christ to others. He was licensed to exhort in 1854, and to preach in 1855, and was admitted on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference in 1857. Thereafter his appointments were as follows: Moorfield, Centerville, Barnsville, Belleville, Adamsville, Washington, East Plainfield, and Independence. In 1869 he took a local relation, and came to Macon, Mo. In 1872 he was re-admitted into this Conference, and appointed to La Porte Circuit, which he had supplied the previous year under the Presiding Elder. For some months his health was poor; still he continued to fill his appointments His last illness was brief and his death unexpected, in consequence of a sudden rupture of an internal abscess. On Saturday, October 5, 1872, accompanied by his wife, he went to La Porte, where he was to officiate the following day, but on Sabbath morning he was unable to preach, being overcome by the disease which terminated his life in a few hours. As he approached his end he calmly arranged his secular affairs, left affectionate words for his relatives and friends, tenderly embraced his wife, expressing confident trust in the Saviour and a glorious hope for the future. He asked all to meet him in heaven, and then quietly breathed his last.

As a preacher, Brother White was plain and practical; as a husband and father, he was affectionate and devoted; as a neighbor, kind and true; and as a Christian, devout and faithful.

In 1857 he was married to Miss Sarah Ambler, who has shared with him in the trials and responsibilities of the itinerant ministry. She and three children are now left to mourn their loss, but not without hope of a joyous reunion in the "house of the blessed."

Onesiphorus Robbins, Caleb M. Alvord—2.

1. ONESIPHORUS ROBBINS died in Woodstock, Conn., April 9, 1872, in the eightieth year of his age and the forty-sixth of his ministry. His long and painful affliction was borne with exemplary fortitude and patience, ending in calm serenity and peace.

Brother Robbins was born in Harvard, Mass., August 19, 1792. He was converted in Abbeville District, S. C., at the age of twenty-six. He was licensed to exhort in 1823, and to preach in 1825. In 1826 he was received into the New England Conference, and successively filled the following appointments: Warwick Circuit, Pawtucket, Thompson Circuit, Portsmouth, Hollis-ton and Hopkinton, Marlborough Circuit, Brookfield and Leicester, Pelham, Blanford, North Fairhaven, Holmes' Hole. In 1841 the Providence Conference was set off, and, being placed among its members, he filled the following appointments: Falmouth, Eastham, Chatham, Marshfield, Hull, North Cohasset, Marston Mills and Cotuit Port, Truro. Here his health failed. In 1850 he was returned superannuate, and so continued until he died. His long and unbroken retirement had made him unknown by face to all but the older members of this body, who had long ago learned to love him as a man and a minister. One of them says: "Brother Robbins was a man who had a modest estimate of himself; was of retiring habits and slow of speech. He was a clear and strong thinker. His sermons were neatly arranged and his thoughts appropriately expressed. As a pastor he excelled, and was always welcome to the homes of his people.

Brother Robbins was twice married. In the first instance, May 31, 1829, at Woodstock, Conn., to Miss Sally Ann Jones, by whom he leaves an only son, George O. Robbins. His second marriage was to Miss Mary Jones, at Marston's Mills, Mass., who preceded him by a few months to the heavenly rest prepared by the Saviour for his loved ones.

2. CALEB MATTOON ALVORD was born in Southampton, Mass., May 3, 1815, and died at East Greenwich, R. I., January 6, 1873. His education, other than that in the common schools, was obtained at the Williston Academy, in his native town. He was converted at Miccosukie, Fla., in December, 1839; was licensed as an exhorter at Marianna, Fla., in 1841, and as a local preacher at Wetumpka, Ala., 1842. He was ordained deacon in 1853, and elder in 1857. He followed the profession of teaching until 1858, when he was admitted as a probationer in the Providence Conference, and stationed at Portsmouth, R. I., for two years. His subsequent appointments were Somerset, Mass.; East Haddam, Conn.; and Portsmouth again. In 1865 he was appointed a teacher in the Conference Seminary, where he continued till death.

Brother Alvord was married in Brattleborough, Vt., May 17, 1848, to Miss Ann W. Davis, whom he now leaves a widow. Their three children preceded him to the spirit-land.

Brother Alvord was useful and beloved in the work of the ministry while in the regular pastorate, and his services were always welcome in the pulpit when health and other duties permitted. His religious experience ever was positive and vital, characterized by his oft-repeated expression, "a living faith." He was a joyful Christian. The frequent bereavements which thrice made his home childless chastened, but did not sour, his spirit. His religious faith directed the robust vigor of his manhood, and steadied the energy of his character. Eminently successful as a teacher, he carried to this work the same religious spirit which inspired him elsewhere. His exhortations in the Seminary prayer-meetings will long be remembered by all who heard them.

Not unmindful of his duties as a citizen, he gave the weight of his counsels in favor of the cause of temperance and every good work. The suddenness of his summons gave no time for death-bed testimony; but the last few months, as well as the previous years of his Christian life, left nothing to be desired in proof of his peace with God, and preparation for a glorious reward.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Robert Cunningham, Henry R. Kern—2.

1. ROBERT CUNNINGHAM was born in Butler County, Pa., and died in Columbiana, Ohio, April 8, 1872. He was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1841. In 1848 he was admitted into the Pittsburgh Conference, and for twenty-two years performed the work of a Methodist itinerant with acceptability and usefulness. His constitution was naturally feeble, and for many years his health had been decidedly broken; but with an unwonted resolution for Christ he toiled on until, in 1870, his increasing infirmities compelled him to ask a superannuated relation.

Brother Cunningham was an able preacher and a faithful pastor, abundant in labors, and successful in winning souls to Christ. He had a long discipline in the school of pain and suffering, but his faith was triumphant, and between the hammer and the anvil patience wrought out in him her perfect work; he came forth chastened in spirit, and with a clear vision of the "rest that remaineth." He said to a brother minister a few days before his death: "Farewell! we shall never meet again on earth. I am going home. I shall soon know what the song means, 'There is rest by and by.'" His beloved wife preceded him to the grave one week. They were laborers together with God, and almost simultaneously they heard the Master say, "It is enough; come up higher."

2. HENRY R. KERN died during the last year in Mount Pleasant, Iowa. He was born in Greensburgh, Pa., but of his early history little is known. He joined this Conference in 1839, and sustained an effective relation for eight years, three of which were in Missouri Conference. Feeble health compelled his early superannuation. In 1859, feeling that he would no longer be able to do effective work, he located. In 1864 his brethren learning that he so wished, re-admitted him, and he was again placed on the superannuated list, where he remained until death, without, however, asking or receiving aid from the Conference.

Brother Kern was a man of amiable disposition, devoted piety, and a good preacher. In his superannuated relation he continued to take a deep interest in the prosperity of the Church, and by his counsels, labors, and gifts contributed to its welfare. We know nothing of the particulars of his death, but the end of such a life could not but be safe and peaceful.

F. Donnelly, D. I. Wright, T. Clark, W. Bloomer, L. B. Andrus, E. L. Prentice—6.

1. FRANCIS DONNELLY was born in New York city, December 30, 1802, and died in Crotonville, N. Y., March 27, 1873. He was converted at the age of eleven, and soon after was convinced of his duty to call sinners to repentance. Constitutionally of a timid nature, he hesitated to fully follow the indications of the Holy Spirit, and consequently his light grew dim and his peace was interrupted until he resolved, in the strength of Christ, to surrender his all to the will of God. He was licensed to preach in 1831. He joined the Conference in 1832, and filled, with great acceptability and usefulness, the following appointments: Amenia, Milan, Duchess, New Milford, Phillipstown, Peekskill and Verplank's Point, Cornwall and Milton, Marbletown, West Point, Putnam Valley, Croton, Glenham, Bedford, West Point, Glenham again, Eddyville, Chaplain of Westchester Alms House, Croton again. In 1860 he was granted a superannuated relation, which has been continued for the past thirteen years.

Brother Donnelly was a true Christian, a sound theologian, an excellent preacher, and was often powerful in exhortation and prayer. He was unassuming, "esteeming other better than himself." Continuing in full sympathy with the effective work, he labored earnestly for the salvation of souls. The past year, though in feeble health, he regularly attended the Sabbath-school at Crotonville, teaching a class, and cheerfully co-operating in the great work of "spreading scriptural holiness." In the community where he has lived since he superannuated he was highly esteemed, and, while health permitted, his services were almost universally desired to attend the sick and dying and minister consolation at their funerals. He was one of the few of whom we never heard an evil word spoken. On the Sabbath previous to his decease, in meeting Rev. Elbert Osborn, another superannuated preacher of the same type, their prayers and testimonies impressed each other and the congregation that they would never meet again on earth. Appearing unusually feeble, at the solicitation of a friend he delayed going to New York city in the morning, and soon after was found speechless, his pulse faintly beating as with muffled drum the last of life's funeral march. To him Death was a conquered foe, and sudden death was sudden and certain glory.

2. DANIEL I. WRIGHT was born in Carmel, N. Y., February 5, 1792, and died in Tarrytown, N. Y., November 10, 1872, in his eighty-first year. His illness was of very brief duration. On Thursday morning, November 7, a slight swelling of his cheek and nose was detected, which rapidly developed into the worst form of erysipelas, and in a few hours so changed his facial appearance that his most intimate friends could scarcely recognize him. His face was so swollen that his eyes were closed to the light of day. His mind wandered almost from the first, yet there were momentary intervals when he would speak rationally and give intelligent answers to questions concerning his faith in Christ and his hope of heaven. On Sabbath morning, November 10, about five o'clock, he broke out in earnest prayer, imploring God's blessings upon the Church, the nation, and his dear ones, and closed his sup-plications with a solemn "Amen." He never spoke after this. God had given him such evidence of his entire acceptance that for himself he had nothing more to ask. He had made sure work for heaven. He continued gradually to sink till, at twelve o'clock at night, his soul took its departure from the suffering body.

When about twenty years of age Brother Wright heard the divine call, "Son, give me thine heart," and he was not disobedient thereunto. Early in 1814, while teaching school near Ellenville, N. Y., the Presiding Elder of the New York District, Rev. Freeborn Garrettson, came along, took him from his school, and sent him to Long Island to fill the place of Francis Ward, who was then lying at the point of death. In May, the same year, he united on probation with this Conference, and filled successively the following appointments: Pownal, Whittingham, Thurman, Saratoga, Montgomery, Warren, Cambridge, Coeyman's, Sharon, Jefferson, Kingston, Hempstead and Huntington, Stamford, supernumerary three years, Catskill and Durham, White Plains, Hampden and Westville, Flushing and Hallett's Cove, Yonkers, Coeyman's, Windham, Gilboa, Coeyman's, Saugerties, Woodstock, Durham, Woodland, supernumerary four years, and superannuate from 1861 till close of life. Thus is shown a record of forty-seven years of active labor, the results of which are not only written in the bettered lives of many dwellers upon earth, but which have also passed into the gladdened history of the dwellers in heaven.

Brother Wright was one of the most unassuming of men. He was a man of great thought and power. He was an intelligent, thoughtful, and recollective reader. Few persons could sit down and read an article or book, and, laying it aside, give a more complete synopsis of it than he. He read his Bible in the original, both Greek and Hebrew. He was a superior sermonizer, and in his palmier days he is said to have been exceedingly eloquent. He was a successful preacher, and in his religious life he was uniform, consistent, and conscientious.

On March 18, 1818, he was united in marriage to Mary Ann Pratt, and for nearly fifty-four years they shared each other's fortunes, joys, and sorrows. They trained up four children, two sons and two daughters, all of whom are now living. A short time before his illness he presented to one of his daughters, with whom he and his aged companion were living at Tarrytown, a small pocket Bible, remarking: "My daughter, I will give you this book. It was my traveling companion for many years. I learned many a great lesson from its pages while riding on horseback. . . . It was my first companion, and has always been my guide."

Thus another of the "heroes of Methodism" has passed away; another of the proclaimers of the "glad tidings of great joy" has fallen on sleep; another of the Lord's anointed has departed to be with Christ.

3. Theodosius Clark was born in New Rochelle in 1786, and was converted in the same place in 1805 during a revival which commenced at a family prayer-meeting. Rev. J. B. Matthias, a son of thunder, was there, and while he prayed shocks of power came down, and a number were awakened and cried for mercy, Theodosius among others. The noise was heard, and the neighbors came flocking together, to know what it meant. There was a shout of a King in the camp. Young Clark, with others, was that day born into the kingdom. He was converted in a whirlwind. He removed to New York City, and in 1809 he was married to Miss Jane Allen, who was converted in 1806. She was his "help-meet," the "companion of his toils," for over threescore years. She now survives him in "age and feebleness extreme." Being recommended by the society of "The Two-Mile Stone," now Seventh-street, he was admitted into the New York Conference in 1812, and received the following appointments: Jamaica Circuit, L. I., which then included Jamaica, Rockaway, Far Rockaway, Hempstead, Cow Harbor, Oyster Bay, Hempstead Harbor, Serrington, Norwich, Jerusalem, Babylon, Huntington, Hempstead South, and Newtown; Sag Harbor; Jamaica Circuit again; Stamford, Conn.; Redding Circuit; Granville, Mass.; Pittsfield, Mass.; Chatham, Saratoga, Berne, Montgomery, Berne again, Washington Circuit, Cambridge, N. Y.; Salisbury, Conn.; Mount Pleasant Circuit, N. Y.; Saugatuck, Conn.; and in 1836 to Westport. The next year he took a superannuated relation, in which he continued until his death.

Father Clark was well read in Methodist theology, and was a superior preacher—sometimes exceedingly powerful. He excelled in prayer; for variety, adaptation, and unction, few excelled him. He was very successful in "turning sinners from the power of Satan unto God. On some of his fields of labor he gathered them in by the hundred. He was a man of affliction; he had bodily infirmities that pressed him down. Domestic bereavement weighed heavily upon him. He was called to bury two daughters and one son. He, like so many of God's children, "went up through great tribulation." He had his excellences and his defects. He was peculiarly constituted. He was sometimes rough in his exterior, and sometimes a little irritable; did not "always in patience possess his soul;" apt to look on the dark side of the picture, and would sometimes borrow trouble, forgetting that every cloud, no matter how dark, has a silver lining, and that "sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." But even on the sun there are spots. Few with his bodily infirmities and pain, with his bitter domestic sorrows, would have exhibited more patience than did he. For nearly three years before his death he was paralyzed, needing two or three to take care of him. Although helpless, his eye brightened at the promise, "Where I am, there shall my servant be also." After years of pain and anguish death came to his relief on Sunday, July 28, 1872, and the old hero of a hundred battles yielded to the conqueror of all earthly conquerors in his eighty-seventh year, leaving only one behind who was in the New York Conference when he joined it, the venerable Marvin Richardson.

4. William Bloomer was born in Newburgh, N. Y., February 23, 1809. At the age of twenty-one he found "redemption in the blood of the Lamb, even the forgiveness of sins," and, together with his brother Reuben and an elder sister, united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Middle Hope, North Newburgh. The two brothers became honored members of the New York Conference, and both Reuben and the sister preceded William to the better land.

In 1835 Brother Bloomer was married to Miss Nellie M. Hait, of Middle Hope. Very happy was he in the selection of a companion for life, one so admirably suited to aid him amid the toils of the itinerancy. They were blessed with eight children; two of them are dead; the remainder feel they are orphans indeed.

In 1836 Brother Bloomer was received on trial in the New York Conference. His appointments were Marbletown Circuit, Richmond, Saugerties, Catskill and Durham, Coeyman's, Cattskill again, Prattsville, Marbletown, Sullivan, Monticello, New Windsor, Sugar Loaf, Rhinebeck, Red Hook Mission, Peekskill, Pleasantville, Pine Plains, Highland Mills. In 1865, after twenty-eight years of active toil, he was compelled to become supernumerary on account of ill-health. In 1866 he took a superannuated relation, in which he continued until his death.

Brother Bloomer was a man of fine presence, and looked well in the pulpit. His countenance was genial, and he had a dark eye that expressed much of benignity. He was a man of amiable disposition and artless simplicity, full of warm and generous impulses. He was friendly, and therefore he had many friends. His colleagues speak of him in the most exalted terms; his neighbors had the utmost confidence in his strict honor, his unbending integrity, and his sincere piety.

Brother Bloomer was a good preacher, and his sermons were ever fraught with the "truth as it is in Jesus." He was a superior pastor, ever maintaining the true dignity of his office. He was very useful in revivals, and skillful in winning souls. In all his fields of labor he made full proof of his ministry, and in some of them he had great harvests of souls.

Suddenly, on the 19th of May, 1872, in the sixty-fourth year of his age, at the close of a beautiful Sabbath, just as the sun went down behind the western hills, leaving lingering rays of light adorning the heavens with brilliancy, the sun of Rev. William Bloomer set in full-orbed splendor, leaving rays of beauty and brightness—not only the reflection of a well-spent life that had so suddenly terminated, but also giving legible gleamings of a glorious immortality. One short hour of sickness told the story—finished his history, and William Bloomer "was not, for God took him."

5. Loyal B. Andrus was born in Cornwall, Vt., January 13, 1809, and died near Yonkers, March 27, 1873, aged sixty-four years. He was soundly converted when about twenty-one years of age. Although possessing some convictions upon the subject of a call to the ministry, his mind was not clear thereupon. Not wishing to go before he could feel a clear assurance that he was called of God, he retired to a field alone to pray, and while thus engaged it seemed that a heavenly form appeared to him and conveyed him upward through the air until they reached the city of the great King. He gazed in speechless rapture upon what he beheld of its fullness of joy. Filled with unspeakable bliss, he longed to remain; but his heavenly conductor announced to him that he must go back to earth and proclaim to all the glories that he had witnessed. From that time he never doubted his commission to call sinners to repentance. No longer conferring with flesh and blood, he went forth preaching peace by Jesus Christ. He joined the New York Conference in 1843, and occupied the following fields of labor: Stockport, South Lee, Copake, Pleasant Valley, Bedford, Shrub Oaks, Yorkville Mission, Great Barrington, Durham, Delhi, Andes and Bovina, Copake, North East, Mount Zion, Kensico and North Castle, Riverdale, and in 1871 superannuate, and so continued.

Brother Andrus was a good man, whose religious life was vitalized by an ever-present consciousness of the grand reality of God's redemption. He was a man peculiarly gifted in prayer. There was an originality, a fullness of expression, an earnestness and force, and an apparent rising of his whole soul into the region of spiritual communings, which was so remarkable as to command attention. He was thoroughly in love with the usages and spirit of primitive Methodism, and earnestly believed that all our success was attributable to the fact that God was with us. He made his contribution to the building of Zion's walls. Many were the living stones which, through his instrumentality, God put into the walls of this young temple of his praise. His Christian life was a perpetual triumph. His illness was but five days in continuance. They were days of great suffering. Much of the time his mind wandered, but there were intervals when he would give expression to the feelings of his trusting, rejoicing, triumphing soul. At one time he exclaimed, "The anchor holds." He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him. Clothed in the white garments of spotless purity, our brother has gone to stand amid the glorious company in heaven.

6. Erastus L. Prentice was born in Franklin, Conn., and at the time of his death was in his forty-eighth year. At the age of fifteen he was converted, and identified himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He early removed to New York city, and became connected with John-street. He was licensed to preach in 1848, and for eight years continued in the local ranks. After studying for awhile at Amenia Seminary and the Wesleyan University, he attended Amherst College, Mass., where he graduated with honors in 1855. In 1856 he was received into the New York Conference, and stationed successively as follows: Kingston, St. Paul's in New York, Second Church in Newburgh, Chester, Matteawan, Tuckahoe, Cannon-street, Poughkeepsie; St. Paul's, Peekskill; and, in 1872, at Warwick, where, in the midst of a career of usefulness, he was laid low. He fell on the field of battle, still warm with recent fight; fell in the prime of manhood, in the zenith of his ministry, when it was hoped that years of ministerial honor and usefulness awaited him; fell sword in hand, covered with scars, and loaded with honors.

Brother Prentice was a noble specimen of a man. His fine and delicate form, his noble brow, his bright eye, and his beautiful features, made him a splendid specimen of humanity which was refreshing to behold; but all this was far surpassed by the inward adorning, the kindness of his heart, his child-like spirit, the warmth of his affections, and his pure, unspotted life. As a preacher, he made preparation for the pulpit. His sermons were the result of patient thought; more solid than showy, yet characterized by clearness and strength. His ministry was evangelical, practical, and successful to a pre-eminent degree. It was goodness more than greatness that was his crowning glory, and that gave him his success. In every-day life he was regarded as a man of deep and genuine piety, and "his praise is in all the Churches" where he has been pastor. A layman, a member of Cannon-street Church, Poughkeepsie, writes: "None of all the pastors of this Church was more universally beloved than Brother Prentice. His character was one of rare symmetry. He never overestimated himself, never offended good taste, never failed to meet the expectations of his friends, never was other than the noble Christian gentleman. His preaching, like his character, was pure, even, elevating. As a pastor he had no superior. He was a guide to the youth, a comfort to the aged, an angel to the afflicted. He was alive to the interests of the Church, and a special favorite of the Sabbath-school. His entire work was well done."

Brother Prentice was united in marriage to Miss Ella M. Rogers, of Kingston, October 12, 1848. She made him an excellent companion amid the toils of the itinerancy. They were blessed with two lovely children, a son and a daughter.

But the scene is all changed. His beautiful and symmetrical form is laid low; the noble casket which contained so rich a jewel is broken; the eye that shone benignantly bright is dim, and the lips that seldom spake but in the language of love and tones of benediction are sealed with Death's cold signet, and the heart that beat with the purest affection has ceased to pulsate. His last illness was brief, his death sudden. He died of congestion of the brain February 28, 1873. He leaves a rich legacy to his family and the Church—the example of a beautiful Christian character, the fragrance of a good name.

J. Bowen, C. Chittenden, E. F. Hadley—3.

1. JOSIAH BOWEN.—Of his early life little is known. After carrying on for some time a printing establishment in Brooklyn, he, in 1815, entered the New York Conference on trial, and continued in the regular work until 1840, filling some of the most important and responsible appointments, such as New York, New Windsor, Newburgh, Albany, Middletown, Conn., etc. His abilities as a preacher must have been considerable in order to meet the demand of these charges. In 1840 he took a supernumerary relation, and in 1843 superannuated, in which relation he continued until his death.

Brother Bowen was a Christian, and noticeable for his patience and meekness. He suffered much, and although his sufferings were sometimes of a very trying character, yet he bore them submissively, relying on the great Head of the Church for support. His last days were days of brightness, and as he was nearing the shores of time the Sun of Righteousness shone full-orbed upon his soul. He passed into his rest January 14, 1873, aged about eighty-five years.

2. CHARLES CHITTENDEN was born in Clinton, Conn., in 1805. He was converted at the age of twenty-four years; was licensed to preach in 1832, and in the following year was admitted on trial in the New York Conference. His successive fields of labor were as follows: Windsor Circuit, Litchfield, Guilford, Berlin, Waterbury, Ridgefield, Hyde Park, Pine Plains, Great Barrington, Bristol. While laboring here his vocal organs became so impaired that, in 1850, he was obliged to take a superannuated relation, but preached occasionally as health and opportunity permitted. In 1858 he was restored to an effective relation and appointed to Cheshire, but his health proving insufficient for the task, at the next Conference he became permanently superannuated. During the seventeen years of his itinerant labors he was successful in winning souls to Christ, and even after he became superannuated he often preached with great power and success. In his diary, under date of October 29, 1871, occurs the following: "This is my spiritual birthday—forty-two years old. I renew my consecration to my God. All my mental, physical, and moral powers, without reserve, I give to my God, to suffer his will, and be entirely his."

Brother Chittenden was stricken with paralysis in February of last year, but had so far recovered as to be able to attend the last session of this body. On the following Sabbath, after listening to a sermon from the text, "I shall be satisfied when I awake in thy likeness," he went up to the preacher, and grasping him warmly by the hand, and with tears of joy rolling down his cheeks, he exclaimed, "I am satisfied! I am satisfied!" On the Wednesday evening following he baptized an infant, and thus finished his ministerial work. He was again stricken with paralysis, and became conscious of the near approach of death. With much joy he said, "I'm very near the other side of the river. Precious seasons! never before felt the Saviour so precious." On the morning of April 27, 1872, he peacefully passed away to his celestial rest.

3. EDWIN F. HADLEY was born in New York city, November 5, 1839. He was converted during a powerful revival in Twenty-seventh-street Methodist Episcopal Church in 1857, and at once commenced to labor for the salvation of others. His talents and usefulness were soon apparent, and God and the Church called him to devote his life to the Christian ministry. In 1862 he entered the Concord Biblical Institute, whence he graduated in 1865. He joined the Newark Conference the same year, and was stationed at New Dover, N. J.; 1866, Passaic; 1867-68, Millstone; 1869, transferred to New York East Conference, and stationed at Riverhead, L. I. Here, through his faithful labors, a beautiful church was erected, and its indebtedness provided for before dedication. A gracious revival followed, and the rejoicings of about fifty converts consecrated the new church. In 1872 he was stationed at Warren-street, Brooklyn. He entered upon this field of labor with poor health, but at once projected and pushed forward vigorously new enterprises connected with the church. The following summer he was attacked with hemorrhage. His strength rapidly declined, yet he continued to labor; but, in a few weeks, other hemorrhages took place, and he was obliged to desist. Assured now that his work was finished, he awaited the issue with Christian calmness. His dying testimonies were full of assurance. No doubts blinded his spiritual vision; the blood of Jesus fully saved. During the night preceding his death he frequently broke forth in singing hymns of praise, and toward the last, while singing—

"Happy if with my latest breath,
I may but gasp—"

Here his voice failed him, and soon after he quietly fell asleep in Jesus, November 23, 1872.

Though Brother Hadley's career was brief, it was bright and useful. He was of a genial and sunny disposition, affectionate and beloved in his now sorrowing household, and had many ardent friends in every place where he labored. He was highly gifted in prayer, seemingly as if filled with a holy inspiration when exercising. He was a good student, a diligent reader, and prepared his sermons with scrupulous care. His preaching was earnest, logical, and practical. As a pastor he showed forth the spirit of his sacred calling. The sick, the poor, and the children were never neglected. He has wrought well, and when the sheaves of the laborers are all gathered at last, many will doubtless forever hold in grateful remembrance his example and ministry.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

L. R. S. Brewster, I. J. P. Collyer, John R. Tiddy—3.

1. LA ROY S. BREWSTER died in Webster, Mass., March 18, 1873, in the thirty-seventh year of his age. He was born in Unity, N. H. When about fourteen years old, while walking in the streets of Lowell, he became deeply impressed with the sinfulness of sin and the need of personal pardon, and deliberately resolved to consecrate himself, soul and body, to God. He returned home, and sought and found peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. He was wont to attribute his early conversion and religious life to his mother's counsels and prayers. He at once professed his faith, and joined the Worthen-street Church. At nineteen he received license to preach. At twenty-one he was sent as a supply to Shelburne Falls by the Presiding Elder, Rev. Thos. Marcy. He joined this Conference in the following spring, and was sent back to Shelburne Falls. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Jenkinsville, South Wilbraham, Southampton, Newburyport, Church-street, Boston, Hudson, Webster. God blessed his labors. Souls were saved, and by his untiring energy financial embarrassments were removed.

In 1857 he was married to Miss Mary Jane Ames, of Lowell. Two children—one aged thirteen, the other nine—are left.

Brother Brewster's natural endowments were well adapted to his calling. His voice, personal address, genial spirit, and winning manners, were eminently favorable to success. He was correct in his habits, punctual and systematic in his duties. He was a reader, a thinker, an observer. His discourses were well arranged, full of vital truth, of apt illustration, and of pointed enforcement of Christian privilege and duty. His manner in the desk was dignified, impressive, solemn. His appeals, often deeply pathetic, at times were bursts of impassioned eloquence. As a pastor he excelled. He watched every interest of his flock. He visited all, and with faithful solicitude cared for the temporal and spiritual welfare of the people under his care, and thus won their confidence and love. Unexpectedly to himself, and suddenly to his friends, he was summoned away. As death drew near he turned his eye upon his watching, anxious wife, gave her a smile of peculiar sweetness and brightness, and with uplifted hand seemed to wave a gentle farewell to the loved ones of earth, as if already entering into the joys and employments of a brighter world.

2. Isaac J. P. Collyer finished his course in Christian triumph, May 7, 1872, at Boston Highlands, where he preached his first and last sermon. He was born in Seekonk, Mass., May 19, 1814. He was converted in a little attic-chamber in Boston, and united with the Bromfield-street Church. When the North Russell-street Church was organized he connected himself with it, and was licensed as a local preacher. He united with this Conference in 1844, and was stationed at Topsfield. His next appointment was Danvers, now Peabody. Twice he was stationed at Harvard-street, Cambridge; and afterward at Newburyport; Worthen-street, Lowell; Centenary Church, Boston; Westfield; Central Church, Lowell; Church-street, Boston; Gloucester, Ipswich, East Cambridge, and Boston Highlands, from which place, after having completed a successful pastorate of three years, he went to his reward. His last appointment was Stoneham; but he was unable to visit his people or preach to them a sermon.

Brother Collyer was a remarkable man. Physically, he was well formed, of medium height, of full, robust countenance, and of a manly, noble bearing. He possessed a strong, independent, quick, penetrating, earnest mind. Though without the culture of the schools, his intellect, assisted by a strong imagination, practical good sense, and a warm, ardent piety, gave him great power in the pulpit. He was easy and ready of utterance, often thrilling in description, excelling in the use of language, and pointed and direct in his appeals. His voice was clear and full; and the congregations he served will not soon forget its earnest, ringing notes, swelling often into loud, majestic utterances, moving hearts as the tempest moves the forest. As a pastor he excelled. As a friend, he was true and faithful, one that could be depended upon always and every-where. His piety was deep, ardent, and consistent. He was always earnest in his Master's work. Though strongly emotional, he kept this part of his nature so under restraint as to be in harmony with his intellectual faculties. Though decided and independent in his religious views, he was never bigoted, uncharitable, or censorious. He was genial, pleasant, kind, always hopeful and cheerful. His ministry of twenty-eight years was remarkably successful. He witnessed many conversions and additions to the Church, and saw the prosperity of Zion in all its interests. There can be no doubt but that the Master has said unto him, "Well done!" Few Christian ministers have left a brighter record, and few will wear a crown with more or brighter stars. He died in great triumph. Among his last utterances were shouts of "Halleluia!" and "Glory!" He fell nobly at his post, with his armor on, in the midst of his strength and usefulness. We hope ere long to greet him in that world where we will all unite in the victor's song of heavenly triumph.

3. J. R. Tiddy died of typhoid fever in Springfield, Mass., November 2, 1872, aged twenty-eight years. He was born in England, and came to this country about eleven years ago, and became a resident of Maryland. He was converted at the age of seventeen, and, with premonitions of his subsequent calling, pursued his academic studies at Pennington, N. J. About three years since he married Maria, the only daughter of Rev. A. C. Manson, of this Conference, and went to Minnesota, where he labored for a year on a circuit near Duluth. His wife's health failing, he sought work in her native New England, and was appointed in charge of the Central Methodist Church in Springfield. In 1872 he was received into this Conference, and re-appointed to the same Church, where he labored with marked fidelity and usefulness until, in seven months, he was transferred to that land where God's laborers neither weary nor die.

Brother Tiddy was very unassuming, seemingly timid and distrustful of his own abilities. Yet by his tenderness and simplicity, the manifest deep tone of his piety, the self-balance of his active and well-cultured mind, as well as by the devotion and ability with which he discharged the duties of his calling, he won the confidence and affection of those within the sphere of his influence. The manifest strength and activity of his intellectual powers; the rare retentiveness of his memory; his devotion to study, and system in its prosecution; his deep conscientiousness and pervading piety, moving him to prepare much of his sermons on his knees; his superior natural endowments of mind and heart, together with his agreeable social qualities—all contributed to give an earnest of a career of honor and usefulness in the work to which he had consecrated himself. His last sermon was from Christ's farewell: "Peace I leave with you." None present will ever forget the impressiveness of the occasion. Tuesday following he was prostrated, and never recovered. During his sickness he had, and expressed, exalted and sublime views of God's power and the preciousness of his faith in Jesus Christ. This good pastor, able preacher, dutiful son, devoted husband, and holy man has passed early to his reward, and we can but lament for such a loss. To the sympathies and prayers of the Church we earnestly commend her who, knowing him best, and therefore prizing him most, weeps over the desolation in her hopes, her home, her heart.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

P. G. Bridgeman.

PETER G. BRIDGEMAN was born in Bainbridge, N. Y., March 25, 1804, and died in Cortland, July 24, 1872. Of his early life little is known. Suffice it to say, that at the age of eighteen he was converted, and soon after became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Maintaining an unsullied Christian character, and evincing talent for public speaking, he was licensed as an exhorter, April 29, 1826; as a local preacher in 1828; and soon after was employed as a supply by a presiding elder, and so continued for several years. In 1832 he was ordained as a Local Deacon, and in 1836 was admitted into the Oneida Conference, in connection with which he labored until, in 1843, a shock of paralysis so enfeebled him that he was obliged to take a superannuated relation.

In 1856 he resumed an effective relation. After laboring for some nine or ten years he again became superannuated, and so continued during the balance of his days.

Brother Bridgeman was a good preacher—sometimes eloquent to a degree that commanded the admiration of all who heard him. When effective he was incessant in labor, and was often pastorally connected with powerful revivals. Hundreds were led by him to the foot of the cross and built up in the faith of the Gospel. He was a thorough Methodist, and would defend the doctrines and polity of the Methodist Episcopal Church within his charge whenever they were assailed. In all this, however, he was neither bitter nor acrimonious. He passed through severe domestic trials. He buried two wives and an only son. Yet amid them all he was generally resigned and happy. His surviving companion, to whom he was married in 1855, not only shared with him in his later itinerant labors, but tenderly cared for him through all the infirmities of age. He was a kind companion and a fond parent. His memory is precious. He died suddenly, but there is no room for doubt as to his having entered the heavenly rest. Thus the fathers pass away. May we follow them as they followed Christ, and thus be prepared to share with them in the awards of the just!

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

B. R. Hoyt, W. Wilbur, H. Nutter, R. Newhall, J. Smith—5.

1. BENJAMIN R. HOYT was born in Braintree, Mass., June 6, 1789, and died in Salem, N. H., October 3, 1872, in the eighty-fourth year of his age. At the age of nine he removed with his family to Craftsbury, Vt. At fifteen he was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1807 he became a resident of Winchester, N. H., where he received a license to exhort. The following year he was licensed to preach, and in August of the same year he was sent to supply Ashburnham Circuit by the Presiding Elder. In 1809 he joined New England Conference, and was appointed to Needham Circuit, Mass. His subsequent appointments were: Danville Circuit, Vt.; Weathersfield Circuit; Barnard, Vt.; Vershire, Vt.; Bristol, R. I.; Sandwich, Mass.; New Bedford, Mass.; Boston; Lyndon, Vt.; New Hampshire District; Dover; Great Falls, where, in a great revival in 1829, he received two hundred and twenty-eight members into the Church; Vermont District; Bradford; Plymouth District, N. H.; Danville District, Vt.; Claremont District, N. H.; Haverhill, N. H.; East Salisbury, Mass.; Greenland; North Salem; and Derry, N. H., when, becoming advanced in years and somewhat infirm, he was placed on the superannuated list, but steadily refused to receive aid from the funds of the Conference. Thus forty-six years of his life were devoted to effective labor in the ministry—nineteen as presiding elder and twenty-seven as pastor. He was largely successful in his labors—revivals being the rule, not the exception, in his various fields of labor. He occupied an enviable place in the affections and confidence of his brethren, always taking a prominent part in the Conference proceedings. He several times worthily represented his Conference in the General Conference. His warm attachment to the Church and abiding interest in her prosperity continued to the last.

Father Hoyt possessed a sound, well-balanced mind. He was a ready and eloquent speaker, and in his prime was a man of power in the pulpit, drawing crowds wherever he preached. An unbending integrity and cheerful piety marked his administration of Church government and private association with the ministry and laity of the Church.

An aged widow, one daughter, and two sons—Rev. F. S. Hoyt, Editor of the Western Christian Advocate, and A. H. Hoyt, Esq., of Boston—survive him; while two daughters and two sons preceded him to the world of rest and joy.

2. WARREN WILBUR was born in Westmoreland, N. H., May 30, 1795, and died in Fremont, December 9, 1872. His father was a Baptist minister. Warren experienced justifying grace in 1810, and joined the Baptist Church; but not being satisfied therewith, he left it and united with the Methodists. He was licensed to preach in 1823, and joined the Conference in 1824. He was an earnest and faithful laborer for eighteen years in the effective work. In consequence of failing health, in 1842 he was returned superannuated, but continued for the next four years to preach almost constantly in Chester. In 1868 he moved to Fremont, where he spent the remainder of his days, but continued to labor as opportunity offered and health permitted.

Brother Wilbur was twice married: in 1817 to Betsy Alden; in 1829 to Mary Blake—with both of whom he lived happily until severed by death. Of his eight children only four are now in the land of the living.

Brother Wilbur was a man of spotless character, and of ardent and uniform piety. He always stood ready to do any work assigned him by the Church. For several of the last years of his life he was a devoted class-leader, attending promptly to all the duties of his position. He was highly esteemed and respected by all who knew him. He lived a suffering life, but he died peaceful and happy.

3. HENRY NUTTER was born in Greenland, N. H., July 13, 1808, and fell asleep in Jesus at South Newmarket, N. H., June 15, 1872. He was converted at a camp-meeting in 1826, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in full membership in 1828. He received a license to exhort in 1833, and to preach the same year. He was received on probation into this Conference in 1834, and served successively the following charges: Chester, Wakefield, Putney, Wardsborough, in Vermont; Marlow, Acworth, New Ipswich, Deering, Hampton, Manchester Center, Kingston, Sandown, East Kingston, Londonderry, Manchester Center, Merrimack and Fremont, Candia, Chesterborough, in New Hampshire. He superannuated in 1860, which relation he sustained at the time of his decease. He had revivals on nearly every appointment, and was instrumental in the building of three churches in Acworth, Hampton, and Londonderry respectively. He was twice married, and leaves a widow and son to mourn their loss. It can be said of him as was said of Barnabas, "He was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost, and of faith: and much people was added unto the Lord." He left good evidence that he died well.

4. RICHARD NEWHALL was born in Weathersfield, Vt., in 1800, and finished his labors in Ascutneyville, December 10, 1872. His Christian life commenced at the age of twenty-two. He was licensed to exhort at twenty-four, to preach at twenty-five, and entered the New England Conference at twenty-seven. When the Conference was divided he became a member of the New Hampshire and Vermont, and when this was divided, of New Hampshire. He filled eight appointments in Vermont and thirteen in New Hampshire.

Brother Newhall was emphatically a good man, full of the Holy Ghost and of faith, and his piety was of that cheerful type which every-where proclaims the excellence of the heavenly treasure. He contributed greatly to the salvation and happiness of man, and was instrumental in the conversion of sinners and building up the Church in the faith of the Gospel. His last illness was brief, but he was ready, and died strong in faith and comforted by the blessed Gospel he had so often preached to others.

5. JOHN SMITH was born in Kirby, Vt., in 1808. He was converted in 1824, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He commenced preaching in 1827, and joined the New England Conference in 1829. For about twenty years he labored with acceptance and considerable success in the regular work, and was then compelled by ill-health to take a superannuated relation, which he sustained until March 27, 1872, when he died, in West Burke, Vt.

As a Christian, Brother Smith was uniformly pious; as a preacher, though his educational advantages were limited, he possessed fair talents; as a pastor, he was good. Through the years of his superannuation he was a great sufferer, and death was to him a glad welcome.

T. Comstock, C. W. Miller, C. Brock—3.

1. THOMAS COMSTOCK was born in Wayne County, Ohio, March 2, 1829. He was converted in 1841, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was licensed to preach June 21, 1854, and received on trial in this Conference in September following. He was subsequently discontinued at his own request, that he might continue his education. In 1858 he was elected professor in Fort Wayne College. In April, 1859, he was again received on trial in this Conference, and continued in the professorship. In 1860 he was appointed to Decatur Circuit; 1861, Goshen; 1862, Elkhart, where he remained two years; 1864, again professor in Fort Wayne College; 1865, Warsaw, where he labored successfully for three years. The next two years he spent in Wabash Station. In 1870 he was stationed at the Central Methodist Church in Richmond, where he remained until his death, which took place June 17, 1872, after a painful illness. His disease was typhoid pneumonia.

Brother Comstock was a man of more than ordinary culture. After leaving college he continued to study industriously, and acquired a somewhat familiar acquaintance with the Hebrew and Greek Scriptures. As a preacher he was clear, practical, earnest, and effective. As a pastor he had few equals. His religious experience was deep and thorough. He was a living witness of the efficacy of the blood of Christ to cleanse from all sin. His death was peaceful and triumphant.

2. C. W. MILLER died near Colorado city, Colorado Territory, April 8, 1872. He was born near Richmond, Ind., November 7, 1817; was converted August 9, 1831, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in September following. He entered the old Indiana Conference in 1840. When that was divided he became a member of North Indiana Conference, in the bounds of which he devoted thirty-one years of sacrifice and toil. He was the preacher in charge of the following circuits: La Grange, Haw Patch, Eel River, Liberty Mills, Angola, Hagarstown, Rockville, Hartford City, and Jonesborough. He traveled the Eel River Circuit in 1842, which at that time extended over more than three counties, and embraced what is now divided into eight circuits and four stations. He was pastor of the following stations: Centerville, Goshen, Kokomo, Main-street, Peru; Pearl-street, Richmond; Huntington; Roberts Chapel, Indianapolis; Berry-street, Fort Wayne; Central Church, Richmond; St. Paul's, Peru. For three years he was Presiding Elder of Muncie District. In 1871, after serving St. Paul's Church, Peru, for four months, his declining health compelled him to seek relaxation and rest for his worn and jaded body. He went West with the hope of regaining his health; but, alas! consumption had commenced its slow but inevitable work of death. The change afforded him temporary relief, yet even this was soon overcome by the fatal ravages of that dreadful disease.

Brother Miller possessed much more than ordinary ability as a minister. He excelled in the combination and well-adjusted proportions of the elements of ministerial success; possessed very fine social qualities, and was kind-hearted and liberal almost to a fault. He was one of the sweet singers of Israel. His sermons were prepared with great care, and displayed thought and varied resources of mind and heart, and were delivered with great earnestness and pathos. His ministry was a successful one, resulting in continued accessions and conversions in large numbers. But few ministers have received more persons into the Church. He was granted a superannuated relation, at his own request, at the last session of this Conference, and within one week thereafter the Master said unto his triumphant soul, "It is enough: come up higher!" The following trustful utterances were among his last on earth: "I not only have sweet submission, but, thanks be unto God! I have victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Blessed Jesus! thy will, not mine, be done."

3. CAMPBELL BROCK was born in Tennessee in 1827. He was converted in 1850, licensed to preach in 1851, entered the Wabash Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in 1852, filled various charges in the pastorate and presiding eldership up to 1869, when he was admitted into this Conference, and was appointed to Normanda Circuit. In 1870–71 he was sent to Tipton. During the latter year he retired to his farm in Boone County, where his health gradually failed until his decease, which took place in the latter part of the present Conference year. The particulars of his illness and death have not come to hand, but it is understood that his end was peaceful.

Mulfred Bullard.

MULFRED BULLARD was born in Stockbridge, Vt., June 6, 1808, and died in Lancaster, N. H., May 30, 1872, aged sixty-four years. His mother was a woman of earnest piety, and devoted to the moral culture of her children. He was converted at fifteen years of age, and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Having exercised for awhile as a local preacher, he was ordained a local deacon in 1836. In 1846 he was appointed to Topsham, next to Berlin, and afterward to East Montpelier, Plainfield, Moretown, superannuate for two years, became effective and was stationed successively at Bethel Lympus, Norwich, Kirby, Lunenburgh, Derby, Barton Landing, Newport Center, Guildhall, when he again became superannuated, and so continued until his death. On the morning of the day on which he died he called his family to his bedside and took that last look, that last grasp of the hand, and spoke that last good-bye to each of his loved ones, and told his faithful wife, who had shared his trials and his joys for twenty-three years in the itineraney, he was willing to go, and passed "over the river," while all present felt that he had died well and had gained his long-sought rest.

Brother Bullard was a man of sanguine temperament, and was well calculated to gain warm friends. Souls were converted on nearly all his appointments. He was a good preacher, and excelled in social meetings, at times was "mighty in prayer." His wife, who is in feeble health, and three children are left to mourn their loss.

C. H. Gridley, John M. Weaver, Hiram Harris, Henry A. Warren, Albert Champlin, B. O. Meeker, A. Shurtliff—7.

1. CYPRIAN H. GRIDLEY was a native of Connecticut. Having sought and found peace with God, he united himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and being filled with zeal and the Holy Ghost, he felt that he had a work to do in saving souls, and, without any previous training and preparation excepting his conversion, he offered himself to the New York Conference at the age of twenty or twenty-one. The Conference received him in 1808, and sent him to Whittingham Circuit, Rhinebeck District, after which he traveled successively the following circuits: Delaware, Albany District; Montgomery; Pittsfield; Malone, on the Canada line; Grand Isle, in Lake Champlain; Middleburgh, Vt.; Brandon and Chazy; and to Middleburgh, Vt., again. The wide extent of territory covered by these circuits, together with the hardships and deprivations incident to sparsely settled regions, soon caused a breaking down of a physical system that was naturally fragile, so that, in 1820, he was compelled to take a superannuated relation. Although sustaining this relation, he was not idle, but went about doing good; and what he did was done with all his might.

Brother Gridley's preaching talent was of an extraordinary character, and his zeal was equal to his talents. He was therefore eagerly sought after to supply vacancies occasioned by the sickness or absence of his ministerial brethren. Always ready to meet these calls, he labored beyond his strength, and was often so prostrated by preaching a single sermon that, at its close, he had to be helped out of the church. He was sound in Methodist theology and a safe counselor. He loved the doctrines and discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1860 he removed from Middleburgh, Vt., to Appleton, Wis., where he spent the evening of life with one of his children. From 1860 to 1872 he sent annually his salutations to his Conference, and remained the same faithful, good man, slowly sinking to his rest, which took place August 28, 1872, he being about eighty-five years old. So has passed away an aged patriarch of the Troy Conference. May we profit by his example!

2. JOHN M. WEAVER died in Ganges, Mich., May 12, 1872, in his eightieth year. He was born in Washington County, N. Y., July 5, 1792. He was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church when about twenty-one years of age. He was licensed to preach in 1816, and so continued until 1829, when he was receive into the New York Conference.

His appointments were Hoosic and Bennington, Petersburgh, Whitehall—in these charges he reported an increase of two hundred in six years—Middleburgh District, Plattsburgh District, Saratoga District, (as presiding elder for eleven years uninterruptedly,) West Plattsburgh, Waterford, Plattsburgh District, Third-street, Troy, and Schuyler's Falls, where his nervous system became prostrated from excessive labor, and he took a superannuated relation in 1855. In 1859 he resumed active labor, and spent one year at Schuyler's Falls and one on Swanton charge, when he retired from active labor, in his sixty-ninth year, to await the call of the Master to his heavenly crown.

Brother Weaver was twice honored by his brethren as a delegate to the General Conference. He was devotedly attached to the Church of his choice, and acquitted himself well in all his relations to the Church. As a Christian, his experience of divine grace was deep and rich. His uniform devotion made his profession of perfect love like the leaves of the tree of life. He was a good preacher and a good presiding elder. The last few weeks on earth were weeks of suffering, but grace sustained him. His end was peace.

3. HIRAM HARRIS was born in Beekmantown, N. Y., July 19, 1824, and at the age of seventeen he was soundly and joyfully converted to God. He used to say that "he was born alive into the kingdom, able to rejoice, and give glory to God at once; and Satan was never able to make him doubt the reality of the change." Soon after his conversion, his brethren were convinced that God had called him to the ministry; but he was naturally timid, and hesitated. He was licensed to preach, and for several years labored with great acceptability in the local ranks. In 1849–50 he was a supply on Jay Circuit, and God honored his ministry in connection with his colleague by the conversion of two hundred souls. The following year he devoted mostly to the improvement of his mind. In 1851 he was sent as a supply to Beekmantown Circuit, and in 1852 he was received on trial and appointed to Saranac Mission. Subsequently he traveled on the Wilton, Malter, Halfmoon, Old Stillwater, Berne, Root, Coblesskill, Knox, Richwood, and Clarksville charges. While at the last-named charge he preached his last sermon June 23, 1872, after which he failed rapidly until, on August 6, he passed away in perfect Christian triumph. Among his last sayings were the following: "It is all right. God is good. Precious Saviour!" Laying his hand upon his heart, he would say, "Here is my comfort: Christ is in me the hope of glory. Faithful and true witness." And again, "O the glory! O the splendor! O the innumerable company! I have seen the King in his beauty!" and then "Glory! glory! glory!" would roll from his lips until his strength would be completely exhausted. Just as he was passing over the river, he looked up with a sweet smile and waved his hand in token of victory. He has left a wife and two children to mourn their loss. They hope to meet him again. He was a good preacher, and "feared God above many."

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

4. HENRY A. WARREN was born in Willsborough, N. Y., March 30, 1839, and died in the same place June 29, 1872, in his thirty-fourth year. In 1858 he was converted, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Some eight or ten years later he was licensed as a local preacher. In 1870 he joined this Conference on trial, and was appointed to Beekmantown Circuit, where he continued two years. March 27, 1872, he was received into full connection, and, on account of feeble health, was placed on the supernumerary list, hoping that a few months of rest would restore him to health, but he continued to fail until he died.

Brother Warren was remarkable for his zeal and devotion to the interests of the Church and of souls. His labors were successful. His characteristic energy gave promise of great usefulness in his chosen sphere; but how true it is, that to "overdo is to undo." Giving the reins to his emotions and the energies of his young manhood, he was driven beyond his powers of endurance. Thus the elements of his prospective usefulness became the apparent cause of his premature death. While passing through the valley of the shadow of death God was with him. He trusted in Christ to the last, and his death was triumphant.

5. ALBERT CHAMPLIN died in Charlotte, Vt., June 18, 1872, aged sixty-one years. He was born in East Middlebury, Vt., December 3, 1809. He was converted among the Congregationalists in 1825. In December, 1827, he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and soon after, feeling he was called of God to the work of the ministry, he obtained an exhorter's license, and began to exercise his gifts. God put the seal of approval upon him and his work. He entered this conference in 1834. In October, 1836, he was married to Miss Almira Newman, who was to him a most faithful and devoted wife, preceding him to the heavenly country but by three months.

Brother Champlin labored on twenty-one different charges, and for thirty-two years toiled faithfully for the salvation of his fellow-men. In 1868 he took a superannuated relation, which he held until he died. He was in thorough sympathy with all the interests of the Church, and was ever ready for work; and in his sacred, life-long calling he delighted to the very last. His conceptions of the dignity and duty of his high calling were not ordinary. For forty years he had stood firmly on Zion's wall proclaiming the glorious Gospel of the Lord Jesus. His was a true ministry. He never compromised the truth, for to him it was the ordained instrument of all the rich purposes of divine mercy, and he both felt and saw its beneficent results. It was fitting that his end should be peaceful, for his life had been Christian.

Brother Champlin had been enrolled as one of the Lord's own disciples. All that his Lord did was right. He kissed the rod as oft as it fell upon him, and received strength from the added burdens of affliction. When his son was taken in February last he said, "It is the Lord: let him do what seemeth him good." In March, 1872, his beloved wife was called to her reward. This was his heaviest blow; it bore him to earth, and, to our vision, he never rose till the glad spirit, freed from its cumbrous clay, sped its flight to its long-sought home of rest.

6. BEREA O. MEEKER died of heart disease in West Sand Lake, N. Y., January 3, 1873. He was born in Sheldon, Vt., May 13, 1816. His parents were devoted members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and they took especial pains in training their children for God, and had the satisfaction of seeing them all become members of the Church in early life. Berea was converted at nine years of age. He used to allude to this fact when addressing Sabbath-schools, and when urging children to give their hearts to God, by saying, "When I was a little boy, nine years old, God converted me while my now sainted mother was praying for me." He was a fair English scholar, and through life he was a diligent student. He was, also, a sweet singer, which aided him greatly in his labors. He was licensed to preach in 1836, and for near two years labored with acceptability under the presiding elder. In 1838 he was admitted on trial in this Conference and appointed to Sand Lake Circuit, where he remained two years. His subsequent appointments were Bristol, Burlington, Charlotte, Granville, Castleton, Middlebury, North Second-street in Troy, Glen's Falls, Burlington again, North Adams, Hudson-street in Albany, Chatham and Center Dalton, Bennington, Williamstown and West Sand Lake, where he continued to labor until the evening of December 29, 1872. After preaching his sermon he arranged to commence a series of meetings, and announced service for each evening during the coming week. But his work was done; the same night he was taken with a chill, after which a high fever set in, which continued till Friday evening, when, at about eleven o'clock, he expired without a struggle or a groan. So suddenly was he taken away that he left no dying testimony. But we have the record of a devoted life.

Brother Meeker was a good man, genial, cheerful, and hopeful: a pleasant companion and warm friend; unusually beloved by preachers and people. He was a good preacher—clear, plain, pointed. As a pastor he excelled always, being sympathetic and faithful. He had few equals, if any, in the social means of grace. Hundreds, through his instrumentality, were added to the Church. He was a true Methodist, desiring above every thing else to be useful. He has gone. Let us follow him as he followed Christ.

7. ASAPH SHURTLIFF died in Easton, N. Y., February 3, 1873, in his seventy-first year. When a young man, with a family of small children, he came from Canada, and settled in the town in which he afterward closed his earthly pilgrimage. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was for many years an earnest and useful local preacher, and was always a ready and efficient helper of the itinerants in their revival services, and the fruits of his labors are seen after many days. In 1853 he was received into this Conference, and for eleven years he filled the several appointments assigned him with acceptability and usefulness. He was a good preacher and a faithful pastor. In 1864 he took a supernumerary relation, in which and that of a superannuate he continued until his death.

His wife dying, he passed the closing years of his life in the society of his children. About three years since a disease developed itself that eased him down slowly and almost painlessly to his rest in the grave. Flesh and heart failed him, but faith and hope sustained and comforted, and made him more than conqueror through Jesus Christ.

QUEST. 14. Have any been Expelled?

None.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

John Batcheler, Jesse Harriman—2.

1. JOHN BATCHELER was born in Brookfield, Mass., August 23, 1795, and died in Bristol, Maine, February 15, 1873, in his seventy-eighth year. He was converted at the age of sixteen. Feeling it to be his duty to preach the Gospel, he was licensed in 1817, ordained deacon in 1821, and elder in 1830, in which year he was admitted into the Maine Conference. He received successively the following appointments: Orrington and Bucksport, Surry, Steuben, Brooksville, Penobscot, Surry again, Brownville, Dover, Hermon. He located in 1841, but in 1843 was re-admitted and placed on the superannuated list. The above shows but a small part of the labor he performed during the fifty-six years of his ministry. He filled appointments under the presiding elder both before he entered the traveling connection and after he became superannuated. During his last sickness, which continued only five days, he could converse but little. He often exclaimed, in the language of the psalmist, "Bless the Lord, O my soul!"

Father Batchelder was much beloved and respected by his neighbors, among whom he had lived for nearly thirty years, even the unconverted remarking that a "good man had gone." Yes, we trust, gone to that city whose inhabitant shall not say, "I am sick."

2. JESSE HARRIMAN was born in Sandwich, N. H., October 28, 1793, and died in Bangor, Maine, February 18, 1873. He was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1818. He was licensed to exhort in 1821, and to preach in 1822; was ordained deacon in 1828, and elder in 1836. He joined the Maine Conference the same year, and filled the following appointments: Unity Circuit, Palmyra, Harmony, Industry, Friendship, Elliott, Scarborough, Buxton, Phippsburgh, Boothbay, Surry, Sullivan, Woolwich, Southport, Arrowsic, Westport, South Vassalborough, Clinton, Winslow, and, in 1861, superannuated.

Brother Harriman well understood, and was a firm believer in, the doctrines of Methodism. His Christian life and character were above reproach. His labors were not in vain in the Lord. He enjoyed frequent, and sometimes glorious, revivals in his fields of labor. His gentlemanly deportment, which made him respected by all and beloved by many, was the result, not so much of educational training, as that religious development which the apostle calls the "fruit of the Spirit." Death to him was but the messenger which was to introduce him into the society of the "just made perfect." It has been truthfully and eloquently said of him: "If a life so spent in this world, together with a glorious departure from it, and the assured approval of the Master beyond: if these constitute success, then was that high result secured by Jesse Harriman."

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Francis C. Ayer.

FRANCIS C. AYER was born in Cornish, Me., November 1, 1813, and died in Bowdoinham, Me., May 10, 1872. He was converted in 1843, received license to exhort in 1846, joined this Conference in 1849, and spent his itinerant life in the following places: Scarborough, South Biddeford, York, Kittery, Berwick, Scarborough, Newfield, Goodwin's Mills, South Waterford, Bridgeton, York, Newfield, North Gorham and Standish, Cape Elizabeth Depot, Winthrop, and Bowdoinham.

Brother Ayer possessed many valuable traits of character. He was endowed with a large share of common sense; he was always in earnest, and, at the same time, eminently practical. He believed the Christian religion was designed to aid and bless man in every department of human existence. Hence, when not employed in his pastoral work, his studies or public labors, he was always engaged in some temporal work that promised good to himself or others. He was never unemployed. He was eminently social and companionable. Kind and affectionate at home and abroad, he made friends wherever he went; and his opponents were only those who were displeased with his plain, outspoken, and fearless manner of rebuking sin and error. His preaching talent was above mediocrity; his sermons were plain, pointed, and practical, though sometimes he would soar aloft with wonderful eloquence and power. God blessed his labors, and we believe that many souls will rise up and call him blessed in the great day of final adjustment. His last sickness was borne with patience, Christian fortitude, and resignation to the Divine will. When interrogated during his sickness with reference to the state of his mind, his answer invariably was, "I am on the Rock; all is right." When the final hour came, as he sat on the bed, supported by his wife and two sons, he said, "I am going: lay me down, boys," and passed away without a struggle or groan. Thus the good man lives, and thus the good man dies. May our last end be like his!

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

E. C. Moore.

E. C. MOORE, our beloved brother, has, during the last Conference year, been removed from us by Almighty God in his wise providence, and, while we do not murmur at this afflicting providence, yet we deeply mourn our loss; and while we humbly bow in submission to the God who giveth life, and who alone hath power to take life, we take sweet consolation in the thought that "our loss is his infinite gain." He leaves an affectionate wife to mourn his loss. His fellow-ministers are most respectfully invited to emulate the example of this good man, so that, like him, they may like the righteous die.

S. Dale, G. W. Freeland—2.

1. Rev. SAMUEL DALE lived in Middletown, Del., where, after many years of active and useful service in the cause of Christ, he died happily on the 16th of Nov., 1873, aged seventy-three. In all the stations to which he was appointed warm friends lament his departure, while they look forward with glad anticipation to a blissful reunion in the land without storms. The Church has sustained a real loss in his death.

2. Rev. G. W. FREELAND, who was born in Petersburgh, Va., joined the Delaware Conference July, 1871, at the session held in Salem, N. Y. After a severe illness he died at Chestertown, Md., on the 16th of April, 1873, aged forty-two. The death of this brother was deeply felt by those who were associated with him in his labors. His ministry was successful, and many souls were, without doubt, by his labors garnered on high. His end was peace.

G. J. Conner, A. B. Wambaugh,* Wesley Rector*—3.

Rev. GEORGE J. CONNER was born in Frederick, Md., April 9, 1829, and died at Rainsborough, Ohio, April 1, 1873. When fourteen years of age he was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, under the labors of Rev. Robert Emory. At that time none of his family were Methodists, the father being a Roman Catholic and the mother a Lutheran; but George was soon instrumental in leading his parents and sisters to Christ. Being convinced of his call to the work of the ministry, he entered, and in time was graduated from, Dickinson College. While attending college he led a class of students, and was superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Sabbath-school of Carlisle. He studied medicine and received the degree of M.D., as well as a diploma from the Dental College of Baltimore. Brother Conner was the successor of Rev. R. Pierce as Principal of Cassville Seminary, a position from which he retired after eighteen months' successful operation, and became a member of the East Baltimore Conference. In 1859 he joined the Virginia Conference of the Church, South, and at the commencement of the war removed to Parkersburgh, West Virginia, where he opened a successful Female Seminary. When his beloved wife died he again entered the ministry of the Church, South. His appointments were: Catlettsburgh, Ashland, Kentucky. At the latter place he conducted an academy until failing health compelled him to desist. In 1871 he was admitted to the Cincinnati Conference, and was appointed to Venice, and then to Highland Circuit. In 1872 disease forced him to retire from active service. For nearly four months he suffered intensely, but patiently. His death-scene was one of holy triumph and estatic joy. To his various Christian friends he said, "I am resting on the Rock of Ages. All my hope is in Christ, he keeps me every moment; his grace is sufficient for me. He is my stay—my comfort. I feel secure in the atonement; from this my mind does not waver. I have had many and great conflicts with the enemy, but now I am fully satisfied. O to think I am so near the end of all my sorrows, so near to my eternal home, while you, in point of time, may be so far away, I would not exchange places with you for the world!" Thus triumphantly he died.

As a preacher, Brother Conner was a methodical sermonizer. His voice was pleasant and well-trained. He was naturally reserved, yet capable of devoted friendship; a cultured man, of noble, generous impulses, with a clear, quick mind, thorough and extensive in his attainments. He possessed the qualifications of an influential minister of Christ. In public life, and in the retirement of home, he was the same high-toned Christian gentleman.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

H. Koeneke.

HENRY KOENEKE was born March 23, 1800, at Zeeven, Hanover, and died in Belleville, Illinois, June 19, 1873, having reached the age of seventy-three. When he was nine years old his father died.

His pious mother's example early induced him to become a Christian; but it was not until 1833 that he entered into the full light of God's peace. Being persecuted for his opinions, in 1836 he determined to emigrate to America. He made his home in Wheeling, Virginia, and at once united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was soon licensed to preach. In 1840 he was received into Pittsburgh Conference, and stationed at Marietta, O., where he labored two years against great difficulties, but with good results. Pomeroy Mission and Evansville, Indiana, were his next appointments. A serious illness brought him near to death in the latter place; but recovering, he labored with renewed energy, and when his term expired a new brick church, three log churches, and a good number of additional members, were the pleasing evidences of his devotion and success. In 1845 his career as Presiding Elder commenced. Eight years of earnest labor and glorious triumph were spent on St. Louis and Quincy Districts, and three years on Belleville District. His health becoming again feeble, he was requested to become pastor of Belleville Station, which for two years flourished under his ministry. But his physical strength was gone, and he was compelled to become superannuated. Fifteen years were added to his life, during which he labored as God gave him strength. At last the long-looked-for hour of rest came. His last days were made bright with prospects of a blissful eternity, although his poor, wasted frame was racked with distressing pains. With praises on his lips he entered into everlasting peace.

Father Koeneke was kind and loving; he was an ardent, practical preacher, and a laborious pastor. He has his reward.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

J. F. Kennedy, J. Wheeler—2.

1. JOSEPH F. KENNEDY was converted in early life, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. To qualify himself for the work of the ministry he studied in Norwalk Seminary, of which the late Bishop Thomson was then principal. In 1845 he was admitted on trial in the conference, and soon distinguished himself for energy, executive ability, and a strong ambition for usefulness and distinction. He was an excellent preacher and an earnest worker. Among the pastoral charges which he served were Mount Vernon, Marion, Mansfield, and Ashland. He was twice Presiding Elder on the Wooster and Mansfield districts. He was a member of the General Conference of 1868, and of the Book Committee whose arduous labors extended through the four succeeding years.

For several years previous to his death there was a gradual decline of health, marked at times by mental depression and nervous prostration. Protracted domestic affliction and the death of children aggravated his disease, resulting in disappointed hopes and shattered nerves.

At the last conference session he received, at his own request, the appointment of Financial Agent of the Ohio Wesleyan University. Soon after conference, however, he seemed impressed with the conviction that he could be of no service to the Church in that department of labor, and that he was henceforth to be a useless burden to the Conference. The gloom of a deep despondency, like a rayless night, settled down on his disordered mind, resulting at length in the sad event which has deprived the Church of one of its earnest workers and overwhelmed his friends with the deepest affliction.

2. JAMES WHEELER died in Bucyrus, Ohio, February 27, 1873, aged seventy-one. When only ten years of age, he found peace in believing; but failing to make profession of his faith by uniting with the Church, he soon lost the evidence of his acceptance with God. When about twenty-one years of age he again gave his heart fully to God, and at once united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1833 he was admitted on trial to the Ohio Conference, and was graduated regularly in the itinerant ministry. He became subsequently a member of the Michigan and North Ohio Conference. In 1839 he was appointed to the Wyandot Mission. After remaining there five years he went with the Mission in its transfer from Ohio to its new home in Kansas, and there remained with them, as missionary, two years. He then returned to the North Ohio Conference. His zeal in the missionary cause never abated. To the close of life he ceased not to pray, plead for, and to give in aid of this noble cause. To him all other enterprises were of small import compared with that of converting this world to Christ. He was emphatically a man of one work. His natural endowments were of a high order, his literary attainments fair, his discourses always well arranged and instructive, and his manner such as to impress all minds that he was a man of God. His life was a beautiful example of purity, fidelity, and consistency, and his death one of Christian triumph. His record is on high.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Rufus Parker,* M. V. Troy,* E. M. Nowlen, A. Burgess—4.

EDWARD M. NOWLEN was born in Mentor, Lake County, Ohio, October 1, 1826. His early educational advantages were limited, but in youth he gave his heart to God, and being convinced of a call to preach, he, by strenuous efforts, overcame early drawbacks, and completed a thorough course of study in the Concord Biblical Institute.

In July, 1854, he was received on trial in the Erie Conference. Wherever he ministered he gave great satisfaction, and through his efforts many souls were born to God. His last appointment was to Braceville, O., where he was in labors abundant. His health, which for some time had been feeble, now rapidly declined. Only that he might preach the Gospel and be the human comfort and guide of his family, did he desire to recover; but in all things he was resigned to the will of his heavenly Father. The day before his death his wife said to him, "I do not feel that I can give you up." He replied, "I know you feel so; but, Amelia, you must try with Christian philosophy to meet the result. It will all be right."

Brother Nowlen was an amiable Christian man, a fast friend, a safe counselor in all matters of religion, and an able minister of the Gospel. He possessed a meek and quiet spirit, and studied to please God rather than man. In sweet peace he fell asleep in Jesus, March 6, 1873.

ALVIN BURGESS was born in Booneville, Oneida County, N. Y., May 10, 1820, and died in East Randolph, N. Y., Oct. 22, 1872, in his fifty-third year. When he was thirteen years old his parents removed to Bainbridge, O. Here, through the instrumentality of his mother, a deeply pious lady, he was converted, in his eighteenth year. With his father's consent, and at his mother's request, the youthful convert erected a family altar and became the priest of the household. Soon he was impressed with the conviction that it was his duty to preach the Gospel. The question of duty being definitely settled, he directed his energies to secure a preparation for the work.

Brother Burgess was licensed to preach in 1840, and admitted into the Erie Conference on trial the same year. His first appointment was Hartford Circuit. He returned from our last annual Conference to his work as Presiding Elder of Jamestown District, which position he had filled with much acceptability the previous year. But he was soon stricken down with the disease which terminated his active and useful life. Being asked but a short time before his death if he felt that it was well with him, he looked up as if astonished at the question, and said with wonderful emphasis, "How can it be otherwise! God is my God, my rock and my salvation, my trust for time and all eternity;" and then added, "what more does a man need?"

QUEST. 13. Have any been Transferred, and to what Conference?
J. H. M'Carty, to Michigan.

QUEST. 14. Have any been Expelled?
None.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?
Solomon S. Littlefield, Albert Hubbell.*

SOLOMON S. LITTLEFIELD died Dec. 3, 1873, in Detroit. He was born in Verona, Oneida County, N. Y., April 22, 1829. He came to Michigan with his parents when but a lad and settled in the north of Monroe County. Here he was brought to a saving knowledge of the truth, in his fourteenth year, and immediately united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which his parents were honored members. He was licensed and united with the Michigan Conference in 1852, and was assigned to Medina Circuit as junior preacher. The next year he was appointed in charge of the Rome Circuit. Ever after this, while he was able to do effective work, he was in charge. He was a very diligent and faithful minister, a prudent and careful administrator of discipline, and true to all the interests of the Church. In August, 1854, he was married to Miss Ophelia A. Boyles, who has proved to be a most worthy companion, and who, with three children, is left to mourn.

Brother Littlefield was a most worthy man and sound minister, having had a genuine Christian experience. He truly adorned the doctrine of God our Saviour, and walked worthy of the vocation wherewith he was called. In patience and faith he possessed his soul. For a number of years his health was such that he had to be placed on the superannuated list. In this relation he did what he could for the Master's cause, having all the while an ardent desire to do good and promote piety. His last illness was very severe for most of the time. He was able to attend to his duties until about the 6th of September, when he was prostrated by disease, from which he never rallied. But the spirit is free from its suffering body and has gone to be with his Lord, which is far better than to be here.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Moses Blackstock.

MOSES BLACKSTOCK was born in Ireland, March 1, 1793, and died near Paxton, Ill., August 31, 1873.

In the year 1760 a colony left Scotland for Ireland under the leadership of Lord Farnham, and settled near the city of Dublin. With them the grandfather of the deceased, a minister of the Established Church of Scotland, went as chaplain.

At the age of eighteen, while attending college in the city of Dublin, the attention of young Moses was one day attracted by two strangely-attired men riding down street on horseback, inviting the people to a certain place where they were about to preach. They were Methodist preachers—Revs. Gideon Ouseley and Graham. He went with the multitude, and listened attentively while, seated upon their horses, they read and sung their hymns, announced their texts, and preached what was to him a new Gospel. Under their instruction he soon experienced a change of heart. His father sternly opposed this "new-fangled religion," having always designated his son for the ministry in the Established Church of Scotland. When entreaty proved of no avail harsher measures were used, and Moses was finally told that if he was bent on being a Methodist he must leave home. With sorrowful but trustful heart he accepted the condition, and left next morning. He had not gone far, however, before his father overtook him and urged him to return. "I will return, father," was his reply, "only on condition that I be allowed to worship God according to my conscience and to pray in the family." To this his father assented. He returned, and through his instrumentality his father, mother, brothers, and sisters were all happily converted. One year after his conversion he received license to preach, and returned to school to prepare himself for the itinerancy. In 1814 he became united to the faithful companion who so gently lightened his burdens, shared his sorrows, and cheered his heart through all the years of his active ministry. In 1818, with a colony of emigrants, he left Ireland as a missionary for Canada, where he preached regularly for forty-two years, filling important positions in connection with the Wesleyan Conference. In 1856, on account of feeble health, he removed to Indiana and settled near Lafayette. He identified himself with the North-west Indiana Conference, of which he was an honored member at his death. His health, however, forbade his entering the regular work. In 1868 he was most sadly afflicted by the loss of his amiable wife, and ever after lived in anticipation of that blissful re-union which, on Sunday, August 31, was consummated in heaven. His death was calm, gentle, sweet.

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

Sixty years he spent in the ministry of Jesus Christ, and these years have been crowned with gracious success. About twenty years ago he entered into the blessing of perfect love, and since then his life has shone with greater beauty, admired and loved by all. He was blessed with a family of fourteen children, all of whom professed conversion before the age of eighteen years, a fact which is in itself a high encomium upon the life and character of our departed brother.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?
J. G. Dimmitt, Geo. W. Saint, E. Wood *—3.

1. JACOB GEST DIMMITT was born at Harper's Ferry, Va., March 1, 1806, and died in Des Moines, Iowa, November 20, 1872. He was converted at the age of fourteen, and his conversion was strikingly emblematic of his bright and happy Christian experience all through life. After attending prayer-meeting, and spending the night in earnest supplication until overcome by weariness and sleep, he says, "When I awoke next morning the sun was shining brightly through my chamber window, and the light of God's favor and love still more brightly upon my soul, and I felt a blessed assurance that my prayer was answered and I saved."

He attributed his early conversion to the influence and prayers of his Christian mother, and was himself largely instrumental in the conversion of his father. He was soon impressed that he must preach the Gospel, but he desired an easier life than that of an itinerant preacher. God took the jewels of his home. From that time he set his affections more firmly on things above, and shortly after accepted a license to preach. He was received into the Ohio Conference in 1839, and traveled Georgetown, Madisonville, White Oak, and Deerfield Circuits. These were important appointments, with from eight to fifteen hundred members each, and from twenty to thirty preaching places, allowing only six days of rest in four weeks. He was stationed in Piqua, Xenia, Chillicothe, and Circleville. In 1850 he removed to Iowa, joined the Upper Ohio Conference, and was stationed at Dubuque, Cascade, Maquoketa, Iowa City, Davenport, Mt. Vernon, and Cedar Falls. He was also presiding elder on the Dubuque and Iowa City Districts. He represented his brethren in the General Conferences of 1852 and 1856. These appointments show that he shared the highest responsibilities of that conference. Within its bounds he was greatly beloved by the people, and strong men in the ministry now rise up to do honor to his memory.

* Obituary not received.

He removed to Des Moines in 1868, and after one year of rest was induced to take the Des Moines District. For one year and a half the Church was greatly edified by his ministrations. But the labor and exposure were too great for him and his strength gave way. Disease of the heart developed, from which he often suffered intensely during the remainder of his days. His physicians did all that was possible to relieve him. But the case was hopeless, and beyond their skill. The most constant and tenderest ministrations of a home were kindly and abundantly bestowed upon him. His "joy was unutterable and full of glory," and now in the few days that tremblingly awaited his going home all his hopes centered in that expression which was his choice delight beyond all others, and which by day and by night, in company with friends or alone, clearly rang out from his voice with emphasis of realization and delight of rapture, "There is a fountain filled with blood."

Brother Dimmitt was of commanding personal presence, and possessed rare natural endowments, graced with culture and refinement. His traits of character were all well defined; his opinions clear and positive, and freely expressed on all appropriate occasions. His social qualities were of a high order, and his friendships true as the needle to the pole. He was a master in Israel in the exposition of the Scriptures. His sermons were characterized by a terseness of style, clearness of statement, happy manner of expression, and glow of sanctified emotion which combined a high literary excellence with a warm fervor of devotion. One who heard him long says, "Some of his sermons were of marvelous power, and will linger in the memory of the thousands who heard them as things of beauty and inspirations of purity forever."

But he has gone to dwell beside the "river of the water of life" forever, where his greetings wait the coming of loved ones and his brethren.

2. GEORGE W. SAINT was born of Quaker parentage, in December, 1838. In youth he was converted, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Henry County, Iowa. A short time after he was granted an exhorter's license, and with much zeal labored to bring souls to Jesus. When the cry of his country called for strong arms and brave hearts to defend her he rushed into the ranks, fought on through the three years, and then re-enlisted as a veteran. Shortly after his return to Henry County a careful examination of his heart showed him that he was too far away from God. Then he sought and obtained a blessed nearness to Jesus, after which his experience was as the "path that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." Some little time after this he moved to Decatur County, Ia., when he was licensed as a local preacher, and as such he labored till September, 1873, when at Chariton he was admitted on trial into Des Moines Conference, and appointed to Exira charge, where he labored efficiently till shortly after his fourth quarterly meeting, when by a short and rapid sickness he took his departure to the "land of rest." Peacefully he passed away, saying to his friends that the river was not deep, nor were its waters chill; but there was a great company with songs of triumph marching with him.

Williamson Terrell, William Maupin—2.

1. WILLIAMSON TERRELL was born in Clarke County, Ky., June 12, 1805; and, with his parents, moved to Vernon, Ind., April 2, 1820, where he joined the Baptist Church at the age of fifteen, but shortly after this made a visit to Kentucky, during which he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the neighborhood of his former home. At the age of twenty-two he came to Columbus, Ind., where for a number of years he lived and labored almost alone as a member of the Methodist Church. He led the first Methodist class in this place, of which class but two members are now living. He was licensed to exhort in 1830, and afterward to preach. He continued to labor as a local preacher until 1841, when he was admitted into Indiana Conference, and was appointed to Columbus Circuit. After this his appointments were as follows: Bedford, Columbus, Milroy, Connersville, Brookville, New Albany, Madison. In 1852 he was appointed Agent of the American Bible Society for the State of Indiana, and thus labored successfully for thirteen years. In 1865–66 he was appointed to the Greensburgh Station. From 1867–70 he traveled the Madison District, and in 1871–72 the Columbus District.

But few persons were more conversant with history and theology. So tenacious was Brother Terrell's memory that he could repeat entire chapters of Ancient History without making a single mistake. For forty-three years he annually read the Bible through, and could with readiness refer to any portion of the Word of God. He was identified with every interest looking to the welfare of the community in which he lived. Twice he represented his county in the State Legislature. He was among the first and ablest opponents of slavery. He was honored by his Conference with important trusts and responsible positions. In 1863 he was the first elected delegate to the General Conference. He also represented his Conference in the Board of Trustees for Asbury University.

On Saturday, March 1, 1873, Brother Terrell went to his quarterly meeting on the Jonesville Circuit, some ten miles west of Columbus. While there the weather became extremely cold, and when returning on the 3d he suffered so intensely as to remark on reaching home that had he been on the road half an hour longer he would have frozen. Of his labors at this, his last quarterly meeting, the pastor of the circuit, Rev. A. M. Thornton, writes: "On Saturday morning, March 1, Brother Terrell preached from 1 John iii, 2, 3, in the evening from 1 John i, 9, and on Sabbath morning from Isaiah xxxv, 8, 9, 10. These were all superior efforts. I have heard him often, and there was more of the personal and direct application than usual. After the morning service he administered the Lord's Supper. It was a precious season, and at its close he baptized six children. He spent the afternoon at Brother Thompson's, and before departing for church and home he spoke personally to each member of the family concerning their religious condition; and then in prayer, designating each one by name, he earnestly invoked the Divine blessing upon all. After I had preached in the evening, he followed in exhortation to the young, giving them his early experience and urging them to early piety."

On Tuesday, March 4, he was attacked with congestion of the stomach, from which he suffered until Easter Sunday, April 13, at half past two o'clock, when he was called from labor to reward.

It would seem fitting that, in Columbus, where he was best known, and where he had first and longest labored, he should cease at once to work and live. Frequently during his illness he would speak, not exultantly, of his entering heaven, but of his hope and trust in Christ, many times repeating, "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." Thus has passed from us a useful citizen, a good man, an able minister of the Lord Jesus, and of whom it may be said, "He was a workman that needed not to be ashamed."

2. WILLIAM MAUPIN was born in Fleming County, Ky., October 11, 1819, and died in Union County, Ind., June 27, 1873, in his fifty-fifth year. He was converted in Sept., 1836; licensed to preach Sept. 1, 1849; and was admitted into the Indiana Conference October 13, 1851, and appointed to Azalia Circuit. At the organization of the South-eastern Indiana Conference, in 1852, he fell within its bounds, and from it received the following appointments: Lexington Circuit, New Washington, Vienna, Paris, Moorefield, Vernon, Elizabethtown, Milford, Sardinia, Hope, Edinburgh Station, Milton, Mt. Carmel, and in 1871–72 Whitewater Mission, where he ended his arduous labors as a minister and laborer in the Master's vineyard.

He was married to Miss Maletha Parish, in Fleming County, Ky., in 1839. She died in the spring of 1858, and was buried at Paris, Ind. In the fall of the same year he was married to Miss Rhoda J. Hall, who now survives him.

As a man, Brother Maupin possessed sterling integrity. He was firm in his decisions. Whatever his conscience disapproved he hated; and whatever principles he avowed he defended and maintained with a sterling will. He was a strong advocate of temperance. As a preacher, he had many excellences. In early life he had few advantages in regard to education; but after he was grown he acquired a taste for books, and soon mastered many of the elements of a liberal education, which he used to good advantage in his ministry. The Bible was his principal study and his daily companion; from it he drew largely in his sermonizing. He was emphatically a "Gospel preacher." Apt and precise in his Scripture quotations, doctrinal in style, logical in his deductions, his sermons were forcible and convincing. He possessed many natural elements of true oratory. When stirred with his subject his appeals were often startling. As one who would make a present application and arouse to immediate action, he excelled. He was also decidedly eloquent in prayer. Fervent, earnest, pathetic, he seemed to take in all of God's precious promises, and would plead with God as did the woman with "the unjust judge."

He loved the office and work of the ministry, and was an indefatigable laborer in the vineyard of the Master, as the result of his labors will show, from the hard fields in which he toiled. He received into the Church in twenty-two years about two thousand souls. He was "in labors abundant," as the sudden crash with which his physical nature gave way will attest. Returning to his home from a protracted effort, he took to his bed. Medical skill, united with the kind hands of family affection, brought no relief. Although anxious to be at his work, yet when informed that his end was nigh, he calmly arranged his temporal affairs, and with unusual calmness awaited the end. Nature struggled, then faltered, and finally yielded. The servant of God laid down his armor and took up his crown.

O may we triumph so,
When all our warfare's past;
And, dying, find our latest foe
Under our feet at last.

Resin Sapp, J. E. M'Allister, Edgar Beard, W. Ford—4.

1. R. SAPP was born in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, February 9, 1816, and died in holy triumph in Grand Rapids, May 5, 1873, in his fifty-eighth year. At the age of sixteen he determined to prepare for the legal profession, but at the end of four years' study, having been converted, it was clear that God intended him for the work of the ministry. In 1836, at the age of twenty, he was licensed to exhort, and a year later he received license to preach. After two years spent in business and study at Millwood, Ohio, in 1838 he was admitted to the Michigan Conference, then embracing a part of Ohio, and was appointed to the Bisden Mission.

The following are the fields of ministerial labor to which he was appointed: Pontiac, Romeo, Union City, Dexter, Tecumseh, Marshall, Battle Creek, Ann Arbor, Lansing, Albion, Marshall District, Grand Rapids, Galesburgh, Jackson, Ionia, Battle Creek, Albion, Tekousha, Kalamazoo District, Coldwater District, Grand Rapids District. For more than thirty-four years did Resin Sapp serve the Church faithfully, twenty-three of which were spent in the regular pastorate, one in a superannuated relation, and ten in the Presiding Eldership. He was always at his post, and faithful when other men would have faltered. His chief ability was, perhaps, not that of a preacher. Nevertheless, he was a man of peculiar power in the pulpit. His manner was thoroughly his own. His sermons, especially in later years, were cogent, argumentative discussions of first principles and great facts, and yet generally delivered with a degree of cold-blooded enthusiasm that was sure to force every hearer into assent or to arouse him to battle. He was a clear, safe thinker, and a deliberate, strong debater. He was a laborious and able member of the General Conferences held at Boston, Indianapolis, Buffalo, and Brooklyn. He was a valuable contributor to the periodical literature of the Church.

In 1841, while stationed at Monroe City, Brother Sapp was married to Miss M. P. Eerry. The home circle, now broken for the first time, consists of mother and six sons. Eighteen months before his death, suffering as he was from a chronic disease of the stomach, it was plain that the hand that had so bravely drawn the sword of the Lord must soon strike its last blow. His last sermon was preached at Alaska, Mich., January 12, 1873. His text was, "The Spirit and the Bride say, Come," etc. He soon became weaker in body and took to his bed. On Sunday, May 4, he was nearing the eternal shore, but he was ready and calmly waiting. He said to many that day, "Make it sure that you meet me in heaven." With the closing day his vision failed him. At midnight he heard the voice of the Bridegroom, and calling his children to his bedside, he gave them his last words. Twice did he call his youngest son, who aspires to his father's place, saying, "Johnnie, my little minister." He then called for the singing of "Who are these arrayed in white," and soon after fell gently into the sleep of death. Thus has fallen an eminent champion of the truth, and a fearless defender of the faith of our Church.

2. JESSE E. M'ALLISTER was born in New Hampshire in 1834. When he was ten years old the family removed to Concord, Mich., where he passed his boyhood and youth. His early advantages for culture were slender, but by diligent use of the scanty means within his reach he attained a respectable education, and acquired habits of study which developed him into a man of well-disciplined mind. He learned his first lessons in religion from the life of a pious mother. At her knees he learned to pray; led by her hand, he attended Methodist class-meetings and love-feasts, and at the age of sixteen was converted and joined the Church. He soon felt a clear impression that God called him to preach salvation to dying men, and a burning desire to be about the work of the Master.

In 1851 he was received into the Michigan Conference and appointed to Litchfield Circuit. He was subsequently appointed to the following charges: Burr Oak, Adrian, South Lyon, Manchester, White Pigeon, Centerville, Sturgis, Traverse City, Bellevue, Parma, Leroy, Moscow. In 1869 his health so far failed him that he was compelled to desist from work, and he retired to Litchfield, superannuated in body, but still mighty in faith, to await his transfer to the triumphant host on high. It came December 14, 1872, and in triumph he went through the gates into the city.

Brother M'Allister was a man of clear, sound judgment, of unswerving fidelity to right and truth. Methodical and industrious, though feeble, he was able to accomplish more than many men of greater vigor. He was a sound and forcible preacher, pure, exemplary, and irreproachable. This Christian life was a "well of water within him, springing up into everlasting life," rejoicing in his own spirit and overflowing in streams of love and benevolence that gladdened all around him.

He was twice married. The first Mrs. M'Allister was a lady of rare attractions and ability, with great devotion to the work of Christ. It pleased God to call their only child to the mansions above, and a few days later to call for the mother also, leaving the father smitten and riven to walk alone. The blow was terrible, but the Helper was near, and the God of all grace and consolation sustained him.

The second marriage was to the daughter of one of our aged ministers, a Christian lady, well-known and universally beloved by our Church. This widow writes: "On Thursday, December 12, we were convinced that an ulcer had broken in the left lung, and we could not longer hope for his recovery. Upon being informed of his situation, with a smile, he replied, 'It is all right; I am ready.' Friday afternoon he was failing fast. Toward night he said, 'Pray that if it be the Lord's will I may have strength given me to talk to each separately.' The prayer seemed immediately answered. He spoke in holy triumph of his recent last conflict with the powers of darkness, of the power given him to say to the tempter as he came with his acquisitions, thus far shalt thou come and no farther, saying, as he uttered these words, he saw the Lord Jesus standing right behind him, and then he knew he was conqueror. At midnight, during a severe paroxysm of pain, we thought him going, but he soon rallied, and from that time he seemed more like a resident of the glorified land than of this vale of tears. Thus triumphantly he passed to his reward."

3. EDGAR BEARD died March 4, 1873, in Centerville, Mich. He was born in Connecticut, October 29, 1830. He removed to Michigan when about twenty years of age. His conversion, which occurred about 1853, was the beginning of a new life that glowed and expanded continually. Soon after he felt that God had called him to the work of the Christian ministry. In 1854 he was duly authorized to preach by the Church. Feeling the need of a more thorough training for his life-work, he entered Albion Michigan Seminary in 1854, where he remained several terms. While there he was appointed class-leader, and as such was both acceptable and efficient. In 1857 he was employed as a supply on the Boston Circuit as junior preacher, and at once began to make full proof of his ministry. In September, 1858, he was admitted on trial into the Michigan Conference, and appointed to the Pentwater Mission, then on the extreme border of our frontier work.

On May 26, 1859, he was married to Miss Minnie Williams, who proved to him a "help-meet" indeed in the Master's work. The following year he was appointed to Manistee Mission, and the year following to Northport Mission. These were to him years of great hardship and severe discipline; they were also years of great personal and religious profit and marked success. In 1861 he was appointed to New Buffalo Circuit, and afterward successively to Cassopolis Circuit, Lawton, Keeler, and Burr Oak. During all these last and full years of his ministry he was the same cheerful, earnest, kind, lovable, devoted, faithful, growing man. In September, 1872, he received his last appointment—the Centerville charge. He went cheerfully and hopefully to his new field of labor, with high hopes and bright prospects of long years and abundant success; but the fond hopes, so grand and so promising, were never to be realized.

He preached to his people on Sabbath morning, February 23, at Centerville, and at the Tyler appointment in the afternoon. This was his last sermon. On Wednesday following he went to Jackson, and stayed all night at the parsonage with Brother Jones. During the night he was attacked with a severe chill, the precursor of spinal fever. On Thursday, with difficulty, through the kindness of Brother Jones, he reached the cars and rode to his home at Centerville, and immediately on entering the house he said to his startled and stricken wife, "Minnie, I am almost dead!" He dropped upon his bed at once, and most of the time his sufferings were indescribably terrible. But he bore them patiently, and triumphed over all. His last days on earth, although so full of pain, were the ideal of glorious victory over death; and when the summons came, and he was called to face the destroyer, his cheek did not blanch, nor his trust or courage falter for a single moment; and thus he died as the good man dieth. His sun of life went down in a cloudless sky to rise in a glorious immortality. He leaves a wife and two children, who by his parting advice are living in the place, and among the kind, considerate, godly people where his warfare ended.

4. WILLIAM FORD was born in Greenville, N. Y., October 28, 1821. He was one of a family of nine children, all of whom lived to have families, and two of whom, Revs. Abel and Salisbury S., are worthy members of the Troy Conference. His mother was a Methodist from his earliest recollection, and still survives, a venerable saint, eighty-five years of age. His father was not converted until after he had heard his three sons preach the Gospel.

William, with his four brothers, was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church within a single year, the date of his conversion being October 7, 1837. He and the two brothers above named received license to exhort in 1840. He afterward supplied two appointments, at one of which, Greenville Circuit, he was licensed to preach and recommended to the Troy Conference, to which he was admitted on trial in 1842. His appointments were as follows: Brandon, Vergennes, Burlington, Bristol, Clintonville, N. Y., Chazy, and Rutland. At the last-named place his health failed him, and at the close of his term of service there he took a superannuated relation, and removed to Brandon, where he remained for sixteen years. While there he was appointed to serve the following charges: Whitehall, N. Y., Whitney, Salisbury, Leicester, Goshen, and Brandon. For several years he was editor and publisher of the North-eastern Christian Advocate at Brandon. In 1866 he removed to Michigan and settled in Battle Creek. He was subsequently transferred by Bishop Scott from the Troy to the Michigan Conference, and was stationed at Paw Paw in 1871. He had just entered upon the second year of his pastorate in that charge when he closed his earthly labors and entered into rest, October 21, 1871, in his fifty-first year.

While stationed at Vergennes he was married to Miss Emma Maria Fisk, of Brandon.

Brother Ford early developed a thirst for knowledge, and in his early boyhood was wont to read whatever came within his reach. Soon after his conversion he gave indications that the preaching of the Gospel was his destined work. He combined in a more than ordinary degree all those qualities so important to a successful ministry. He was a ripe scholar, an excellent orator, and a thoroughly practical Christian gentleman. In the pulpit he was dignified and eloquent. As a preacher he was methodical, earnest, and eloquent, combining in a remarkable degree logical strength with poetical beauty. He wrote genuine poetry, and it is to be hoped that a collection of his poems may yet be published. He was an excellent pastor. In short, he ever seemed to regard it as an honor and privilege to serve God, the Church, and the people in the various offices of the Christian ministry. He was a kind and tender husband and father, a warm-hearted friend, a genial, cultivated Christian gentleman, and an earnest lover of his country and his kind. Though a thorough Methodist, his comprehensive charity embraced all who love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity. He professed to enjoy and preached to others a full salvation. As he was aware for years that the disease—ossification of the heart—from which he suffered, and to which he at last succumbed, might at any time prove fatal, he lived in constant readiness for his departure. His last sermon, two weeks before his death, was from the appropriate and significant words, "I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." The day before his death, although his throat was paralyzed, he with great effort said to a brother, "This is trusting, trusting, simply trusting;" and soon after exclaimed with great emphasis, "Glory to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost!" He leaves a wife, a son, and a daughter, to whom the hearts of our entire community go out in warmest sympathy in their bereavement. May the hand that chastises also comfort the afflicted!

QUEST. 14. Have any been Expelled?

William R. M'Ewen.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

R. A. Blanchard, P. K. Rye—2.

1. RICHARD A. BLANCHARD was born in Madison County, N. Y., Dec. 27, 1816. In his seventeenth year he was converted. Previously he had felt it his duty to preach, and now the call was more imperative. Though he tried to suppress his convictions of duty, they weighed on his mind so heavily that even in his sleep he was heard passionately entreating sinners to make their peace with God. This was told his pastor, and eventuated in his being licensed to exhort at once. This was in 1836. In 1840 he was made local preacher, and soon afterward was admitted on trial into Rock River Conference, at its first session.

His appointments were consecutively to Buffalo Grove, Dixon, and Freeport Circuits, to Belvidere, Rockford, Belvidere again, (two years,) Elizabeth, Galena, Canal-street, Chicago, (two years,) Peru, and St. Charles. Here his health failed, and he was granted a superannated relation. In 1857 he was reported again effective and stationed at Mt. Morris, then at Mt. Carroll for two years, and then made Presiding Elder of Rockford District. The Mt. Carroll and Freeport Districts were in turn presided over by him. He was afterward appointed pastor of Roscoe Church, of South Charge, Belvidere, and of St. Charles. While faithfully serving the Master here he was taken suddenly ill, August 19. Temporarily relieved of his pain, he arranged a matter of business, to attend to which he had left his home the previous day. He took dinner with a friend, seeming to be in fine spirits, and returned to the parsonage at Belvidere, at which he was stopping, with Brother and Sister Orgers. Stepping out of the carriage, he walked into the parlor and seated himself on the sofa. Soon after Sister Orgers passing by the door heard a noise, and looking into the parlor saw at a glance that Bro. Blanchard was again ill. He was speechless. Physicians were immediately summoned, and every thing done to relieve his pain and prolong life. But it was too late. His Master had called for him and he slept in Jesus.

Bro. Blanchard was a true and faithful Christian, active and painstaking. He was not an eloquent preacher, but serious, reverent, and impressive in his manner. As a pastor he was much beloved, and his efficiency as Presiding Elder was the subject of frequent remark. With his parishioners he was at once dignified and sociable; while at home he was all that a godly and gentle husband and parent should be. Dying testimony is not needed in such a case.

2. PETER K. RYE was born in Norway in 1839. His parents were poor. His father had been a soldier of some distinction, and claimed descent from those adventurous Northmen who are said to have discovered America before Columbus was born. His educational advantages were limited; he was apprenticed to an uncle, a painter. At what time he came to this country we have no record; but in 1858, while a resident of Hart Prairie, Wis., he was converted through the instrumentality of his uncle, Rev. H. P. Rye. From his childhood it had been his conscious duty to preach the Gospel, and he now—though in straitened circumstances — prosecuted his studies to that end at Garrett Biblical Institute. In 1861 he was licensed to preach, and in 1862 was received on trial in Rock River Conference. His first appointment was Bridgeport, Chicago. At the close of the year he was transferred to Wisconsin Conference and stationed at Cambridge. Here he was married to Miss Mary E. Slagg of that place, and in 1863 was appointed to Racine. In 1864 he was transferred back to Rock River, and made superintendent of the Scandinavian Mission, with his headquarters at Copenhagen, Denmark. He held this position four years, and was successful in securing the erection of a substantial church edifice in a most eligible part of the city of Copenhagen. In 1868 he was stationed in his native town, Aurdale, Norway. In 1869, owing to the failing health of Mrs. Rye, by the advice of physicians he returned to America. He served the Church at Whitewater, Hart Prairie, and La Crosse, in the Wisconsin Conference, and Elk Grove and Palatine in Rock River. In this place he was notably blessed. Every department of the work was made to feel his power. He was, however, physically unequal to the work. For several years the premonitions of consumption had haunted him, but he would not yield. In a year or more the disease had assumed a form that to the experienced indicated a fatal termination. About the first of January he was compelled to desist from preaching. Notwithstanding the most skillful treatment, and occasional seasons of relief, his worn system broke down, and he expired Sunday, March 16, 1873.

Brother Rye was a man of large information, a clear, methodical thinker, an able writer, and a preacher of unusual power. His piety was simple, deep, and fervent. It was a privilege to know him, to be with him, to see the transparent spiritual beauty of a man who walked with God. His death was calm, and as long as he could talk his soul overflowed with love and joy. Among his last utterances was, "I shall be home to-morrow," and the last word that fell from his lips was, "Amen."

J. H. Power, A. S. Prather, J. H. White—3.

1. JOHN H. POWER was born in Montgomery County, Ky., March 15, 1798. As early as his seventh year he was the subject of deep religious impressions; but it was not until his twentieth year that he was made the subject of the awakening power of the Holy Spirit. The evidence of pardon was satisfying, and with the consent of his parents he at once erected the family altar and soon rejoiced in their conversion. His brothers and sisters were brought to a knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus through his instrumentality. In 1819 he united with the Church. In 1821 he was licensed to preach, and was admitted on trial into the Kentucky Conference. His appointments in the pastoral work were Mt. Sterling and Hinkston Circuits, in Kentucky; Little Kanawha, Charleston, and Parkersburgh, in Virginia; Columbus, Salt Creek, Brush Creek, Chillicothe, and Deer Creek, in Ohio; Burlington Circuit, Old Zion, Muscatine, and South Burlington, in Iowa—embracing a period of eighteen years. As Presiding Elder he served on Norwalk, Wooster, Mt. Vernon, Delaware, and Mansfield Districts, in Ohio; Burlington, Muscatine, and Keokuk Districts, in Iowa—filling up twenty-eight years. In 1848 he was elected Assistant Agent of the Western Book Concern, where he remained until 1852.

Through failing health, he sustained a supernumerary relation for two years, and although he labored constantly, yet, being relieved from the anxiety of the regular work, he regained his health, and in 1856 was transferred to the Iowa Conference. Never did he enter upon the labors of a charge with more fervency than his last; but while the inner man had been growing, the outer was wasting. In harmony with his oft-expressed desire, he was permitted to "cease at once to labor and to live." Having filled all his appointments on Sunday, January 19, preaching three times, attending two Sunday-schools, and riding ten miles, he retired, weary in body but joyful in spirit. On Monday morning he met the ministers of the city, reporting the labors of the preceding day, and also his improvement in health. In the evening he preached again, returning home quite exhausted. On Tuesday morning he was stricken with a nervous chill, followed by congestion of the left lung and increasing feebleness, which continued until Sunday morning, January 26, when he died in great peace, saying, as he was entering the valley of the shadow of death, "Tell the brethren of the Conference I fall at my post enjoying peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ; all is bright."

Brother Power's success and influence were not accidental, but were the results of his inherent energy and mental constitution. Had he possessed more sentiment and imagination and greater enthusiasm for the ideal, he would, doubtless, have increased his popularity. He was no theorist. To every question presented for his consideration he applied a rigorous inductive analysis. His character rested on a base of granite, which was exemplified in his integrity and high Christian culture. An inflexible personal independence was carefully guarded by the intellect and conscience. Respectful to all, he yet followed the leadership of his own judgment under Divine guidance. Those who opposed him never questioned his scrupulous integrity. Every thing that deserved attention or demanded support received his careful thought and his best effort. Such was his division of time and observance of order that he was always self-possessed. His sermons and platform efforts were methodical. He thoroughly analyzed his subject until his mind had reached a direct conclusion, and then stated, in the simplest language, what that conclusion was, and how it had been arrived at. He was accustomed to say, "Every man's material should be so thoroughly his own, and his acquaintance with it so positive, that the shock of an earthquake could not dispossess him of it for a moment." His sermons for logical clearness were models. He was a successful preacher, enlightening the mind, directing the judgment, and influencing the will of his auditors, thereby winning souls to Christ. He was a prudent legislator, and a noble defender of the doctrines and usages of our Church. Indeed, as an administrator of Discipline he had but few equals. He sought "not to mend our rules, but to keep them." In manner he was reserved. He shrank instinctively from that general acquaintance and notoriety in which persons differently constituted find pleasure. His friendship, though not demonstrative, was strong and enduring.

In summing up the labors of his long life it may truly be said he was never triflingly employed. He preached nearly fifteen thousand sermons, besides performing the other duties pertaining to his office. In fifty-two years he was never absent from a session of his conference, and never failed to answer to his name at the opening of the session. His place was seldom vacant for a moment during the session. For over thirty years he was a trustee of some of our literary institutions, and was seldom absent from the meetings of the boards. He was a positive friend of our common-school system. The last public sermon rendered by him, outside of his charge, was an address at the dedication of a high-school building in the city of Burlington. He thought it the duty of ministers to identify themselves with all subjects of general interest. Though a member of eight General Conferences, he was always in his place at the opening, and never left until the adjournment of the session. The same faithfulness marked his action as a member of the General Mission Committee. In 1853 he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from the Ohio Wesleyan University. Notwithstanding the exhaustive labors of an itinerant fifty years ago, at the age of forty-two he had acquired a liberal education, including Greek and Hebrew, so as to make the original available in the literal rendering of the Word of Life. He had also completed a course in law, with the view of meeting every demand that might be made upon him as a servant of the Church. As an author he holds a reputable place. "Power on Universalism," "Doolittle and Power," a discussion on the same subject; "Domestic Piety," and "Letters to Dr. Smith on Slavery," are all in style attractive, and for logical clearness are models.

September 13, 1827, Bro. Power was united in marriage to Miss Mary N. Beard, of Parkersburgh, Va., who survives him. During forty-five years, in the midst of constant physical suffering, she cheerfully shared with him the labors of an itinerant. In the closing years of life there was no change. He often said that he could not prevent an increase of years, but, by the grace of God, he intended to live and die young in heart and vigorous in mind. His religious experience was uniform, throughout which he was enabled to say, "The path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." His "righteousness was as the light, and his brightness as the noon-day." Bravely did he fight the battle of life, and gloriously did he triumph; and when that innumerable company, gathered from earth, shall be marshaled on the bright plains, he will come, bringing his sheaves with him, and many shall be the stars in his crown.

2. Amos Summers Prother was born in Clark County, Ind., April 17, 1832, and died in Birmingham, Iowa, April 1, 1873, in his forty-first year. He came to Iowa when quite young, and with his parents settled near Libertyville, Jefferson County. He professed to find faith in believing, and united with the M. E. Church in 1846. His convictions of duty pointed him to the ministry as a life-work, and the better to fit him for the sacred office, he entered the Mt. Pleasant Collegiate Institute, afterward the Iowa Wesleyan University, in 1852, where he continued his studies until 1857, when he graduated in the degree of A. B. He was licensed to preach while at college. After graduating he was immediately employed on the Dodgeville Circuit by the Presiding Elder. He was received on trial in the Iowa Conference in 1857. His appointments were Denmark, Wapello, Dodgeville, Grand View, Crawfordsville, New London, Kossuth, Montezuma, New Sharon, and Birmingham. At the last-named place he "ceased to work and live."

Brother Prother never aspired to brilliancy in his pulpit efforts. Solid truth was the weapon on which he relied for victory. In the midst of special services which had been continued in all parts of his circuit, he sank under the touch of disease and the weight of his labors, and fell as falls the hero, a conqueror even in death. To his wife he said, "If I am to leave my work now I know there is a crown laid up for me in heaven."

He was married to Miss Marguerite E. Deeds in 1858, who, with four children and an adopted neice, remain among us in sadness.

3. James Hovel White was born in Fearing township, Washington County, O., August 2, 1814, and died in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, July 17, 1873. In 1831, while an apprentice in Zanesville, O., he was brought to Christ, and immediately set about preparing himself for the ministry, to which he felt that the Lord had called him. With means earned by his trade he supported himself for three years in Washington College, Marietta, O., and in October, 1836, began his ministry as a supply on Newport Circuit. In 1837 he was received into the Pittsburgh Conference, and served important charges in its bounds. In the Fall of 1853 he was transferred to the Iowa Conference, where, with the exception of two years in the local ranks, he filled satisfactorily some of the principal charges until 1861, when he took a superannuated relation, in which he continued until the close of his life. While in this relation he was appointed Chaplain of the Fifty-seventh Iowa Infantry, which position he held until the close of the war. Part of the time he was Superintendent of Contrabands, with head-quarters at St. Louis. In the Spring of 1869 he was appointed post-master at Mt. Pleasant, which office he filled to the entire satisfaction of all for four years.

Brother White was no ordinary man. He was possessed of a vigorous intellect, a tenacious memory, a vivid imagination, and a strong will. His was a most earnest spirit, and this, when in the pulpit, gave character not only to his words, but to his manner and voice. Moved himself, he moved his audience. On some occasions almost the entire congregation would be melted to tears under his preaching. While strong in his convictions, and intense in his hatred of wrong, he was full of love and gentleness. One more tenderly devoted to his friends has seldom been seen, and nowhere did he appear to be so great and good as in his own home.

Death came with slow and measured step, and he was fully aware of his approach. But to him he was not the king of terrors from whom he would fain have fled, but rather the great liberator for whose coming he longed. His faith, joy, and hope continued to the last. The day before his death he said to his wife, "I feel so well. I feel that, like Simeon of old, I have the Saviour right here in my arms." A few hours before his departure, looking out of his window, he spake of the beauty of the trees and their leaves, and, in rapture, said to those in the room, "Look, could any thing be more beautiful!" exclaiming meanwhile, "Glory! glory! halleluia!" Thus up to the moment when speech failed him did he occupy himself with utterances of affection to friends and praises to God, too many to be repeated here, but which will ever be sacred to the hearts of those on whose listening ears they fell.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Allen Steele, Timothy W. Potter, Nathan S. Clark, H. Ryan Smith—4.

1. ALLEN STEELE was born in Salisbury, N. Y., May 24, 1808, and died in West Barre, N. Y., Jan. 14, 1873, aged sixty-four. Converted at the early age of thirteen, he at once longed for the souls of his fellow-men, and soon he heard the call to preach the Gospel. He determined first to get a thorough education, and accordingly he went to Wilbraham, Mass., then under the presidency of that saintly man, Dr. Fisk, but declining health compelled him at the end of six months to abandon his cherished intention, and very soon we find him in Western New York teaching school and preaching with great success. He was literally thrust out into the work. The struggles of a young man with his convictions of duty embarrassed by a feeble constitution, and yet pressed forward into the ministry by solicitations on every hand, can scarcely be imagined. But these very struggles not unfrequently lay the foundation for originality of character and independence of mind which are of inestimable value to the minister of Christ. This was eminently true of Brother Steele. He became a critical scholar, a sound theologian, and an eloquent and powerful preacher, by indomitable perseverance in study and an energy of determination that knew no abatement. His ministration, even in his earlier years, was eagerly sought and highly appreciated by the best class of cultured minds. There was a divine power accompanying his preaching which made him in the truest sense a revival preacher. The writer remembers his marvelous success in 1832, when, mainly through his instrumentality, nearly five hundred souls were brought to Christ on the Crooked Lake Circuit. Many other fields have witnessed similar, if not as extensive, revivals under his labors. Though several times brought to the borders of the grave by excessive toil in his work, he has again and again recovered strength and renewed the battle for God. The results of his ministry for so long a period eternity alone can tell. He has left as a grand legacy to the members of his Conference an example of unfaltering constancy and glorious success, which should act as a potent stimulus to urge them forward until, like him, they "cease to work and live." Let us trace his public career in consecutive order. In 1831, at the session of the Genesee Conference held at Le Roy, Bishops Soule and Hedding presiding, he was admitted on trial. His successive appointments were as follows: Ontario Circuit, Crooked Lake, Benton, Bellona, Elmira, First Church, Rochester, Lima, Penn Yan, Lockport, Batavia, East Palmyra, Le Roy, Hudson-street, Albany, State-street, Troy, Schenectady, Buffalo, Batavia, First Wesley Chapel, New York, Central M. E. Church, New York, Buffalo, Lockport, Medina, Albion, West Barre, West Barre and Shelby, and Batavia. On two occasions previously he had been temporarily superannuated; now confirmed ill-health made it necessary for him again to accept that relation. He says, "I now retire to our place in West Barre with a view to repair physical damages, but I must say with feeble hopes of success."

It is no exaggeration to say that as a minister of the Gospel he possessed talents of a very high order, placing him while still a young man among the princes of our Israel. Though naturally modest and retiring, yet, under the inspiration of themes which summoned him to the pulpit, he grappled with every form of error or false doctrine which stood in the way of the triumph of truth and righteousness with a boldness that was overwhelming. It was this striking peculiarity which made his preaching so emphatically the power of God unto salvation. In careful, thorough, and even serene preparation for the pulpit, he has left few equals among his brethren. We may profitably now retrospect our dear brother's almost forty years of ministerial labor. What a group of fields in the great vineyard of the Lord, and what thousands gathered from them, now in heaven or on their way thither, will rise up and call him blessed who had been instrumental in leading them to Christ. The name of Allen Steele will long be remembered, and his spotless character will be enshrined in our hearts. January 14, 1873, the chariot of God which had seemed long in waiting came, and the accomplished scholar, the earnest and devoted Christian, and the toil-worn herald of Jesus, mounted and was away to join the company of those who, having turned many to righteousness, shall shine as the stars for ever and ever.

2. TIMOTHY W. POTTER was born in Otsego County, N. Y., August 26, 1817. In 1834 he was united in marriage to Almira Dunn. In 1835 he was converted in Herkimer County, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. For quite a number of years he labored as a local preacher. Those who knew him during that period speak of him as zealous, acceptable, and useful. Whenever, in a business capacity, he came in contact with the unconverted, he failed not to speak to them of Jesus and salvation. This anxious solicitude for souls remained with him until the end of life. In 1856 he entered upon the regular work of the ministry. The following were his fields of labor: Cuba, Bradford and Lafayette, Oswayo, Bolivar, Ellicottville, Hinsdale, Alabama, Parma, and Clarence. Owing to failing health, at the Conference of 1871 he was superannuated; but he still continued to labor in the Sunday-school and pulpit whenever health would permit. He had preached twice on the Sabbath preceding the Wednesday on which he was taken sick; on Tuesday of the following week he died. Remarks made a few weeks previous to his death would seem to indicate that he was aware of his approaching end, but he always spoke most hopefully of his future prospects.

The religious life of Brother Potter was one of experience. Theories did not satisfy him. He was only content when he felt the power of religion in his soul. The great life-work of Brother Potter may be summed up in these words: "He was a man that was ever after souls. As a preacher he was earnest and practical, salvation being his one great theme."

3. NATHAN SEARS CLARK was born in Rochester, Mass., February 7, 1807. He was converted at the age of eleven, and was called to the ministry when twenty years old. His first conference connection was with the Reformed Methodist Church, but upon the organization of the Methodist Protestant Church he became a member of that body, and rose to some distinction therein. He was a delegate to the final convention of all the non-Episcopal Methodists in the United States, at which the present Methodist Church was organized. His connection with our Conference dates only to its last session.

Brother Clark was a cordial, sympathetic, and eminently charitable man. Physically he was strikingly handsome. He was always a very acceptable preacher. His texts were usually direct scriptural propositions, and his subjects simply divided, while the whole filling was Scripture proof. But his power with the people was great. He was abundant in labors even to the last, and the day before his death he preached a sermon of more than usual power. Throughout his life the people confided in him, and several times he was honored with public trusts. He represented what is now the towns of Rochester, Mattapoisett, and Marion, in the Legislatures of 1846–49, and was for a number of years Treasurer of the town of Marion. He died at Millville, Orleans County, March 3, 1873, after a few hours illness, "cut down like a shock of corn fully ripe." The Lord was his refuge.

4. HENRY RYAN SMITH was born in Canada, April 29, 1812, and died on his sixty-second birthday. His grandfather, Rev. Henry Ryan, was one of the most distinguished ministers of the Methodist Church. His father was an able and successful Methodist minister, as was his brother, Dr. Griffin Smith, who died April 29, 1868, exactly four years previous to the death of Henry Ryan. The son of Ryan Smith is the only remaining child of five brothers. It is no wonder, then, that on the last Sabbath of his life our departed brother should say to his Presiding Elder, "If I could live to see my son in the itinerant ministry I should be ready to die." Brother Smith was converted and joined the Church at an early age. He began his ministerial life when about nineteen years of age. He at once preached with marked ability, rising rapidly in his Conference, and the last two years before coming to this country he occupied one of the chief pulpits in the city of Hamilton. At the age of twenty-six he entered the Genesee Conference. His appointments were in the following order: Lewiston, Brockport and Bethel Mission, Middleport, Medina, Byron and Bergen, Attica, Trumansburgh, Brockport, Le Roy, Medina, Niagara-street, Buffalo, Perry, Medina, Yates, Niagara District, Niagara-street, Lockport, Albion, Brockport, Spencerport, Cary, Cambria, and Wilson. His active ministerial life was interrupted by but one year's superannuation—1847. Brother Smith was a man of positive Christian convictions, and he independently maintained them. On the morning of the day he died, his house being occupied by a tenant, requesting the privilege of family worship he remarked "There is no time lost in prayer, for in the midst of life we are in death." As a Christian minister he was a man of strength. Many of his pulpit efforts were masterly, and were attended with extraordinary power. While on the Lewiston Circuit in 1838, with Rev. W. D. Buck as his colleague, it is said that three hundred souls were converted through the labors of these men of God. Brother Smith was a man of one work, and in this work he wrought with high devotion. When Presiding Elder of Niagara District he worked until exhausted nature could endure no more, and for weeks he seemed to be suspended between life and death. But the prayers of his family and of the Church prevailed, and he was permitted for ten years longer to preach the glorious Gospel of the "blessed God." As he had always desired so it was granted unto him, to "cease at once to work and live." His death occurred in the midst of a Christian social jubilee. On the last Thursday of his life his people at Wilson, and many old friends, united in tendering him an honorary visit on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his wedding-day. He was thus reassured of the love, esteem, and continued confidence of the Church and his brethren in the ministry, and his cup of joy was full. On the following Sunday morning, the last he spent on earth, it being a quarterly-meeting occasion, he preached with unusual power, and administered the sacrament to his flock. On the Tuesday night following, about eleven o'clock, he was heard to call for help, and stated his conviction that "his time had come." In about fifteen minutes the struggle was over, the battle was fought, and the victor was crowned. Death's sudden appearance brought with it no terror, created no alarm, and excited no surprise in his case. He had possessed a consciousness of Death's nearness for some time, and though Death struck his fatal dart while he slumbered, he was "slumbering on his arms." Gently and quickly he was removed from labor to rest, and the sword of battle was exchanged for the crown of life. A sainted Robie, a Seager, a Roberts, from the west; a Steele, a Clark, a Potter, a Thomas, from the Pacific; a Case, a Hudson, a Tooker, and a Wilson, all so lately translated from the field of strife, now hold high and glorious converse upon the summits of immortality. "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh."

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

W. W. Martin, J. H. Hopkins, S. Howard *—3.

1. W. W. MARTIN was converted and licensed to preach in 1861, and admitted on trial into the Ohio Conference at its session in Columbus, September, 1866. His fields of labor were as follows: Harrisburgh, California, Harrisburgh, and New Holland. These fields were hard to till, and his salary so small that, in some cases, he was compelled to supplement it by drawing upon the little he had saved before entering the ministry. His family suffered much affliction, he himself was often in feeble health; yet none of these things moved him, neither counted he his life dear unto him, that he might finish his course with joy, and the ministry he had received of the Lord Jesus. He keenly felt his want of preparation for the ministry, and tried hard, by study and careful attention to all the work of a Methodist preacher, to become a workman that needeth not to be ashamed. He possessed something of the spirit of the heroic age of Methodism. The people for whom he labored can bear witness that neither storm nor mud, nor his own feebleness nor sickness in his family, would prevent his attention to his work, unless it was plainly impossible it should be done.

The Christian character of our brother was beautifully illustrated by his resignation to affliction. During his brief itinerant life two little children were taken from his home; while at New Holland he was prostrated with typhoid fever. Yet he could say with the Psalmist, "I was dumb, I opened not my mouth, because thou didst it."

Life was very precious to Bro. Martin. In his constitution the social element was prominent. He had an extensive acquaintance both in and out of the Church; he was happily united in marriage to a noble Christian wife; his little boys needed much a father's counsel and care, and yet grace completely triumphed. After he had stepped aside from the active ministry he began to look around for some means to make a living for those dependent upon him. He tried his old business of selling goods, but could not endure the confinement. Then he rented a farm and struggled on, doing with all his remaining strength what his hand found to do. But all this time his disease was marching steadily on to its fatal conclusion. The hope was long indulged that he would at least partially recover. In a conversation with him a few days before his death he said he thought he would live another year, and would be glad to recover strength to preach the Gospel; but if God ordered otherwise, he was fully resigned.

His family have lost a kind husband and father, the Church an earnest minister; but sorrow is alleviated by the assurance that he rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

2. JAMES H. HOPKINS was born December 6, 1804, in Hamilton, Luzerne County, Pa., and at the age of four was brought by his parents to Ohio, where they settled. He joined the M. E. Church in 1821, was licensed to exhort by Samuel P. Shaw in 1831, and was licensed to preach in 1833 by Jno. Perree. He was married to Jane Alderman in 1822, and on the twenty-eighth of August preceding his death, they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding-day, in company with eight children, thirteen grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Brother Hopkins traveled five or six years as a supply, and was admitted into the Ohio Conference in 1849, and received the following appointments: Gallipolis, Wilksville, Furnace Mission, Amesville, Letart, Athens Circuit, Furnace, New Plymouth, Plymouth, Coolville, Athens Circuit, Pleasanton, Mt. Pleasant, Hampden, and New Plymouth. He preached at Pleasant Point on the evening of December 16, from Exod. xix, 10, 11, went home with Brother Lafayette Eggleston and spent the evening in cheerful conversation, and at about nine o'clock retired to bed apparently in good health. At about half past ten o'clock he called Brother Eggleston, who, upon going to him, found him in a dying condition, as was supposed from the breaking of an abscess in the lungs. He said to Brother Eggleston, "I guess I will have to go—I am going." When asked if all was well, he said, "All is well;" and died at about eleven o'clock the same night. During his years of ministry he took about three thousand two hundred persons into the Church.

Brother Hopkins was a man of fine social qualities, positive in his religious experience, an excellent preacher, and without a doubt has joined those who, washed in the blood of the Lamb, are without fault before the throne of God.

Peter Cartwright, J. W. Jackson—2.

1. PETER CARTWRIGHT died at his home near Pleasant Plains, Sangamon County, Ill., at three o'clock P. M., September 25, 1872. He was born September 1, 1785, in Amherst County, Va.; hence at his death he was eighty-seven years and twenty-four days old. When he was eight years of age his father moved with his family to Logan County, Ky. He was converted May 1, 1801, at a protracted meeting held by the Presbyterians and Methodists near his home, and was made an exhorter in May, 1802. His exhorter's license was all the human authority he had to preach until he was ordained deacon. His first appointment was as junior preacher on the Red River Circuit, embracing Logan County, Ky. He remained on that circuit three months, took into the Church twenty-five members, and received six dollars. The balance of the year he spent as preacher-in-charge of Waynesville, an adjoining circuit. Here he was recommended to the Annual Conference, which was held October, 1804, at Mt. Gerizim, Ky. He was ordained deacon at Lexington, Ky., by Bishop Asbury, September 16, 1806. In 1808 he was ordained elder, by Bishop McKendree, at the Conference held at Liberty Hall, Tenn.

August 18, 1808, he was married to Frances Gaines, his bride being nineteen and he nearly twenty-three; and this year he traveled Salt River Circuit. 1809–10 he was on the Lexington Circuit, Ky. 1811 he was on the Christian Circuit, and in 1812 was appointed Presiding Elder of Wabash District, by Bishop Asbury, at the Conference at Fountain Green, Tenn. From 1813 to 1816 he was Presiding Elder of Green River District, Ky. In this latter year he was first elected delegate to the General Conference held at Baltimore, Md. He was a delegate to thirteen General Conferences in succession. From 1816 to 1820 he traveled circuits in Kentucky. From 1821 to 1824 he was Presiding Elder of Cumberland District, Ky. His appointment to this district was the beginning of his fifty years in regular succession of Presiding Eldership.

He came to Illinois on horseback in 1823 to explore the country. He moved his family to Pleasant Plains, Ill., November 24, 1824. Here he spent the remainder of his eventful life; here he died in peace, and here lies his body in the soil which, like Abraham, he had purchased with his own money. The Illinois Conference was organized the year Dr. Cartwright joined it. In 1825 he was made Presiding Elder of Illinois District, and was continuously Presiding Elder of different districts in Illinois till September 24, 1869, when he was relieved from its labors at his own request. In 1870 and 1872 he was Conference missionary. He attended forty-six meetings of the Illinois Conference, missing only one from 1824 to 1871. He was present at the first calling of the roll in this Conference forty-five times. He was six years a visitor of McKendree College, three years a visitor of Illinois Wesleyan University, and one year a visitor of Garrett Biblical Institute. He was eight years in the old Western Conference, eight years in the Tennessee Conference, four years in the Kentucky Conference, and forty-eight years a member of the Illinois Conference.

In person Dr. Cartwright was about five feet ten inches high, and had a square built, powerful physical frame, weighing nearly two hundred pounds. He often said that he had a constitution that could wear out a dozen threshing machines. His complexion was dark, he had high cheek bones, and a small piercing black eye. His hair was never straight, and as his head was large he presented at times a very bold and formidable look. His hardships and exposure seemed but to add to his manly vigor and produce almost perfect health. And he appreciated this blessing of Heaven so greatly that he had a high regard for the muscular part of his Christianity. The roughs and bruisers at camp-meetings and elsewhere stood in awe of his brawny arm, and many anecdotes are told of his courage and daring that sent terror to their ranks. He felt that he was one of the Lord's breaking plows, and that he had to drive his way through all kinds of roots and stubborn soil. Added to and above all this superior physical strength he had a sort of moral and kingly power that belongs to all real heroes, without which the grandest muscular development is but as wood, hay, and stubble. His gesticulation, his manner of listening, his walk, and his laugh were peculi-iar, and would command attention in a crowd of a thousand. There was something undefinable about the whole man that was attractive to the majority of the people, and made them linger in his presence and want to see him again.

His early Kentucky life, and the long prairie rides in Illinois, did more than build up a powerful physical frame. The fundamental doctrines of Christianity early engaged his attention, and occupied his thoughts; and what truths are better calculated to give mental health and vigor? His mind naturally and readily perceived the strong points of a subject and did not waste its energies on side issues, and hence he soon became acknowledged as a man of superior mental power. His acquaintance with books was not commensurate with his intellect; yet he seemed to possess a knowledge of all the important facts of history, ancient and modern. He had a remarkable perception of men, and seldom had occasion to change his first impression of a man's character. He said he could read a man who talked much in ten minutes. He would reach a point by intuition where others had to go through long and tedious processes of reasoning. He was posted on all prominent subjects of legislation, and occasionally took an active part in politics; but made all subservient to the higher duties of the ministry. Public men had a very high regard for his mental and moral power. Sometimes he handled them with an unsparing hand, and woe to the man that came within the sweep of his indignation. It has been said of him that he hated the devil more than he loved Christ. We hardly think so, for while he was fierce in his denunciations of Satan and the powers of darkness, he was none the less successful and powerful when he came to dwell upon the glories of heaven and the mercies of Jehovah. He wielded the battle-ax of truth with no feeble hand; but while he could cut, and pound, and blow away a subterfuge of lies, he could also build up a home, and extend a warm and hearty welcome to the slain, gathering them in with a kind hand to a place of peace, safety, and glory.

For years he was an acknowledged leader. In the Illinois Conference he took that rank at the first, and continued his influence and power almost up to the time of his relinquishment of the district. Nearly two generations of preachers in this body looked upon him and Dr. Akers as their spiritual fathers, protectors, and guides. He had a peculiar talent for a conference. He regarded a body of Methodist ministers as the best society on earth, and he knew how to enjoy it. In debate his speeches were short, pithy, and righ to the point. Sometimes his rebuffs, wit, and compliments were scattered promiscuously upon his opponents and his supporters. He loved his Conference, and almost to the last of his days attended its sessions. When his form was bowed, his steps feeble, and his voice had lost its volume, he loved to linger where so many of his trophies had been won, and enjoy the smiles, and grasp the hands of his co-laborers, some of whom he had known fifty years. That the Conference highly esteemed him was evinced by its repeatedly electing him to the General Conference, and holding a jubilee in honor of the fact that he had been Presiding Elder fifty consecutive years. No man was ever elected so often to the highest legislative body of the Church, no man was ever fifty years successively Presiding Elder, and no man ever had a whole Conference to hold a jubilee in honor of such an event.

Mrs. Cartwright, who survives her husband, was in every sense of the word a helpmeet to him. In all the trials of poverty, and of a new country, and the itinerant life therein, and the special trials of Father Cartwright, she was always his trusted counselor, and faithful and quiet assistant. She was literally a worthy companion of such a man. More than sixty-four years they lived together happily, fulfilling the promise they made at the altar in 1808 to support, love, and cherish each other till death should them part. Their family consisted of nine children—two sons and seven daughters. Two sons and five daughters are still living; and the patriarch saw before he died the faces of his fifty grandchildren, thirty-seven great-grandchildren, and seven great-great-grandchildren.

As a preacher, he was warm, sympathetic, clear, and often rose to the highest style of oratory. In fact, his power over an audience was in his palmy days often overwhelming. Scores have been known to fall under his burning words as if they were struck by lightning. Riotous ruffians, who came to scoff and disturb, were prostrated by the impetuous sweep of his sword of the Spirit; and contentious skeptics, and uproarious infidels, and quarrelsome bigots were scattered and driven by his preaching as chaff in the wind. He could knock down the leader and disperse the mob at a camp-meeting, and then mount the stand, and in thirty minutes cause three hundred to fall like dead men in battle under his preaching. Sometimes he would overflow with mirthfulness and humor. But behind all his eccentricities of wit he carried a warm heart, good sense, and a supply of divine grace. Although he was a natural wag, he never allowed his inclination to drollery to master him. He assumed various ways for various people. Now he was like a fearful cloud charged with thunder, lightning, and terror; and then he would excite to levity and glee, which soon, it may be, was followed by floods of tears, so that the people hardly knew how to show their admiration, whether by crying, laughing, or shouting, or all together at once. Every thing about his discourses was marked and original. He knew well the great truths of religion, and generally made them plain to his hearers. There was nothing misty or ambiguous in his statements. He always made his hearers understand the aim he had in view.

We might extend this tribute to his memory to almost any length, relating incidents of his long and eventful career. His history is connected with almost the entire history of our Church in America. He preached nearly eighteen thousand sermons, not including minor addresses; he baptized nearly fifteen thousand persons and received into the Church nearly twelve thousand members, and licensed preachers enough to make a whole conference. He has faced mobs, quelled riots, preached sermons, prayed for mourners, legislated for his Church and his State, written books, sung songs, worked with his own hands on a farm, and done all these diversified kinds of business in good order, in quick succession, and of vast amount. And amid all this diversity of labor and trial, for over seventy years he maintained a character for unblemished Christian honesty and integrity. He may have committed errors and mistakes; but if God would never carry on a work until he could find servants free from foibles his work never would be done, through human agency at least. If his blessing never attended a preacher until he was free from all unwise words and ways, we are afraid we would all go without a blessing the balance of our days. The infallible pen of inspiration notes the fact that prophets and apostles were not as perfect and complete as the Lord would desire them. For our part, we would rather a locomotive would now and then run off the track and break a few bones, than stand on the side switch and rust and rot. We would rather look upon the swift torrent that carried with it destruction now and then, than to look upon a stagnant pool, breeding malaria and death in its quietness.

Brother Cartwright was living six years before John Wesley died. He was a Methodist when the term was almost unknown except as a reproach and derision; when its members were counted by hundreds and far between. He devoted his remarkable energies to the service of the Church while it was weak and despised, and was spoken of as an "ignorant and excitable rabble;" when its contributions were measured by a few hundreds, and the support of its preachers was doled out by dimes; when it had hardly a leaf of literature, and had no college or seminary worthy the name; when its Churches were log-cabins, and its Conferences were held on camp-grounds.

Brother Cartwright lived in the country before it had a Constitution, and most of the renowned men of the nation have risen, flourished, and died in his life-time. Washington, and the Adamses, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Clay, Webster, Benton, Calhoun, Douglass, and Lincoln, all performed their wonderful deeds of statesmanship within his day. He was a witness of the birth of the nation, and was an intelligent actor at the time of the war of 1812. He was past the average age of men when Scott took Mexico and Zachary Taylor conquered on the field of Buena Vista. He heard and opposed the first notes of nullification, and the repeated threats to dissolve the Union; he saw the attempt to carry out these threats and its miserable failure. He knew his country when there was neither steamboat nor locomotive in it, and he lived to see our waters covered with-the noblest specimens of naval architecture, and nearly eighty thousand miles of railroads running from the rivers to the ends of the earth. He was spoken of as an old man before the telegraph was thought of, yet he lived to see it extended through all civilized lands, and its lines spread over the depths of the sea. He stood on the site of Chicago when it was a swamp, and when no man was mad enough to dream that it was the spot where the most wonderful city of the world would be built. He had almost made a history of his own when St. Louis was only a trading post, and when Omaha and San Francisco were unknown.

Our pen and time fail to do him justice. A volume might be written, and then the events of his remarkable life would be but dimly portrayed. When thousands of other orators, and scholars, and theologians, and evangelists are forgotten, Brother Cartwright's name will be a household word throughout the western country.

2. JOHN W. JACKSON was born in Bath County, Ky., December 25, 1827, and died in Grand View, Edgar County, Ill., March 11, 1873, aged forty-five. Brother Jackson was converted in Edgar County, Ill., in 1843, and united with the M. E. Church. In 1855 he was received on trial in the Illinois Conference and appointed to Shelbyville Circuit; he afterward served the Churches in Chandlerville, Le Roy, Sangamon, Mt. Pleasant, Summit Grove, Hardin, Rushville Circuit, and New Hartford. His health failing he could not do active work in 1867 and was granted a supernumerary relation, in which he continued until his death. He was married September 27, 1860, to Miss E. E. Scott, who still lives to mourn.

Brother Jackson was much loved among those with whom he had long been associated, and those who knew him best loved him most. During the few days of his fatal illness he suffered intense pain, to prevent which he was kept almost constantly under the influence of opiates. There was consequently little opportunity to converse with him about his soul. But the night before he died he was blessed with the full powers of reason and conversed freely with his companion, expressing himself as resigned to the will of the Lord and as having strong hope and full faith in the Gospel which he had preached to others. Brother Jackson was a good man and full of faith. He rests from his labors and his crown will have many stars, numbering the souls whom he has been instrumental in turning to righteousness.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Joseph Milburn, John Leach, Isaac Forkner, R. Clarke—4.

1. JOSEPH MILBURN was born in Greene County, Tenn., January 23, 1800. He was converted in 1827 and joined the M. E. Church. He first served the Church as an exhorter, and then as a local preacher, and in both these positions was eminently successful. October 15, 1848, he was ordained deacon, and in 1855 entered the traveling connection of the M. E. Church, South. In 1856 he was ordained elder. At the reorganization of the Holston Conference at Athens, Tenn., June, 1865, though then over sixty years of age, he presented himself to that body for active work, and consecrated the remainder of his life to the earnest and exalted labors of an itinerant preacher. He "ceased at once to work and live," January 18, 1873.

His Christianity was illustrated by a life of earnest and devoted piety. His religion was fervent and genuine—a glorious experimental reality—permeating his whole being and illuminating his whole career, public and private. His life was useful and beautiful—his death was grand. Holy ones from the heavenly land were sensibly near, and Jesus was with him as he entered the dark valley. The darkness, doubts, and shadows all vanished as his dying lips whispered, "Sanctified! sanctified! all is bright!"

2. JOHN LEACH, bearing a superannuated relation to the Holston Conference for several years past, departed this life within the current year. In absence of all data the particulars of his life cannot be given.

3. ISAAC FORKNER was probably born in the last decade of the eighteenth century, in Virginia, joined the M. E. Church and professed a saving faith in Christ in 1822, and was a preacher of the Gospel for more than fifty years. He was ordained deacon at Hingdon, Va., December 27, 1829, and took elder's orders October 13, 1844, at Reems Creek, N. C. At the separation, Brother Forkner, refusing to go into the Church South, connected himself with the Protestant Methodist Church, and in 1867, after the reorganization of the Holston Conference, returned to the M. E. Church as a regular itinerant preacher, traveled three years, and took a superannuated relation in 1870. He departed this life in great peace April 7, 1873, at St. Clair, Hawkins County, Tenn.

4. R. CLARKE, appointed at the last Holston Annual Conference to Knoxville Station, Tennessee River District, died August 9, within the current year. No other particulars of his life have been furnished.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

G. C. Wells.

G. C. WELLS was born in Colchester, Conn., in 1819. He united with the Troy Conference in 1845, where he faithfully and successfully served the Church in some of her most important stations and districts, until he was transferred to the Wisconsin Conference and stationed two years in the city of Milwaukee. He suffered here from the severity of the climate, and in the fall of 1871 he was transferred to the Minnesota Conference and stationed at Centenary Church, Minneapolis, where he fell at his post, after severe illness, on Saturday evening, May 31, 1873. He spent twenty-eight years in efficient service for the Master. Death was completely disarmed of its sting, and the closing experience of his life was a beautiful realization of the sentiment of the hymn he so much loved and so often sang, and had himself set to such grand notes—"I am clinging to the cross." As a preacher Bro. Wells was, first, a man of intellectual strength. Another of his marked characteristics was that of deep piety. His heart communed with God. And he was a man of integrity. In heaven his toils are rewarded.

1. JOHN GOULD was born in Warren, N. H., June 1, 1807. He entered the New Hampshire Conference in 1830, and after many years of successful labor was at last laid aside by impaired health. He moved to the West in 1857, and secured a farm in Howard County, Iowa. The demand for ministerial labor was then very great, and, his health having improved, he heeded the call, was admitted into the Upper Iowa Conference and was appointed to Waverly Circuit, where he spent two useful years. At the Conference in 1859 he was placed in charge of the Cedar Falls District, where he remained four years. In 1863 he was sent to the Upper Iowa District, which he served until 1867. His health declined so much during his last year upon the district that he was compelled to receive a superannuated relation, and to retain it while he lived. Four of the remaining years of his life were spent in McGregor, and the last eighteen months in Osage, where he died as the good only can die, at peace with God and all mankind.

As a citizen, a pastor, and a presiding elder, his influence was as precious ointment poured forth; its fragrance remains wherever he was known.

2. WILEY P. WATKINS began his ministry in Indiana in 1850, was transferred to the Iowa Conference in 1862 and to the Upper Iowa in 1865. He filled the following appointments among us: Cascade, Independence, Charles City, M'Gregor, West Union, and West Waterloo. The whole Conference and Church were shocked and saddened by his tragic death on the night of September 2, 1872, by drowning in the Cedar River, at Waterloo, Iowa.

3. JAMES M. LESLIE was taught from childhood the way of salvation, and early in life was converted to God. In 1860 he was married to Miss Mary E. Thorp. In 1861 he was admitted on trial to the Upper Iowa Conference and appointed to the Jacksonville Circuit, and in 1862 to New Oregon. His earnest labors in this new field of labor proved too much for his slender constitution, and in 1863 he was granted a location at his own request. In 1868 Brother Leslie was re-admitted into the Upper Iowa Conference, and was appointed to Mitchell and Staceyville, next to Nora Springs, and then to Shellsburgh. His health failed, and he was granted a superannuated relation at the ensuing Conference. Consumption was fast preying upon his system. He tried for a short time the climate of Colorado. In the spring of 1873 he returned to his home in Janesville, Iowa, and on May 17, 1873, he calmly passed away, aged thirty-eight.

Brother Leslie's educational advantages were limited; but he was a close student, and in the pulpit manifested tact and power. His labors were not in vain. Ever earnest and hopeful, his few short years in the itinerant work were crowned with success.

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Charles Z. Case, Thos. B. Hudson, John Hutchins, Edward D. Rousa, George W. Smith—5.

1. CHARLES Z. CASE was born in Sodus, Wayne County, N. Y., July 21, 1837, and died at Clifton Springs, October 19, 1872. His early years were spent on the farm of his father. When quite young he manifested an ardent desire for knowledge, and in the common school laid the foundation for the ripe scholarship of later years. He pursued his studies at Macedon Academy, Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, and Genesee College at Lima, graduating from the college in 1861. During these years of study he acted as principal of Walworth Academy, and of the Academy at Red Creek, Wayne County, N. Y. These intervals of teaching served the double purpose of strengthening his habits of thoroughness and of replenishing the often empty purse of the student. He was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at the early age of fourteen, under the labors of Rev. S. B. Rooney. He joined the East Genesee Conference on trial at the session immediately subsequent to his graduation, but received his appointment as Professor of Mathematics and Ancient Languages at Lima for two successive years, or until 1863, when he was received into Conference, ordained deacon, and appointed pastor at Dresden. His first year was a successful one, and at its close he was removed to Benton Center, where his success was so marked that the strongest Churches in the Conference began to seek him for their pastor. He remained there the full pastoral term, and was removed to Hedding Church, Elmira, where he also remained a full term. His pastorate here was most eminently successful, and every department of Church work felt the magic power of his influence and was quickened into a new and vigorous life. His next field of labor was Canandaigua, where he remained but one year. At the earnest request of the First Church, Elmira, he was appointed their pastor. His labors were enormous. The most thorough and exhaustive preparation must be made for every service. The calls upon him were so numerous and pressing, and his desire to "fill up the measure of his usefulness" so strong, that his overtaxed brain gave way, and in manhood's prime he laid him down and died. He was present at the last session of our Conference, and though on the floor the first day, was soon after taken suddenly ill and died the Friday after the adjournment. He seemed early impressed that his illness would prove fatal; but there was no fear nor shrinking. Unexpectedly as the conviction was pressed upon him he was not found unprepared. After speaking of his family and expressing the desire that his children should be educated for usefulness, he seemed "filled with the fullness of God," and called upon those present to join with him in praising and adoring. He requested them to sing the "Sweet By and By," and seemed already to be tasting the fruits of the "Better Land." Such was the nature of his disease (an affection of the brain) that much of the time he was unable to command his intellect, but even in his wanderings his mind dwelt on heavenly things. "The Father of our Lord Jesus Christ," was an expression often on his lips. His last effort was to repeat the Lord's Prayer. The words died away on his lips, and quietly, sweetly, he sank to rest. We can hardly wonder that he ascended so soon. The strong attraction was overpowering. Earth seems poorer for his absence, but heaven is richer for his presence. May we not believe that our Father saw in him talent that could be made more available in a higher sphere, and has but transferred him to some more important field of usefulness?

2. Thomas B. Hudson was born July 23, 1818, in the town of West Greenwich, Kent County, R. I. In early childhood he removed with his parents to Sardinia, Erie County, N. Y., where he lived until manhood. He joined the ranks of the Redeemer in 1836. He received license to exhort in 1837, and in 1838 license to preach. In 1838–9 he attended that nursery of the Church, the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, which has sent out so many to minister at the altar of God. In 1840 he was married to Miss M. A. Rhodes, who now looks forward to a joyful reunion with him, where there are no more partings. This same year he entered the traveling connection in the Genesee Conference. At its division he was assigned to the East Genesee Conference, and by the action of the late General Conference he became a member of the Central New York Conference. His fields of labor were Portageville, Belfast, Franklinville, Olean, Corning, Penfield, Walworth, Webster, Lyons, Elmira, Watkins, Frank-street, Rochester, Avon, Geneseo, Troy District, Penn Yan District, and Lyons, where he fell in the fight with his armor on. During the last winter of his life he enjoyed a precious revival on his charge, and his anxieties and labors for the welfare of the Church and the salvation of sinners had been unceasing. On Sunday morning, March 2, 1873, being apparently in his usual health, he preached from Isa. xii, 1, "And in that day thou shalt say, O Lord, I will praise thee." He proceeded as usual in his sermon, and was describing the different kinds of days the Christian has to pass here, as waiting days, watching days, warring days, and weeping days, when he stopped and called for air. While the window was being lowered he leaned his head upon his hand, and then twice attempted to proceed with the sentence, "But these days shall all pass away by and by," but could not, for the summons had come that the Master had need of him. He sank back upon the sofa stricken with apoplexy. He was carried to the parsonage, followed by a weeping and stricken Church, and when laid upon the bed was heard to say, "Think my work is about done." He spoke no more until, a few hours afterward, he sang the praises of Immanuel's name in "the kingdom of our Father."

As a preacher he was clear, logical, and forcible, and ofttimes rose to great sublimity and power; as a pastor his sole care was to build up the Church of God, and as a Christian minister his character and reputation were ever without reproach or stain. As a presiding elder he was greatly beloved by his ministers. He represented his Conference in the trusteeship of her literary institution at Lima, and also in the General Conference.

3. John Hutchins was born in Newark, N. Y., August 29, 1813, and died of brain fever in Horseheads, N. Y., December 6, 1872, aged fifty-nine years. At the age of nineteen he gave his heart to God. When converted he became an earnest worker, going from house to house telling what Jesus had done for him, and exhorting the people to repent and believe the Gospel. He united with the Baptist Church at first, but not feeling at home in this branch of God's Church, he afterward united with the M. E. Church and soon received license as a local preacher. He was received on trial in the East Genesee Conference in 1849. His appointments were Loyalsock, Ulster, Springfield, South Sodus, Jackson, Chemung, and Big Flats. Every-where God richly blessed his labors. Among those converted under his ministry were Rev. Henry Brown, a deceased member of the East Genesee Conference, and Revs. M. S. Kymer, M. F. De Witt, and A. W. Green of this Conference. At Big Flats his health failed, and at the close of the year he took a superannuated relation, in which he remained until his death.

Brother Hutchins was earnest yet prudent, decided yet tender, able yet modest. A year before his death he was ill. His friends were alarmed and momentarily expected death. He, however, was calm. "All these things," said he, "are with the Master; he is my hope—my all; bless his name forever." From this attack he never fully recovered. During the last few weeks of his life his pastor commenced a protracted meeting, in which Brother Hutchins assisted with great earnestness and power. One of those then converted was a daughter for whom he long had prayed. While the revival work was yet progressing he was stricken down by a severe attack of brain fever, and in a few days, without a struggle or a groan, he crossed over. There is no doubt about his future.

4. Edward D. Rousa was born in Ithaca, Tompkins County, N. Y., January 19, 1832, and died in Westfield, Tioga County, Pa., May 6, 1873. In the winter of 1848, while living within the bounds of what is now the Brookfield Circuit, he was converted to Christ and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. For some time following he was a student at Lima, N. Y. In 1852 he was received on trial into the East Genesee Conference. During his connection with that Conference he was appointed successively to the following charges: Chatham, Troy, Barrington, Woodhull, Angelica, Wellsville, Rogersville, and East Smithfield. At the close of his labors at Smithfield in the fall of 1863, he was transferred to the Upper Iowa Conference and stationed at La Motte, and afterward at Anamosa. During the Centenary year he labored as Conference Agent for the Church Extension Society. His health failing in the fall of 1866 he received a supernumerary relation and located in 1868. In October, his health having much improved, he was re-admitted into the traveling connection in the Central New York Conference and appointed to Westfield. Here he labored with great earnestness and success through the fall and most of the winter. His zeal for the Master was too much for his strength; he fell at his post, loved and lamented by his Church and congregation.

Brother Rousa as a preacher was practical and earnest. He was a man of indomitable energy and unconquerable perseverance. He was always hopeful, and never afraid to undertake what seemed difficult. These qualities were manifest in some of his efforts in church and parsonage building. Five churches and nearly as many parsonages were erected during his brief pastorate. And he was not without seals to his ministry; many precious souls were brought to Jesus through his earnest labors. But he has gone from labor to his reward. He died in peace.

5. George W. Smith was born in the town of Nelson, Madison County, N. Y., August, 1816, and died May 12, 1873. His parents were Christians. At the age of thirty-five, in 1851, in the M. E. Church at West Eaton, he gave his soul and body's powers to Christ. In 1851 he was appointed leader of a class, and in 1852 was licensed to exhort. His first labors were among his old companions in sin, and in the old school-house where in his boyhood he learned the rudiments of knowledge. In 1854, having previously received a license as a local preacher, he was employed by the Presiding Elder of Cazenovia District on Georgetown Circuit, associated with Rev. William Watson. In 1855 he was recommended to the Oneida Conference, received on trial, and appointed to Lenox Circuit. In 1856 he was appointed to Georgetown Circuit. In both places he labored with great acceptability and apparent fruit in the conversion of souls and the spiritual growth of the Church. In 1857 he was appointed to Onondaga Circuit, and in 1858, on account of poor health, he was granted a superannuated relation and returned to his farm in Nelson, where he remained one year. In 1859 he resumed his position in the effective ranks and was appointed to Delphi, where he remained two years and saw the salvation of God among the people. In 1861 he was appointed to Varna, where he remained two years, and in 1863 as missionary to Bennett's Corners and Oneida Indian Mission. This was his last field. For nine and a half consecutive years as a faithful watchman he stood at the post of duty, until October, 1872, when on account of declining health his Conference granted him a superannuated relation, and, followed by the prayers of the Church, he returned to West Eaton, after the joys and sorrows of an itinerancy of nearly twenty years, to droop and die. Almost the entire community assembled at his funeral, and the sadness deepened as they turned away to leave his manly form in the cold grave.

A. F. Waller.

ALVAN F. WALLER was born in Abingdon, Pa., May 8, 1808, and died of heart disease in Salem, Oregon, December 26, 1872. He was of Methodist parentage, but did not yield to his religious convictions until in 1829, when he found pardon and peace in Christ. Though a young man of great reservation and modesty, he soon began to exhort, and entered the ministry as junior preacher on the Lewiston Circuit, Genesee Conference, in 1832-33. After his marriage, in 1833, he entered the Lima Seminary, where he laid the foundation for successful study in after life. Entering the Genesee Conference that same year he remained a member until 1839, when he came to Oregon, where he continued to labor until released by death. For the space of thirty-two years Brother Waller was identified with every vital interest of Oregon Methodism. He labored among the Indians, and in the pastoral work on our circuits and districts, took an active part in establishing the Pacific Christian Advocate, and toiled for years to build up the Willamette University, besides laboring among the convicts in the Penitentiary. Perhaps more than any other one man he circulated Methodist literature among the people. A man of varied and extensive reading, of constant and unvarying piety, and of the most active benevolence, it may be said that he belonged to the public.

He was a plain honest man, without meretricious ornament; deeply pious, earnest, and progressive. Strong in faith and sanguine in temperament, he became a leader in matters of education and Church extension throughout the country. But his master trait was unflagging perseverance. He knew no failure, but struggled and toiled on without weariness. In one respect these traits of character were particularly manifest, and this was his plead ing individually with men to make their peace with God. By day and by night, on the street and in the workshop, every-where he did it. We have known him to do this as long as Jacob wrestled with the angel, and as a prince he had power with God and with men. With him this became a ruling master-passion, strong even in death; for it was not until his feet had touched the cold waters of the river that he ceased to persuade men to become reconciled to God. But his labors are ended and the lesson of his life will not be lost, for "he being dead yet speaketh." In his last illness he conversed freely of death, viewing it as calmly as though he was going on a journey. "Let me into rest eternal," were his last words on earth.

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

Eleazer Thomas.

ELEAZER THOMAS began his life at Chatham Corners, N. Y., January 16, 1814, and closed it in Northern California, April 11, 1873, while in the discharge of his duties as one of the "Peace Commissioners," under Government appointment, to the Modoc Indians. He began the new life and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at the age of seventeen, when the truth reached his young heart under the preaching of Dr. Augustus Hines. Removing soon after to Western New York, a friend placed in his hand a devotional treatise by Rev. Timothy Merritt. This book seems, under the Spirit of God, to have molded his Christian life. He resolved to consecrate himself wholly to the Lord and his Church. The first work was that of preparation, and he entered the seminary at Lima. He was licensed to preach and admitted into the Genesee Conference in 1838, at the age of twenty-four. During the seventeen years of labor in the Genesee Conference, besides serving acceptably as Presiding Elder, he filled some of the most important charges in the city of Buffalo and other large towns. Multitudes were edified and saved through his pulpit ministrations.

To meet the demands of the work on the Pacific Coast he received a transfer to this Conference in the year 1855, four years after the transfer of the sainted scholarly Bannister, whose memoir he prepared and read at our last Conference session. He was first appointed to Powel-street. The next year he was elected editor of the California Christian Advocate, which position he held continuously for twelve years. The smallness of our membership, the unsettled, roving disposition of the population, and the prevailing ungodliness, rendered the establishment of a religious paper a work of great and peculiar difficulties; while, to prevent financial embarrassment, it became a necessity to join the labors of agent with the duties of editor. Our Book Depository is chiefly due to his instrumentality; and the care and labor necessary to its establishment were borne and performed during the last years of editorial toil. In 1868 he was released from the responsibility of editor, and elected by the General Conference Second Book Agent of the Concern in New York, and placed in charge of the San Francisco business. Last year, at the Conference in San Jose, having been out of the regular pastoral work for sixteen years, he was appointed by Bishop Foster Presiding Elder of the Petaluma District. He was twice elected a member of the General Conference, first by the Genesee, and next by the California Conference.

As a man our departed brother was rich in natural endowments, and their balancings and happy adjustments. His was a character complete, and well fitted to bear weighty responsibilities. As a Christian, he believed and professed and experienced "full salvation." Who that knew him can doubt that he died realizing the saving efficacy of the blood that "cleanseth from all sin?" "You know," said he, to one who intimated that this mission might cost his life, "that I have always dreaded a lingering old age; if I go that way it will be cut short. The will of the Lord be done; it will be but one step." As a preacher, Dr. Thomas combined deliberation with a ready utterance, logic with persuasive pathos, and at times the Divine unction which attended his ministrations rendered them, in the truest and sublimest sense, eloquent. As a Methodist, his broad catholicity of spirit endeared him to many members and ministers of other denominations, while he was at the same time unalterable in his attachment to the doctrines and polity of the Methodist Episcopal Church. As a member of Conference, he regarded punctuality in attendance upon its sessions, and careful attention to the details of business, duties ever sacred. Few questions could arise or resolutions be offered that did not come under the scrutiny of his ever-watchful eye. At such times he was quick to decide, strong in his convictions, ready in debate, but cool, cautious, courteous, cogent. When he received, by telegram from Washington, his authority to act as Peace Commissioner, he immediately felt the promptings of duty that could not be disregarded, and characteristically was ready with this appropriate answer to any one who would dissuade him: "It has been my calling to carry peace to men, that is my mission now." Again, when spoken to of the danger, he said, "Heaven is just as near from the Lava Beds as from Napa City."

His presence and counsel will no more bless our annual gatherings. But the results of his labor are here, and his soul has ascended to join that redeemed multitude which no man can number.

L. M. Greenlaw,* W. R. Taylor,* W. S. C. Walker, C. Lambert, Z. S. Clifford, James Copeland, J. S. Powell—7.

1. W. S. C. WALKER was born in Warren County, Tenn., June 27, 1830. His early training was of the best. When he was twenty-four years of age he gave his heart to Christ. In 1865 he was admitted into the Southern Illinois Conference on trial. His appointments were New Haven, Carmi, Grayville, Marion, and M'Leansborough. He was heartily welcomed at this his last charge. He led the prayer-meeting on Saturday night, feeling as well as usual, excepting a slight soreness of the throat, which he supposed was caused from labor during the week of prayer. Early Sunday morning he sent for his Presiding Elder, Rev. L. C. English. With great difficulty he gave him some instructions concerning the love-feast and other services of the day, and then said, "Brother English, if I choke to death to-day tell the brethren next fall that I died at my post." On being asked in regard to his preparation for such an event, he repeated the verse commencing,

"Happy, if with my latest breath
I may but gasp his name."

But his disease, acute laryngitis, finished its work at twenty minutes before noon the same day, (January 12, 1873.) His beaming countenance, uplifted hand, and repeated efforts to utter the triumph of his soul, were emphatic testimonies that faith in the Lord Jesus supports in a dying hour. His exultant death was a fitting complement to his faithful life.

2. CAVEY LAMBERT was born in Haxley, in Lancashire, England, January 1, 1809, and died at his home in Edwards County, near Grayville, Ill., March 13, 1873, aged sixty-four years. He emigrated to America in 1831 and settled in Edwards County, Ill. In July of the same year he was married to Miss Charlotte Dewhurst. He was converted and joined the M. E. Church in his twenty-fourth year, and was appointed class-leader the same year. He was licensed to preach in 1835. He supplied Olney Circuit in 1850 and Lawrenceville in 1851, and the same year was admitted on trial in the Illinois Conference. His appointments were Newton Circuit, Louisville Mission,

* Obituary not received.

Massillon, Walnut Hill, Hickory Hill, and Louisville. In 1861 he was superannuated. In 1862 he was appointed to Flora and Mt. Erie Circuit, then to Hickory Hill again. In 1865 he was once more superannuated, and so remained until the Saviour said, "Come up higher, and enter into thy rest." To know him was to love him. He was true to all the interests of the Church. It can be truly said of him, he was "full of faith and the Holy Ghost."

3. ZELOTES S. CLIFFORD was born in 1815, in New Hampshire. His parents moved westward when he was a child. His educational advantages were limited, yet by diligent application, and with the advantage of a good memory, he acquired a very large fund of information. He experienced the power of saving grace and joined the M. E. Church in 1840, and became a member of the Indiana Conference in 1843. He was appointed to the following fields of labor: Muncytown, Nashville, Martinsville, Mooresville, Carlisle, New Lebanon, Morgantown, Agent for Asbury Female College, New Albany, New Albany Circuit, Mt. Vernon, and Mt. Vernon Circuit. His health being now poor, he took a supernumerary relation for two years. In 1860 he was transferred to the Southern Illinois Conference and appointed to Shawneetown and Equality. He joined the Twenty-ninth Regiment Illinois Volunteers in 1861 and was appointed chaplain, in which capacity he served until his health compelled him to resign, after three years of toil and exposure. At the Conference of 1865 he was appointed to Mt. Vernon District, where he labored three years, at the close of which he was appointed to Mt. Carmel District for one year. His health now required him to take a superannuated relation, which he held for three years until called to his reward October 23, 1872. On his return from our last Conference, held at Mt. Vernon, October 2–7, he took a severe cold, which terminated in typhoid pneumonia. All that medical skill and tender nursing could do was done to arrest the disease, but without avail, and after seven days of intense suffering death ensued. During his last days he was cheerful, and often very happy. His testimony was direct, explicit, and triumphant.

Brother Clifford was a man of fine personal appearance, an able minister of the Gospel, a true friend, a fearless and energetic worker for Jesus. Hundreds have been converted and added to the Church through his instrumentality.

4. JAMES COPELAND was born in Reynolds County, Mo., August 21, 1836, and died in Lebanon, Ill., October 12, 1872. Brother Copeland experienced religion, joined the M. E. Church, South, was licensed to preach, and admitted on trial in the St. Louis Conference in the year 1832. He labored successfully in this Conference for about ten years, but being antislavery in sentiment found it necessary soon after the opening of the war to seek a home in a free State. He was admitted on trial in the Southern Illinois Conference at the session held in Litchfield, and entered upon the work with the earnest zeal characteristic of a true itinerant minister. His last charge was Shiloh, which he served faithfully to the close of the year, though laboring under great physical infirmity. At the Conference held in Cairo, September 27, 1871, he was granted a superannuated relation, which was also continued the next year. But his work was done. Five days after the close of Conference he went to live with the angels.

As a preacher he was plain, practical, and earnest. He preached as one having a message from God. He was a prudent disciplinarian and attended faithfully to all the duties of a Methodist preacher. He was a positive man—a man of convictions. He accepted the doctrines and discipline of the Methodist Church because he thought them right. Truth was every thing with him, and he took that side of every question which he regarded as right without reference to the supporters of the opposite side. He enjoyed great peace in his afflictions and was always happy. He often said, "I have no desire to live but that I may preach Christ to perishing sinners." Among his last utterances he quoted his favorite text, "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." Thus passed away a humble minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. God takes home his workmen but carries on his work. The memory of the just is blessed.

5. JOSEPH S. POWELL was born in the State of Virginia. At the time of the attempted secession of the South he was residing in Alabama, surrounded by a quiet and happy family and a large circle of friends. But being an open and avowed loyalist he was marked for destruction by his enemies. At the close of the civil war, when the M. E. Church was re-established in the South, he connected himself with the Alabama Conference. In the fall of 1871 he was transferred to the Southern Illinois Conference and appointed to Georgetown Circuit. Here he labored faithfully to the close of the year and then obtained a superannuated relation. Worn down, broken in health, and stripped of his earthly possessions, he retired to Clay City to lie down and die, a martyr in the cause of liberty. His end was peace.

Thomas Orbison.

THOS. ORBISON was born in Waringstown, County Down, Ireland, March 13, 1813. His parents were members of the Established Church. When thirteen years of age he was soundly converted and united with the Wesleyans. At the early age of seventeen, while living in Belfast, he was licensed as an exhorter, and was ordained in Dublin, June 22, 1844. In 1849 he removed to America. After his arrival here he united and labored in connection with the Wesleyan Church for a year and a half. A vacancy taking place about that time on the Wauwatosa Circuit, Brother Orbison was employed as supply, and at the close of the year he united with the Wisconsin Conference. His appointments were as follows: Wauwatosa, Kingston, Berlin, Plover, Brothertown, Utter's Corners, Footville, Sun Prairie, Weyauwega, Waupaca, and Steven's Point. In 1863 he located, and lived in Appleton one year. In 1865 he was employed by Presiding Elder Thomas, of Milwaukee District, to labor on the Hartford Charge. He was soon re-admitted to Conference and returned to the Hartford Charge. After this he was stationed at New Berlin and Oneida Indian Mission. At the close of his third year of missionary labor, in consequence of failing health, he was obliged to take a supernumerary relation, when he located in Appleton.

Brother Orbison was a good man, a careful and judicious manager, and by economy and frugality has left his family in quite easy circumstances. He was thoroughly acquainted with the Methodist doctrines and Discipline. As a preacher he was above mediocrity, and of undoubted Christian integrity. He was a staunch and true friend.

Up to within a short time of his death none of his friends had the slightest idea he was so near his end. Even after he was confined to his bed no danger was apprehended until the Sabbath evening, when he peacefully passed away without a struggle or a groan. For several months prior to the close of the conference year his mind had been unusually peaceful, and his religious enjoyment constantly on the increase. Being unconscious, he left no dying testimony; still no one doubts but his was a safe passage over the rough billows of death.

OBITUARIES

RECEIVED TOO LATE FOR INSERTION IN PROPER PLACE.

Philadelphia Conference.

JAMES B. AYARS was born in Philadelphia August 21, 1800, and died in the Lord March 9, 1873. He was the subject of early and continued religious impressions. During the year 1816 he was effectually awakened under the ministry of Rev. Martin Ruter, and commenced in earnest to seek salvation in the use of every available means of grace, and soon obtained a clear evidence of pardon and acceptance with God. He at once united with the Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, and joined Father Hortz's class. Very soon after his conversion he felt that it was his duty to labor for the salvation of souls, and turned his attention to the acquisition of knowledge by husbanding his time and resources. He was active in the meantime in visiting the sick, conducting prayer-meetings, and entering every open door of usefulness. At that early period he was noted for that industry and zeal which characterized his ministry till the close of life. Having exercised his gifts as an exhorter for a short period, he received license to preach about 1819. He was admitted on trial at the session of the Philadelphia Conference of 1822, and appointed to Lewistown Circuit. He subsequently filled the following circuits and stations: Somerset, Accomac, Queen Anne and Centerville, Kent, Cecil, Bristol, Port Deposit, Dauphin, Chester, St. Johns, Philadelphia, Pottsville, Agent for Dickinson College, Radnor, Smyrna, Springfield, Chester, Philadelphia City Mission, Cecil, Delaware City, Centerville, Greensborough, Sanctuary, Philadelphia, Milestown, Newtown, and Smyrna Circuit. During the last eight or nine years of his life he occupied a supernumerary relation. He was united in marriage to Miss Eliza Tomlinson, November 25, 1828, and found in her an admirable helpmeet. She survives him, and is waiting in hope of a blessed reunion in the better land with her departed husband and the children whom God has taken. One of these, Rev. C. W. Ayars, departed in the Lord, November 18, 1869.

All the interests of the Church received Brother Ayars' attention, and all his energies were devoted to the work of promoting these interests among the people whom he was called to serve. He was abundant in labors and preaching the Gospel of Christ, in "demonstration of the Spirit and of power." Hundreds were converted and added to the Church. He would preach often three times on Sunday, and every night in the week, punctually meeting his engagements, suffering nothing but sickness or death to detain him. He was noted for his interest in the young, always ready to give good counsel and to urge them at once to give their hearts to Jesus; and few among us have been more successful in leading them to Christ. As the fruits of the revivals under his ministry a large number entered the holy ministry and claim him as their spiritual father and guide. He was an ardent temperance man and a devoted lover of his country, believing in the perpetuity of its institutions. When he took a supernumerary relation, having no field of labor, he felt he must not be idle, that his work could only end with his life.

He was a regular attendant at the prayer and class meetings, preaching in the neighborhood, and assisting the ministers whenever called on in near and remote places. Thus he continued to do cheerfully the Master's work. In his last moments God was his support, and his experience was:

"Jesus, thy blood and righteousness
My beauty are, my glorious dress;
'Midst flaming worlds in these arrayed,
With joy shall I lift up my head."

Full of years, and having served the Church long and faithfully, God signed his release, and called him from a world of care, sin, and sorrow, to the joy of his Lord.

New Jersey Conference.

1. JOSEPH M. PIERSON was born in Orange, N. J., August 8, 1807. In 1825 he was converted, and so grew in grace and in favor with the Church, that, in 1837, he was employed by the presiding elder, and in 1838 he was admitted into the New Jersey Conference. His appointments were as follows: Sandystone, Port Jervis, Vernon, Wantage, Stillwater, Parsippany, Madison, Swedesborough, Harrisonville, Bridgeport, Crosswicks. In 1859 his health failed, and he took a supernumerary relation. In 1861 he re-entered the regular work, and was stationed at Willow Grove; 1862, Newport and Dividing Creek; 1863, supernumerary again; 1864, Roseville; 1865, supernumerary for the third time, and so continued until death.

On September 25, 1872, Sister Pierson wrote to a friend: "Mr. Pierson has been quite ill for nearly five weeks, and one of his diseases, dropsy, increases very fast, so that we all think he will not recover." September 29 was his last Sabbath on earth. He very much enjoyed the prayers and religious conversations of those who visited him, and often gave expression to his feelings by exclaiming, "Halleluiah!" "Glory to God!" etc. That evening he led in prayer for the last time, earnestly imploring the divine blessing to rest upon all his family, and that they might finally meet in heaven. During his sickness he frequently said: "Thy will, O Lord, be done! O give me patience to bear all unto the end." When any one spoke of the greatness of his sufferings, he always said, "Nothing to what my Saviour bore for me." On Thursday morning, October 3, he seemed to realize that he should live but a few hours. After the family had gathered at his side, he seemed for a time to have passed beyond the power of speech; but, rallying suddenly, he exclaimed with great fervor, "Blessed Jesus, halleluiah! I want to go where there is more sunlight and air!" and shortly after, pillowed upon the arms of his affectionate daughter, he fell sweetly asleep in Jesus. Thus lived and died an affectionate husband, a kind father, a holy, devoted, and useful minister. Earth is poorer and heaven is richer for such a death.

2. James White was born in Philadelphia, Pa., January 8, 1816. At the age of seven years his father died, and his devoted Christian mother removed to Salem County, N. J. At eighteen years of age he yielded his heart to God and realized a joyful sense of sins forgiven. From that time he became a decided Christian. He soon felt he was called to be a preacher of the Gospel. In 1838 he was received by the New Jersey Conference and appointed to Belvidere Circuit, and then to Flemington, Tuckerton, and Haddonfield, where, in 1841, he was married to Miss Mary A. Willitts, of West Creek, who survives him. He was next sent to Keyport, and subsequently to Bargaintown, Tuckahoe, Cumberland, Cape May, Winslow and Waterford, Gloucester, Swedesborough, New Egypt, Blackwoodtown, Medford, Beverly. In 1861 he became supernumerary. In 1862 he received a Hospital Chaplaincy in the United States Army, and was assigned to the Army Station Hospital, corner Sixteenth and Filbert streets, Philadelphia. In 1863 he was ordered to Beaufort, S. C., and afterward to St. Augustine, Fla. In 1865 he had charge of the Mower Hospital, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, where he remained until the close of the war, when he was honorably discharged from the service. In 1866 he was appointed to the Tabernacle Church, Camden, and subsequently to Port Republic and Smithville, Hammonton, Morestown, Eighth-street and Newton, Hedding Circuit, Turnerville and Chestnut Ridge. He continued to labor until the Sabbath before Christmas. On New-Year's day he went out for the last time. For eight or nine days he was very ill. On the 9th of January he was better, and talked of plans and future labors for the Master. Two days after he said to his wife, "I think when I get well I will prepare and preach a sermon from Rev. xxii, 1: 'And he showed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb.'" Then pausing a moment, he asked, "Don't you think these words are beautiful?" His wife responded, "Yes, very beautiful;" which seemed to please him. These were his last intelligible words, spoken, in all probability, in full view of the waters that flash in the light of the city of God. At seven o'clock on Saturday evening he sank into an unconscious slumber, and at half past two on Sabbath morning, January 12, 1873, he breathed his last. He leaves a wife, a son, and two daughters to the prayers and sympathies of the Church.

Brother White was a man of rare social qualities, and through all his life carried sunshine with him wherever he went. Those who knew him best loved him most. He was a man of exacting honesty, great economy, and retiring modesty. He labored in twenty-five different charges, covering a period of thirty-five years, and, as the result of the united toil of himself and colleagues, he welcomed to the bosom of the Church nearly two thousand souls.

3. Edmund Hance was born in Port Elizabeth, N. J., January 15, 1816. In 1862, when sixteen years of age, he was converted and joined the Union Church, Philadelphia. In 1838 he was licensed to preach, and went to fill a vacancy on the Crosswicks Circuit. In 1839 he was received into this Conference, and returned to the same charge, thence to Flanders, Rockaway, Medford, Belvidere, (while here, in 1844, he was united in marriage to Miss Hannah Maria Woolston,) Woodbridge, Red Bank, Lambertville. Here his health failed, and he was compelled to take a superannuated relation. He commenced the study of medicine, graduating in 1853. The year following he settled in Port Carbon, Pa., and commenced to practice as a physician. After remaining there about a year he removed to Morrisville; thence in the latter part of 1855 to Trenton, where he still continued to practice his profession. Here he was greatly afflicted. Added to his own physical infirmities, his wife and two children were removed by death in such quick succession that he had scarcely time to recover from the overflowings of one sorrow before he was flooded by another. In October, 1860, he was united in marriage to Miss Annie M. Rusling. In 1862, his health having improved, he entered once more the regular work of the ministry, and was stationed at Glassborough, where he remained two years. In 1864 he was stationed at Princeton. In 1866 he became supernumerary, returned to Glassborough, and resumed the practice of medicine. He had a severe attack of pneumonia in April, 1872, which lasted about four weeks, from which he so far recovered that he was able to ride out occasionally; but his system had received a shock from which there was no recovery. His faithful wife attended him for months with all the solicitude of the deepest affection, until she was prevailed on to accompany her sister to her home in Lambertville, in the hope that a few days' relief might so restore her as to enable her to continue her kindly ministrations. In this arrangement Dr. Hance most heartily acquiesced, and, on parting, each encouraged the other that they would soon meet again, improved by their temporary separation. But they met no more on earth. Both grew worse. Nevertheless, Dr. Hance was cheerful; his mind was stayed on God, and he was sweetly and joyfully hopeful to the last. The absence of his wife was his greatest grief; but even after the hope of seeing her had died out, he said resignedly, "The Lord will not give me one pain or pang too many." The last words he spoke to his pastor were, "My soul triumphs in Christ." He quietly breathed his last at six o'clock Friday evening, November 29, 1872, aged nearly fifty-seven years. His beloved wife survived him but two weeks, when she, too, in the rapturous triumphs of the glorious Gospel, joined her husband in the better land. Thus the whole family, with the exception of an only son, has passed away.

Dr. Hance was a most amiable and pure-minded man, an able minister and kind physician. He was held in very high esteem by all who knew him, while the transparency of his character inspired universal confidence. May the mantle of his pure spirit fall on us who remain!

Cincinnati Conference.

Abraham B. Wambaugh was born in Huntingdon County, N. J., October 26, 1815. When two years old his parents carried him to Ohio, where he resided, with some short intervals, until his death. At the age of thirteen years he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and soon felt it his duty to enter the ministry. Thirty-five years ago he was admitted on trial in the Ohio Conference. His fields of labor were Jamestown, Bellefontaine, East Liberty, Jamestown, Columbus, and Circleville.

In 1844, on account of failing health, he located, studied law, and began its practice in the courts of the State, and for some six years he pursued this calling. All this time, however, his mind was ill at ease—he felt it his duty to be about his Master's work. In 1861 the pastor of the Church at Milford entered the army, and Brother Wambaugh was sent there as a supply. The next year, a vacancy occurring at Ripley, he was sent there as a supply, and at the end of this year he was readmitted into the Conference and returned to Ripley. His subsequent appointments were High-street, Springfield, Asbury Charge, Cincinnati, and Avondale, then Mt. Washington. At the last session of the Conference, in 1872, the Preachers' Relief Society determined to send an agent into the field, and Bro. Wambaugh was chosen as peculiarly adapted to the position. Although making very serious sacrifices, he entered at once upon the work assigned him. He traveled extensively through the territory of the Conference, preaching where he had opportunity, advocating the claims of the Society, and creating in almost every place a deep sympathy in the hearts of the people for the worn-out preachers, and the families of those who were destitute. On Saturday, August 16, he visited Gordon, Darke County. He addressed the Sunday-school Sunday morning, and preached in the afternoon. His text was 1 John i, 9: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." When he came to speak of the faithfulness and justice of God, there was a fervid eloquence that fastened the attention of the audience, and frequently a heavenly smile played over his countenance. He had arranged to visit Delaware on Tuesday, and had his trunk all ready; but not feeling well, he deferred starting till evening. When evening came he determined not to start till morning. In the morning he found himself unwell and did not go. Between eight and nine o'clock in the evening the writer called to see him. He was lying on the lounge, but rose, and said he had been feeling badly, but hoped the simple remedies he had been using would soon check the disease, and seemed very hopeful, and even cheerful. He alluded to the fact of having made a partial engagement with Brother J. F. Loyd to attend the Shiloh camp-meeting, but had about concluded to spend the Sabbath at Brookville.

At one o'clock Thursday morning friends were summoned to his room, and with them Dr. Connor. It was apparent then that he was struggling with that fearful disease, cholera. He said to the doctor on entering, "I have not given you a fair chance; it is too late." He soon began to suffer from cramps in his limbs; but no murmur escaped his lips. He cheerfully took all the remedies offered him, and contended manfully with the fearful disease. His wife and children were absent at Ripley. He expressed a desire to see them, and they were summoned by telegraph. When satisfied that the message had been sent he was comforted. He desired some water; having drank it, he said, "That is one of God's gifts. That," said he, "is a great text—the water of life." Then he quoted, "On the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink." At another time he said, "I think I have finished my course; I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness. It is all right whichever way this may terminate." His sister arrived from Dayton soon after ten o'clock A. M. He at once recognized her and seemed gratified. He desired to be raised up in bed, but was too weak to bear it. "Has it come to this?" said he. "Is it possible I am reduced to this in so short a time?" About this time his arms began cramping, and the dew of death to settle on his brow; the monster was conquering. Dr. C. Gish had been called in the morning as counsel, and both physicians labored manfully to arrest the disease, but all in vain. At three o'clock P. M., August 14, 1873, he ceased at once to work and live. He quit the world in great composure, without a struggle or a sigh.

Brother Wambaugh as a preacher possessed more than ordinary ability. He was dignified, yet earnest; chaste in his expressions, yet free from pedantry. With a clear understanding of his subjects his discourses were always instructive and entertaining. He was among the safest counselors in the Cincinnati Conference. His legal knowledge made his services at times exceedingly valuable. In person Brother Wambaugh always presented a dignified appearance, having a keen sense of Christian propriety; and this characteristic was preserved as long as consciousness lasted. He was reserved in the company of strangers, but with intimate friends he was extremely social and very agreeable. To love him, one had only to know him.

Central Illinois Conference.

JOHN CHANDLER was born in the town of Enfield, Conn., October 16, 1797. His parents were members of the Congregational Church. At sixteen years of age he was deeply convinced of sin, and at twenty-four he was powerfully converted, and had a clear assurance that his "sins were forgiven through the blood of the Lamb." Having embraced Calvinism, he was for some time greatly depressed in spirit; but by reading "Fletcher's Checks" and the "Methodist Discipline," his mind was led to grasp the doctrine of free and full salvation, and after duly weighing the subject, he joined on trial the Methodist Episcopal Church in Rochester, N. Y., April 26, 1821. He was licensed to preach in June, 1824, and in the same year was received on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference. For twelve years he traveled large circuits, suffering much from exposure to all kinds of weather, and doing an immense amount of hard work. In those years God gave him many souls, and among them our sainted bishop, Calvin Kingsley. He then traveled four years on the Ravenna District, and four years on the Erie District. His term of service on the Ravenna District was marked by wonderful revivals. In a single year three thousand souls were added to the Church. In 1844 he came to the Rock River Conference, and was stationed in Peoria, where he labored two years. He then spent two years in the northern part of the Conference, one of which was on the Chicago District. Next he spent four years on the Peoria District. After that he spent six years of successful labor in various fields. In 1858 he was appointed to the Rock Island District, and in 1860 to the Kewanee District, where he continued four years. In 1864 he was appointed Centenary Agent. In this agency he finished his regular work; for at the close of the year he was, on account of failing health, superannuated, and from that time till his death he was a great sufferer, but triumphed through the grace of God.

> O may we triumph so,
> When all our warfare's past;
> And, dying, find our latest foe
> Under our feet at last.

His wife, with whom he lived in loving wedlock forty-one years, preceded him to heaven only a little time, having died June 7, 1870. And after severe and protracted sufferings he himself fell asleep in Jesus, at his home in Peoria, on Thursday, August 14, 1873.

Father Chandler was deeply pious, a man of power in prayer and preaching, a prudent officer in the Church, and a princely leader in Israel. He was loved and honored by his brethren, and now that God has called him home, he is sincerely mourned by all.
